Takes $15,500 for family to live moderately

Same family of four can live at austerity level for $9,800 a year or, allowing for luxuries, at $22,500

WASHINGTON (AP) — The typical urban family of four requires $15,500 a year to maintain a moderate standard of living, the Labor Department said Saturday. This, because of inflation, is $1,200 more than in the previous year.

The same family can live at an austere level for $9,800 a year, or at a level allowing some luxuries for $22,500 a year, the government said in its annual analysis of hypothetical family budgets.

The costs, calculated for fall 1975, rose 7 per cent for the low budget, 8 per cent for the moderate budget and 8.2 per cent for the higher budget over the previous year.

By comparison, the size of such budgets a year earlier rose between 12.4 and 14.2 per cent. Last year's smaller increase, though still high by post-World War II standards, reflected the slowing of inflation.

The consumer price index, the best measure of the impact of inflation on consumers, increased at a rate of 12.2 per cent in 1974 and 7.2 per cent in 1975. Consumer prices have risen another 1.5 per cent since the fall.

The annual survey attempts to calculate costs on three different levels of living for a hypothetical urban family consisting of a 38-year-old husband employed full time; his wife, who doesn't work outside the home; a 13-year-old son, and an 8-year-old daughter. The couple is assumed to have been married about 15 years and to be "settled in the community."

The budgets are not based on how families actually spent their money but reflect assumptions about the manner of living. Low-budget families live in rental housing, use public transportation or drive a used car and do most of their own cooking and washing.

At the moderate level, families are assumed to have purchased their own home six years ago, drive a late-model car, buy more meat at the market and dine out occasionally. The higher budget family buys a new car every four years and can afford more household goods and services.

The impact of rising prices of components in family budgets varied between the three groups, reflecting the different standards of living. For example, food prices, which rose 6.8 per cent for the low budget, account for a larger proportion of the total budget at that level. By comparison, food costs for the moderate budget rose 7.9 per cent and 8.2 per cent high bracket cent last year.

The change in food costs for the higher budget was largest because of the "liberal-cost food plan" used for that level of living, which includes more purchases of meat, poultry and fish — items that increased the most among foods in price last year.

Rising housing costs had a bigger impact on the moderate and higher budgets in 1975, increasing 9.2 per cent for those families last year, compared with 5.6 per cent for low-budget families.

Personal income taxes, including federal, state and local payments, accounted for the largest increase in the low-family budget, rising 11.6 per cent last year. For moderate and higher budgets, these taxes rose 10.2 and 10.6 per cent, respectively.

The increased cost of medical care was among the fastest rising items in all three budgets last year, climbing 10.8 per cent in the low and moderate budgets and 10.7 pr cent in the higher budget.

The Labor Department said living costs remained lower in some cities in the South. Family budgets ranged from 8 per cent to 18 per cent higher in metropolitan areas than in nonmetropolitan areas.

Anchorage, Alaska, remained the most expensive place to live. In the lower United States, Boston, New York and San Francisco were the most expensive.

For low budgets, annual costs ranged from $8,694 in Austin, Tex., to $10,777 in Boston. The high-budget totals ranged from $19,583 in Austin to $27,285 in the New York area and $30,591 in Anchorage.

Restraint urged by Ford as Syria troops on move

DALLAS (AP) — Amid reports that Syrian troops have crossed into Lebanon, President Ford on Saturday urged restraint by all parties in order to achieve peace in that strife-torn country.

"Our policy in Lebanon is to achieve a permanent cease-fire and to accomplish a political settlement of a very complicated and controversial problem," Ford told a news conference as he campaigned for a second day for votes in the May 1 Texas primary.

Ronald Reagan, Ford's challenger for the Republican presidential nomination, attacked the administration's Lebanese policy later Saturday.

The former California governor, campaigning in Seattle, charged that the United States "missed the boat in Lebanon."

"The U.S. ignored that situation as it was developing at a time when we might have been helpful in preventing this bloodshed," Reagan said.

He said the United States "should have volunteered its services" but not with troops.

President Ford, when asked about published reports that Syrian military units had moved into Lebanon, replied, "I don't believe there has been any rash action by any party so far and we certainly will use our maximum diplomatic influence to make certain that doesn't happen."

Several hundred Syrian troops reportedly entered Lebanese territory on Friday but have since withdrawn, according to sources in Lebanon. There were other reports of border crossings also, however.

Ford told the news conference that he endorses independence and national freedom for the countries of Eastern Europe. But he said "I don't believe the U.S. should say we're going to war if certain things happen in Eastern Europe," He was responding to a question about what America might do if there were uprisings for freedom like those that occurred in Hungary in 1956 and in Czechoslovakia in 1968.

"I think we ought to work within the context of the Helsinki agreement to make sure the freedom and independence of the European nations is achieved and maintained."

This was in response to frequent accusations by Reagan that the Ford adminstration is abandoning the Eastern European nations, leaving them permanently under Soviet dominion.

Hit man slain for botching rubout?

NEW YORK (AP) — Homicide detectives pressed a double investigation Saturday into the critical wounding of a woman and the death of a man believed to be the grinning gunman who shot her outside a Bronx restaurant.

Ex-convict Joseph Messina, 32, was found dead five hours after the assault Friday night. He had been shot four times — twice in the back of the head and twice in the face — in a manner suggesting a gangland rubout.

Police theorized that Messina had been hired to kill 39-year-old Wendy Savino, wife of a former New York City police officer turned private detective and insurance man, and that the gunman was slain for botching the job.

Mrs. Savino climbed into her 1976 Jaguar XL6 and was about to start the engine when the gunman appeared alongside her in the parking lot.

"He smiled at me while he was doing it," she later told police of the shooting, in which five shots were fired from a .38-caliber revolver at pointblank range.

Two of the shots missed, but Mrs. Savino was struck in the head and chest and underwent surgery for the removal of her left eye.

Health hazard from S.F. trash

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Union leaders threatened on Saturday to step up picketing at two city-run hospitals, and Mayor George Moscone expressed concern about health hazards from piles of trash that have gone uncollected since city workers went on strike 12 days ago.

San Francisco's bus, cable car and streetcar system has been shut down by the strike, forcing a quarter-million persons to seek other forms of transportation. Negotiations are scheduled to resume Sunday.

Picketing at hospitals will be intensified in an effort to shut down all nonessential services, said Labor Council secretary John Crowley.

"It's almost immoral to strike these poor people," said Dr. Walter Coulson, medical staff director at San Francisco General Hospital. "They're being used as pawns."

"The garbage is piling up in many areas and there is a possibility of medical dangers if something is not resolved soon," Moscone said.

Sunday's negotiations would be the first since San Francisco's board of supervisors suggested Wednesday night that union pay demands be settled by voters in a referendum measure on the June 8 ballot. Strike leaders rejected the proposal.

Hearst attorneys to plead for mercy

Fear for Patty's life if she goes to prison

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst's lawyers, expressing fear for her safety if she is put behind bars, said Saturday they "will beseech the judge in the strongest terms not to send her to prison."

Lawyer Al Johnson said in an interview he and his partner, F. Lee Bailey, are convinced that a prison sentence for the newspaper heiress "may well result in her death or injury to others."

"Everyone feels there's a severe danger to her life and safety in any institution," Johnson said of his client who faces the possibility of up to 25 years in prison.

He said he and Bailey will raise the safety issue at Miss Hearst's sentencing hearing Monday morning, pleading for mercy from U. S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter, who presided at the heiress' eight-week trial, and for her release on probation.

Carter may impose the maximum 25-year term or grant simple probation.

U.S. Atty. James Browning Jr., who prosecuted Miss Hearst, has not said what his position will be at the sentencing. He was unavailable for comment Saturday.

"We will beseech the judge in the strongest terms not to send her to prison," said Johnson, "and, at the very maximum, to sentence her to a term which — with time served and a suspended sentence or probation — will allow her to be released from federal custody."

Miss Hearst, 22, was found guilty March 20 of armed bank robbery by a jury which believed she willingly joined the terrorist Symbionese Liberation Army in the April, 1974 robbery of the Hibernia Bank.

Johnson did not specify why Miss Hearst's life would be endangered in prison. However, she said at her trial that she lives in fear of reprisals from SLA associates still living underground. She also said she was terrified that SLA members William and Emily Harris, facing trial with her on Los Angeles charges, might have her killed.

Miss Hearst, who spent many months as a fugitive, implicated 17 persons in her underground voyage, leaving them open to possible criminal charges. It is also rumored that she will be a prosecution witness in proceedings against others.

Her lawyers said they would point out at the sentencing that Miss Hearst was originally a kidnap victim of the SLA.

"The most extenuating circumstance is the fact that she was an undisputed kidnap victim," said Johnson.

The main thrust of his plea, Johnson said, will be that "she's had enough."

Loch Ness denizen a horned, long-necked creature

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — The Loch Ness monster, legendary inhabitant of a deep Scottish lake, is described by researchers as a long-necked creature with horns on its head.

They base their impression on a series of fuzzy photographs they say show the monster swimming in Loch Ness last summer.

The photos caused a furor last November when their existence first was reported. The researchers published a detailed account of their findings in today's edition of Technology Review, a publication of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

"Although we make no claim to being expert zoologists, we can find no combination of phenomena that account for these data as well as the simple explanation that a large creature inhabits the loch," they said.

The study was conducted by the Academy of Applied Science, a research group whose president is Robert H. Hjnes, dean of the Franklin Pierce Law Center in Concord, N.H.

The heart of their findings is a series of murky color photographs. One of the most dramatic shows "the head of a creature, with bilateral symmetry indicated, in half profile, with the nostrils and open mouth at the right and several horn-like projections at the top." By "bilateral symmetry," they meant that the left half of the head looked like the right half.

They said the neck is about 1½ feet thick, the mouth nine inches long and one of the horns six inches long.

Another picture depicted a luminous, pink blob attached to a long, snaky neck. The researchers said it was about 20 feet long and appeared to be "the upper torso, neck and head of a living creature."

The objects photographed passed in and out of the camera's view, they said. They could not have been rocks because the lake's bottom was out of the camera's range.

Several times, they said, irregular, dappled shapes appeared on the film after the camera was bumped hard enough to make it swing wildly.

The study stirred up a new wave of speculation about the existence of the fabled monster.

George R. Zug, curator of the Division of Reptiles and Amphibians at the Smithsonian Institution, said, "I believe these data indicate the presence of large animals in Loch Ness but are insufficient to identify them."

Sir Peter Scott, a British naturalist, even gave it a name — Nessiteras rhombopteryx, which in Greek means roughly "Ness monster with the diamond-shaped flipper."

However, a team at the Natural History Museum in London said it was unconvinced by the pictures and speculated that some of the objects on the film could be gas bubbles.

There have been legends of monsters in Loch Ness throughout history. The first reported sighting was in 565 A.D., when Saint Columba, the man who brought Christianity to Scotland, was said to have been frightened off by a monster in the lake.

California begins picking Demo delegates

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The long process of selecting 280 California delegates to the Democratic National Convention will begin today at 344 separate locations scattered across the state.

More than 4,000 potential delegates will be elected at the caucuses.

That roster will be trimmed by the eight active candidates by 1,680 propsective delegates next Friday. Then, on June 21, the first 210 delegates will be named, based on results from the June 8 primary. The final 70 will be named June 23.

Locations of the caucuses are as varied as California itself. They include:

Wallace backers at the Holiday Inn in Fairfield, Brown backers at the fairgrounds in Dixon, Carter backers at the Hollywood High School auditorium, Harris backers at the American Legion Hall in La Crescenta; Udall backers at the San Bernardino Convention Center.

Republicans will elect 167 delegates in a winner-take-all primary. The GOP slates are picked statewide May 9 by the two candidates, President Ford and former California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

— Nine Democrats will be on the ballot, but one of them, Indiana Sen. Birch Bayh, has an inactive campaign and did not file the necessary papers to win delegates. That, in effect, negates what popular votes he may win.

— Candidates eligible to win delegates are Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., former Gov. Jimmy Carter of Georgia, U. S. Sen. Frank Church of Idaho, former U. S. Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington, abortion foe Ellen McCormack of New York, Congressman Morris Udall of Arizona and Gov. George Wallace of Alabama.

— Backers of each of the eight active candidates are to meet Sunday in separate caucuses in each of California's 43 congressional districts and elect 10 prospective delegates in each district. Any registered Democrat is eligible to participate in, and vote, in any one of the caucuses in his home district.

— By April 16, each candidate must pick prospective delegates, ranging from four to seven per district, depending on the number of registered Democrats in each district.

Candidates are not bound to pick from the prospective delegates elected Sunday, but Secretary of State March Fong Eu says, "It is generally expected that the majority of the delegates will come from the caucus lists."

— The June 8 voting for presidential contenders will be counted by congressional district, and the delegates in each district will be divided up in proportion to the vote in that district.

— On June 21, candidates will name their delegates from each district, selected from the April 16 rosters they filed. That process will select 210 delegates.

— On June 23, the final 70 delegates will be allocated in proportion to the division of delegates won in congressional districts. Each candidate may fill those slots without regard to congressional district or any previous delegate list. That is a provision intended to give party leaders a place on the delegation.

"She had it made as soon as she came into the arena," said Betty Lawie, who served as ring steward for the competition. "She's a pretty girl, her horse was well-groomed, and she carried herself well."

Contestants were judged on personality, horsemanship and the horse's appearance as they showed off their mounts in the Chino Valley Riders' arena.

Miss Harris, who rode "Sally's Queen," said she has been rding since she was 3. She also enjoys giving riding lessons, training horses, and painting.

Miss Harris, who lives in the Claraboya section of Claremont, said she entered the contest because "I thought it would be fun."

She will lead the annual Chino Rancho Ride, scheduled for April 25. The family event normally attracts about 1,000 horsemen and covers nearly 20 miles of mountain trails into Soquel Canyon in the Chino Hills.The ride begins from the staging area at Yorba Avenue and Bird Farm Road in Los Serranos about 9 a.m.

Riders make their way to the arena in Soquel Canyon where a barbeque and riding events are held.

Grand marshal for this year's ride will be Andy Anderson, local realtor who is a member of the rancho ride association.

Runners-up to Miss Harris in the queen contest were Tammy Tucker, 15, of Pomona, Linda Abacherli, 17, of Chino and Janette Frey, 16, of Mira Loma. They will serve as princesses for the ride.

New cable TV service underway in Upland

Residents of Upland who have been subscribers to International Cable Television System started receiving programming from Theta Cable Television last week.

According to Mike Matlock, Upland administrative specialist, the new service is the culmination of over three months of cooperative effort between the two cable companies which are franchised by the city.

"It is hoped through the cooperation of these two systems that International subscribers will now receive the same quality service that Theta subscribers in the city receive," Matlock said.

At the beginning of the year, International Cable Television was threatened with the loss of its franchise because of complaints by customers of poor service and extended blackouts.

The Upland City Council delayed any action until the two companies could work out an agreement mutually satisfactory to both firms.

"We are pleased that this relationship could be worked out and we expect that International customers will also be pleased," Matlock said.

However, Matlock indicated that the city staff would appreciate hearing of any problems which do arise. Costumers with problems are asked to call the city hall, 982-1352, ext. 20, to register complaints.

But forclosure rate tapering off

More homeowners behind in their mortgage payments

WASHINGTON (AP) — A higher proportion of homebuyers are behind on their mortgage payments than at any time in nearly a decade, but analysts say there is no immediate danger of a crisis in foreclosures.

For one thing, although an increasing number of people are tardy in meeting payment deadlines, the rate of foreclosures is tapering off in the most recent statistics.

And savings and loan officials say the deferral of house payments is typical at the end of a recession, when people are buying the cars and other big-ticket items they denied themselves when the economy was in a pinch.

But the mortgage payment delinquency increase has an added significance for unemployed homebuyers who still haven't felt personally the impact of the recovery which started statistically last May. Even though foreclosures are dwindling, a continued increase in delinquencies could prompt the federal government to offer government-insured loans to enable unemployed homebuyers to keep up their payments.

Here is what the statistics show. The U.S. League of Savings Associations said 1.06 per cent of the home mortgages outstanding at its 900 survey associations were 60 days or more behind on payments in February. That is up from 1.03 per cent in January and the highest since a 1.08 per cent delinquency rate in June, 1966.

Meanwhile, the Mortgage Bankers Association, the organization with the most up-to-date statistics on real estate foreclosures, said 38 out of every 10,000 mortgages held by its members were in the process of foreclosure during the three-month period ended in December. That was off from 42 out of 10,000 in the previous quarter and was the lowest since an identical rate in the second quarter of 1971.

Of the two figures, economist John M. Wetmore of the Mortgage Bankers says he considers the foreclosure rate the most significant. "That indicates whether people are getting into really deep trouble, and it's pretty clear that they're not."

He attributed the declining foreclosure rate to people's determination to protect the equity which rising home prices have added to their investments. He did express reservations, however, over the possibility that the delinquency rate may be a reflection of new home buyers who made a downpayment of 5 per cent or less in recent years and have a minimal equity investment and thus feel they have little to lose if the lender forecloses.

The League of Savings Associations, however, attributes the major impetus behind rising delinquency rates to spending on expensive consumer goods. Consumers cut back their debt load on autos, for example, by about $1.8 billion during the recession, but have increased their indebtedness by the same amount in the last 13 months.

"We don't think it's any cause for concern," said a spokesman for the league.

Meanwhile, the composite index of mortgage delinquencies kept by the Department of Housing and Urban Development stands at 1.1 per cent in the latest computation, which covers the final three months of 1975.

When the rate hits 1.2 per cent, which would be comparable to conditions in 1963, two years after a recession more mild than the latest one, HUD Secretary Carla A. Hills can authorize federal guarantees of homebuyers assistance loans.

The department said in its latest report Feb. 27 that voluntary forebearance by mortgage lenders appears to be helping distressed home buyers. But HUD also projected lower delinquency rates early this year rather than the higher rates which have actually occurred.

HUD's next assessment of the situation is due at the end of this month.

CHECKING THE PLANS

Thanks to an Eagle Scout project, new plants and trees will be placed near the Claremont City Hall and the Bank of California at First and Yale streets. Checking plans for the project are (from left) Tim Hansen, 17, of Explorer Post 124, Campbell Wright and Derek Huall, of Boy Scout Troop 124. The project is Hansen's, who is working for his Eagle Scout badge. Tim completed the landscape design for more than 120 plants, involving 24 hours of work.

Evacuation from flood area begins

MINOT, N.D. (AP) — The first of more than 12,000 persons began evacuating their homes Saturday as the Souris River rose steadily toward its fourth flood in seven years.

The river, which winds through this city of 30,000 persons, is expected to crest April 19.

Residents were ordered to move out of 3,500 homes — about 12,000 persons — in the Minot area by next Thursday.

City Engineer Burton Peckham said additional homes on the fringes of the threatened areas will have to be evacuated later because utilities will be cut off.

"If you're on the edges of the flood zone and in doubt, evacuate," he said.

Dikes were constructed throughout the city. In some places they were 12 feet high, and James Ruyak, the man in charge, said: "I don't know how much higher I can build them."

Ruyak, construction chief for the St. Paul, Minn., District of the Army Corps on Engineers, ordered more dirt and kept building.

"The system should be done by Thursday," he said. "But whether the dikes will stand there or how much water goes under them, I don't know."

City Manager John Arnold said Saturday he was asking the federal government for mobile homes to help house the evacuees during the emergency. He said city residents outside the flood plain had been asked to volunteer extra space in their homes.

County's central core population down, suburbs up

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles County planning commissioners say the county's central core is losing population and the outlying sections are gaining.

In a report, the planners said their studies showed that the central core's population dropped by 5.2 per cent from 1,754,188 to 1,663,800, between the April 1, 1970, federal census and last July 1.

The central core area was described as including the Adams, Central, East, Hollywood, Northeast, Southeast and Wilshire statistical areas.

Losses for the five-year period were also recorded in Long Beach, down 5.9 per cent; Inglewood, 5.5 per cent; and Compton, 10.1 per cent.

The San Gabriel Valley recorded a 1.4 per cent gain during the same period. The San Fernando Valley's population rose by 1.3 per cent and the Palos Verdes Peninsula went up by 16.7 per cent.

The growth rate in the suburban areas was smaller than in the 1960s. The greatest growth rate was in the most distant sections of the county. In the Santa Clarita Valley, population was up 26.5 per cent; Antelope Valley, up 7.7 per cent; and Calabasas-Las Virgenes, up 53.7 per cent.

Graf Spee's former crew plan reunion

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Some 150 former crew members of the German battleship Admiral Graf Spee will hold a reunion beginning Monday in the Andean city of Mendoza, a spokesman said.

The battleship was scuttled in the River Plate early in World War II to keep it out of Allied hands.

The spokesman said the "Second Encounter of Comradeship" will last until Saturday and include only survivers of the ship's final engagement in the River Plate.

The Germans evacuated and sank the Admiral Graf Spee in 1939 after a 14-hour running sea battle in the South Atlantic with the British cruisers Achilles, Ajax and Exeter. Two days later her captain, Hans Langdorf, committed suicide in Buenos Aires, where he is buried.

Two men standing in roadway hit by auto

Two men who stopped their small truck in the middle of Towne Avenue in Pomona to retrieve a sheet of wood paneling were injured when another car slid into them from the rear.

According to police, Leonard J. Vacarro, 34, of Riverside and Joseph E. Borje, 55, of 1731 N. Towne Ave., were standing in the northbound lanes of Towne Avenue at Grove Avenue when the accident occurred Friday night.

A car driven by James A. Clark, 18, of 607 Stanwood Ave., Pomona struck the men and their vehicle.

Police said Clark apparently could not see the lights on the stopped truck because of the wood paneling the two men were loading into the back of the truck.

Vacarro was admitted to Pomona Valley Community Hospital and was in satisfactory condition Saturday night. Borje was treated at the hospital and later released.

Youth shot in shoulder

An 18-year-old Ontario man was shot by another youth as he jumped from a car in Pomona Friday afternoon, police said.

Charles Minner was shot in the shoulder by a 19-year-old youth in front of 2145 Saticoy St. following an argument about 12:45 p.m.

Police said the victim apparently accused the suspect of burglarizing his mother's home. The suspect later spotted Minner while driving on Saticoy and chased him. Minner was shot as he leaped from his car.

He was taken to Kaiser Hospital, Fontana, and was reportedly in fair condition.

Chino teacher-coach quits

A Chino teacher who was informed by school officials that he would not be rehired next year has resigned his position.

J. Darold Tucker, track coach and math teacher at Don Lugo High School, had requested a hearing on charges broght by district administrators. The hearing was set for Monday, but Supt. Royce Lapp said it has been canceled.

Asked if the resignation had been forced, Lapp said, "According to law, there is no such thing as a forced resignation."

Tucker's resignation, which has been accepted by the school board, is effective June 30. Tucker said he left his post to enter the college teaching field.

ESAA plans retreat to Cedar Lake

"Brotherhood, the Spirit of '76!" is the theme of a human relations retreat being planned by the Pomona Unified School District's Emergency School Aid Act (ESAA) Basic Project for the weekend of April 23-25.

The retreat will be held at Cedar Lake, a conference center near Big Bear Lake. The 75 participants will include parents of students in ESAA classes, teachers, administrators, members of the school board and ESAA staff members.

During the weekend, they will engage in various activities designed to promote better human relations and to further understanding among people of all races and ethnic backgrounds. Outside facilitators will include experts in the human relations field, such as Clarence Webb, coordinator of community relations for the City of Pomona, and Roger Granados of Manpower, Inc., and Mt. San Antonio College's continuing education division.

Various human relations activities and group discussions will be featured during the weekend, as well as multicultural musical entertainment.

LaVonne Caldwell, ESAA parent involvement specialist, heads the committee planning the retreat. Other committee members include Shirley Alvarez, Doreen Keepers, and Pauline Kennebrew, parent involvement assistants; Mel Banks and John Avila, coordinators of Intergroup Education for the school district; Marcella Cortez and Linda Wright, ESAA parents; Jean Duncan, ESAA's project assistant for staff development; Granados and Webb.

All retreat expenses are paid by the ESAA project. Bus transportation will be provided, with buses leaving the Pomona Education Center parking lot at 4:30 p.m. on Friday and Returning Sunday at 3 p.m.

Parents of students in ESAA classes who would like to attend may register on a first-come, first-served basis by calling the Parent Involvement staff at 621-5027 by Wednesday.

SUB-REGAL RETIREMENT

The Queen Mary lies in her berth in the harbor at Long Beach — a grande dame of the Atlantic becoming a ghost ship of the Pacific in her retirement. The underused car park beside her reflects her failure to draw large numbers of visitors.

Facing financial problems

The Queen Mary sinking slowly

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Hitler once offered $250,000 and an Iron Cross for the sinking of the Queen Mary. Her present crew of merchants and tour guides would gladly scuttle her for less.

The grand old dame of the Atlantic seems in danger of becoming a ghost ship in the Pacific. Her restaurants and 400-room hotel are half empty. Her museum faces eviction proceedings. Her shopkeepers are either jumping ship or mutinying against maintenance bills imposed by the City of Long Beach.

Rising costs and a scarcity of visitors threaten to succeed where Nazi U-boats failed.

Long Beach city officials deny that their queen is foundering, although they admit her retirement at Pier J has not been as profitable as was hoped. They have hired a consultant to do some fiscal bailing and ironing out of what they call "a problem of confused management."

The Queen Mary has been in troubled waters ever since the City of Long Beach purchased the former luxury liner for $3.75 million in 1967. She wallowed in a sea of red ink almost from the day she berthed in Long Beach Harbor.

Cost overruns in converting the vessel to a floating commercial complex and tourist attraction leaped from the original $8 million estimate to $62 million — $36 million more than it cost the British to build the Queen Mary in 1934.

Federal grand jury investigators discouraged some would-be tenants by looking into the possibility of an organized crime connection in a shipboard pinball concession. No indictments were returned.

Specialty filed 35 lawsuits in 38 months to collect back rent and other unpaid bills from its financially strapped merchant tenants.

The tenants complain that the Queen Mary simply has not lived up to all the promotional hoopla that marked her arrival eight years ago. The ship that carried 4 million passengers on commercial round trips and 810,000 troops during World War II seems to have lost her drawing power along with her engine power.

A state government is created

By Dr. Francis G. Walett
Worcester State College

As Gov. John Wentworth of New Hamshire saw his power slipping away rapidly in early 1775, he decided to call the colonial assembly into session. Perhaps this body would help to restore British authority, especially since the governor had tried to arrange the election of representatives more sympathetic to him. When the election results disappointed him, Wentworth postponed the meeting of the assembly.

The press and the American Revolution

"Spectator," writing in the NEW HAMPSHIRE GAZETTE, March 17, 1775 condemned this arbitrary step as the latest of a series of actions by the governor which had "deprived the people from any share in their own government for nearly twelve months." The writer further deplored the fact that New Hampshire citizens had been forced to accept "the sad necessity of being governed by the Crown or its immediate servants, or being reduced to a state of anarchy."

By the time the governor convened the legislature, the province was in open rebellion against him. The assembly, which Wentworth had tried to pack with his supporters, failed to offer him any help and it was soon adjourned.

One of Wentworth's friends elected to the legislature, the Loyalist John Fenton of Plymouth, took refuge in Wentworth's mansion in Portsmouth. As the governor himself told the story: "The Spirit of Outrage runs so high that . . . my House was beset (by rebels), who proceeded to such a Length of Violence, as to bring a Cannon directly before my House, and point it at my Door, threatening Fire and Destruction unless Mr. Fenton . . . instantly deliver Himself up to them."

After Fenton surrendered himself and was carried away to Exeter, Wentworth took his family to Castle William and Mary in the harbor. The governor's home in Portsmouth was promptly ransacked by the Patriots.

Although Wentworth tried to issue orders and even convene his council at the Castle these efforts were futile. When H.M.S. SCARBOROUGH, which had been anchored nearby, headed for Boston for supplies, Wentworth left with her. A half hour later Patriots led by John Sullivan and John Langdon took over the fort.

The departure of Gov. Wentworth from New Hampshire meant the end of the last vestige of British power in the province. It also meant that with the old political system overturned, the citizens of the colony would have to make new governmental arrangements.

And so it was elsewhere in America, too, as the Revolution progressed. When royal governors and other British representatives fled before Patriot uprisings, new governments had to be set up.

In New Hampshire, Patriots had begun to create extra legal agencies of government even before Gov. Wentworth had been driven out. Struggling to maintain control of the province, the governor dissolved the colonial assembly in the early summer of 1774. At this point the committee of correspondence called upon representatives to meet at a tavern in Portsmouth where it was agreed to hold a Provincial Congress at Exeter on July 21, 1774.

When the Provincial Congress gathered, 85 delegates attended. John Sullivan and Nathaniel Folsom were chosen to represent New Hampshire in the First Continental Congress scheduled to meet in Philadelphia, a treasurer was appointed to manage finances, and it was voted to send relief to those suffering from the Boston Port Bill. This first Provin-

A crucial question faced the Patriot leaders in New Hampshire as elsewhere in 1775 and early 1776: How far and in what manner should they proceed in assuming the powers of government? In those uncertain days when many hoped for a reconciliation of the quarrel with Britain, there was the feeling that any new arrangements might be temporary.

New Hampshire, stating that her affairs were in a "convuls'd state," asked the Continental Congress for advice. Congress responded, as noted in the CONSTITUTIONAL GAZETTE, Dec. 6, 1775, that the colony should erect a government that "will best promote the happiness of the people and preserve peace and good order during the temporary dispute with Great Britain."

This general advice was not enough. Ever since the departure of Gov. Wentworth the feeling had been growing that the Provincial Congress should assume full governmental power and should draft a constitution for the province. Accordingly, the fifth Provincial Congress proceeded to draft a constitution that was adopted Jan. 5, 1776. It was the first of the new American state constitutions.

New Hampshire's framework of government provided for a popularity elected House of Representatives and a council of 12 elected by the House. The legislature, checked only by an annual election, would be almost absolute in power. No mention was made of a governor or a judiciary.

Drawing its power from the people rather than the crown, the New Hampshire government went into operation. Whatever its weaknesses, this constitution lasted until 1784.

Before long, other state governments followed New Hampshire's examples, adopting constitutions to provide a basis for government. Ideas about the best arrangements varied a good deal, and there was considerable trial and error with several states adopting more than one constitution.

Everywhere, however, most power was given to elected legislatures and executives were either nonexistent or very weak. Everyone seemed to agree with the statement in Virginia's constitution that "all power is vested in and consequently derived from the people."

Of great significance was the fact that all of the state constitutions included a bill of rights, which promised protection of life, liberty and property; the rights of freedom of religion, speech, and assembly; and provided for fair bail, prompt hearings, and trial by jury for persons accused of crimes.

Without a doubt early state experiments with new governments were hesitating and mild and constituted no great departure from colonial political experience. They were a beginning, however. And to New Hampshire must go the credit for having adopted the first of the new state constitutions.

Flying a habit for family

EXCELSIOR, Minn. (AP) — Flying has been a family tradition for the Ohrbecks for nearly 60 years now.

The tradition was established by Joseph Ohrbeck, who began flying in 1917, joined an airline in 1929 and flew commercially for 31 years. His son, Richard, also became a pilot and joined the same airline as his father at the age of 19. He has been flying for 33 years.

'Counselor of the Year'

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

John R. Phillips, community work coordinator at Pacific State Hospital in Pomona, has been honored as the national "Counselor of the Year."

A plaque from the National Association for Retarded Citizens on-the-job training program was presented to Phillips by Don Bowling, chief of the Development Disabilities Hospital Services Section of NARC.

Phillips was cited for "his outstanding success in training and placing hospital residents in successful work situations in the community."

During 1974-75, Phillips placed 51 persons in jobs in the community, Bowling said.

"This means these residents change from being tax-supported to being tax-paying," Bowling said.

"Of those placed in jobs in the community, 85 per cent have succeeded at their work. Of the 15 per cent who were terminated, most were not because of failure at the job, but due to moving or other reasons.

Presiding at the recent ceremony attended by a number of state and local officials, Dr. William M. Clover, medical director, explained the value of the work training program.

"Four hundred residents are being assisted to enter work situations in the community," he said.

"Many of these are people who have been institutionalized for from five to 10 years and who now are productive members of the community.

Dr. Clover said that when the program was initially attempted in 1968, local employers were not ready to accept the idea nor was the placement training program effective.

The medical director praised Phillips for his ability to train the resident and then to match him with an employer who could best accommodate him.

Dr. Clover added that all reports from employers have been favorable with the residents described as "reliable, dedicated workers."

Pomona Mayor Ray Lepire presented proclamations from the City of Pomona to both Phillips and Dr. Clover for their contributions to the community.

Also presenting certificates and plaudits were Ted Hawthorne, consultant to the state Department of Education Career Development for the Handicapped; G. Vern Beckett, president of the California Association for the Retarded; Ray Thomas, assistant superintendent of Educational Services, Pomona Unified School District; Mrs. Connie Moya, president of the Parents Coordinating Council at Pacific State; and members of the Pacific State Hospital Advisory Board.

Harry A. Lewis, hospital administrator, concluded the program by outlining the programs for employing residents in contract programs at the hospital. In these projects, residents are paid on the basis of their ability to complete assignments.

He said these residents then use their salaries to purchase such luxuries as radios, clothing and snacks at the hospital canteen.

Chino council approves Civic Center contract

Chino city councilmen have approved the awarding of a contract for the second phase of site development at the Chino Civic Center.

J. B. Crosby of Orange submitted a low bid of $547,000, and received the contract for the work at the city-county complex.

The council's action concurred with the San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors, who had approved the contract on March 29.

Out of the $547,000, $40,000 will be the city's share to build a security wall along the Chino Avenue frontage of the police building, the bridge access and the car service facility.

The remaining $507,000 will be shared equally between the city and county. The city's total share, therefore, is $293,500.

The project's second phase will include grading, construction of parking lots, lighting, fuel pumps, landscaping and irrigation systems, utility connections, storm drains, curbs, gutters and sidewalks.

City Manager Bob Fast said all the major contracts have been awarded, and "all are within the budget. Considering the difficult economic conditions, the project is winding down in good shape."

In other business this week, the council on a 3-2 vote approved changing two no-limit parking stalls in front of Chino Food Locker to 20-minute parking.

A problem had arisen over patrons of a nearby tavern parking in front of the food business on Sixth Street between C and D streets.

Fast said requiring short duration parking in front of the locker should discourage patrons of La Copa Bar from parking there. The staff had indicated, however, that police would have a problem enforcing 20-minute parking.

According to John Gerardi, public works director, patrons of the food locker sometimes cart 200 to 300 pounds of meat to their cars. When they cannot find parking near the locker, it creates obvious problems.

Councilmen Angel Martinez, Pete Garcia and Leonard Frketich voted for the 20-minute stalls, but Mayor Bob McLeod and Councilwoman Eileen Carter opposed the change.

Garcia said the food locker had a "unique problem" but Mrs. Carter stated that customers with heavy purchases should make two trips to their cars with packages.

In another matter, the council approved the hiring of Norwalk attorney Lawrence I. Stern for special work on criminal matters affecting the city.

Fast said that City Atty. Jimmy Gutierrez' law firm is involved in outside criminal defense matters, and that could result in a "conflict of interest" if Gutierrez handled the city's criminal work.

Stern will be paid a $250 annual retainer plus $50 an hour for time spent in court.

Councilmen also approved the purchase of 4.07 acres of park land at Monte Vista Avenue and D street for $65,000. The park is to be acquired with federal Community Development Act funds.

They also approved a two-member council committee made up of Mrs. Carter and Frketich for interviewing of commission applicants. Under recent changes in the Brown Act, the state's anti-secrecy law, the council as a body can no longer interview applicants in closed executive sessions.

SD's new planners not in yet

Three new planning commissioners in San Dimas will not be sworn in until April 21.

The meeting and official swearing in of Jim Butler, Jim Clampett and Nicholas Martocchio was postponed from this week to April 21 following a ruling by City Atty. Norman Oliver based on provisions of the government code and the Moscone Conflict of Interest Act.

According to the code, new appointees cannot be sworn in until they file financial statements and conflict of interest reports with the Los Angeles County clerk; and this must be done within 10 days following the date of appointment. The exception to this is in appointing enough new members to constitute a quorum of the body. In this case, Martocchio as the first named could be seated.

Violation of this act could result not only in forfeiture of office, said Oliver, but also exclusion from public office at any level.

No vacation in Chino area

Instead, Chino students will be on spring vacation the week of April 19 to 23, according to school officials.

"We have fears that some parents will pull their kids out of classes next week, or that kids simply won't tell their parents that they are not on Easter vacation," said Supt. Royce Lapp.

Attendance has declined ever since the first year of operation, when 1.5 million persons visited the ship and spent more than $6 million.

There are only 22 tenants in the 50 shops aboard ship, and two of them are leaving, Stewart said. Mary's Gate Village, a shoreside commercial complex next to the ship, is virtually a ghost town with only eight tenants in its 40 shops.

Retail shop revenues were down 19 per cent in the last six months of 1975, paid attendance at the Museum of the Sea dropped 14 per cent and four shipboard restaurants reported an 11 per cent decrease in business.

The Queen Mary's hotel, leased by Pacific Southwest Airlines and managed by Hyatt, is operating with a 50 per cent occupancy rate.

The only figure that has not declined is the cost of running the ship, now more than $3 million a year.

Specialty's bill has nearly doubled from $364,705 in 1971-72 to $682,388 this year. It is pro-rated on a square-footage basis among Specialty's four restaurants and its tenants.

The Queen Mary Museum of the Sea Foundation considers its common area charges excessive. It is refusing to pay another $2 million in back bills demanded by the City of Long Beach.

The city has threatened to take over the museum unless the money is paid by March 30, but this would also mean assuming a $1.3 million debt that the museum foundation still owes the Bank of America.

On March 10, the foundation's board of directors voted to defy the city's eviction notice.

While the city swaps charges with the Queen Mary's mutinous crew, both sides agree that the ship has too many landlords.

PSA, for example, complains that it cannot run a hotel with no control over food and beverage on board. Its chairman has described quality, service and prices in Specialty's restaurants as "atrocious." And the hotel cannot book union conventions because they refuse to eat in Specialty's shipboard restaurants, whose staffs are nonunion.

Although Specialty wants to sell its interest in the project, it has joined PSA and the museum foundation in commissioning a $23,000 study by the Stanford Research Institute to determine if the Queen Mary could ever be a viable commercial enterprise and what type of management it would require.

The City of Long Beach has commissioned its own $48,000 study by Wolff-Sesnon, based on the premise that the Queen Mary is still a viable attraction.

But Stewart and the other merchants say they're tired of losing money while they wait for the consultants.

"There is a time to stop having committee meetings and act to save the Queen Mary," says Stewart. "Little guys like me are getting hurt."

Chino council attempts to fill commission seat

An interview committee will screen applicants who have not been interviewed previously. A candidate for the commission seat then will be recommended to the council, which makes the final selection.

Applicants are not required to be experts in any particular field to serve on the Planning Commission, officials said.

Mayor Bob McLeod, in making the announcement about the vacant seat, said application would be accepted for all commissions at this time. Vacancies do occur occasionally on other city commissions.

Application forms may be obtained at the personnel department, Chino City Hall, 13219 Central Ave., or by calling 628-6011, ext. 48, 49 or 50.

An estimated 100,000 persons drowned in 1911 when the Yangtze River in China overflowed its banks, flooding the area.

In Boston on June 16, 1775, British Gen. Gage issued a proclamation offering a pardon "in the King's name, to all, except Samuel Adams and John Hancock, who will lay down their arms." Colonists were warned that "those who do not accept this pardon will be regarded as rebels and traitors." Three days later, June 19, the Massachusetts Provincial Congress, in reply to Gen. Gage's offer, declared that all those who "shall aid the British are enemies and traitors to their country," The World Almanac notes.

Astara ready to move into Upland

It's more than just a religious organization

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

When Astara, Inc., moves into the former Upland College campus this summer, it will bring to the community more than a program of church services and seminars.

Robert Chaney, president and cofounder of the organization with his wife, Earlyne, said Astara is a publishing organization which sends study lessons and books to members in over 80 countries.

"We are now dispersing $500,000 annually in products, services and salaries," Chaney added.

"That amount will increase considerably when we are established on the Upland campus. We expect it to surpass the $600,000 mark the first year."

Fred Stewart, executive administrator, said that Astara employs a salaried staff of 35 persons. He estimated that the staff will increase to 45 persons by the end of the year.

While most of the staff is expected to move from the present headquarters in Los Angeles, vacancies will be filled with persons from the Upland area, Stewart added.

Astara, a nonprofit religious and educational organization, has been headquartered in Los Angeles for 25 years. It has entered into a purchase agreement with the Salvation Army, owners of the property since the departure of Upland College 10 years ago.

The organization plans to occupy the property as soon as escrow closes.

Chaney said the organization will attract many members from throughout the world to the broad variety of seminars, retreats, special classes and lectures planned on the campus at the corner of Arrow Highway and San Antonio Avenue.

In addition, Sunday church services will be conducted for the nearly 250 persons in the area who are students of Astara's teachings.

Astara operates its own printing facilities for all its publications except books. The printing along with the art and mailing departments, will occupy the building formerly used by the college as a machine shop and maintenance building. Offices will be in the former college administration building.

Chaney said members and students of Astara's teachings usually maintain their prior religious affiliations and subscribe to the organization's material to obtain knowledge in additional areas of religious thought and experience.

Speakers at the seminars and retreats will be drawn from many religious disciplines, including the metaphysical and mystical aspects of Christianity and other religious traditions.

In addition to renovating the buildings and campus, Astara will develop a "Shrine of All Religions" center, an outdoor series of landscaped prayer shrines dedicated to the seven major religions.

Area legislators give support to Cal Poly for veterinary clinic

By L. T. ROGERS
Asst. City Editor

A proposal to establish a food animal veterinary clinic at Cal Poly Pomona for fourth year veterinary school students has drawn support from area legislators.

The California Postsecondary Education Commission is expected to act Monday on recommending a site for such a clinic. Also considered are San Joaquin Valley and Cal Poly San Luis Obispo.

Urging selection of Cal Poly Pomona are state Sen. Ruben Ayala, D-32nd Dist., Assemblyman Bill McVittie, D-65th Dist., and Assemblyman William Lancaster, R-62nd Dist.

The three legislators had previously endorsed a plan to have a veterinary school established at Cal Poly Pomona because of the large number of animals within Southern California and the limited number of students admitted to the state's veterinary school.

But a staff report received by the education commission last February recommended that the veterinary school at UC Davis be expanded to 128 students per class and the University of California give strong consideration to Pomona and San Luis Obispo for training senior veterinary students in food animal medicine if the provision of an adequate number of food animals becomes a serious problem with expansion at UC Davis.

Officials indicated the cost of establishing a second veterinary school in California would be prohibitive.

But McVittie said a fourth year clinic here could serve as a springboard when a second school of veterinarian medicine is established.

"This is a start. If we get the clinic in Southern California and then there is an expansion we would be the choice location."

McVittie said Cal Poly Pomona would be the logical clinic site because of the large number of food animals concentrated in the area.

"With the fourth year veterinary students here, they could provide services for horses and dairy cows through their experiments.

"And should area veterinarians need a laboratory in conducting tests on various diseases, they could use the clinic facilities."

Should the secondary education commission recommend Cal Poly Pomona, this would next go before the state legislature for funding and also to the University of California for approval.

McVittie said the food animal clinic could begin classes in the fall of 1978.

He said existing classrooms and animal facilities at Cal Poly could help reduce the costs in starting the new program.

The commission's staff estimated the cost of starting a fourth year clinic at both Cal Poly Pomona and Cal Poly San Luis Obispo each at $1,199,270.

The amount includes classrooms, offices, laboratories and hospital, $999,270; equipment, $200,000; wards, stalls, feed storage, $197,900; and fees, plans, surveys, $200,000.

But Cal Poly Pomona ranks above Cal Poly San Luis Obispo in the livestock population. The university set the clinic minimums at 10,000 dairy cows within 15 miles, four to six feedlots within 30 miles, a large livestock population within 50 miles and stable livestock populations.

Pomona has 127,000 dairy cows within 15 miles; five feedlots and a 30,000 animal capacity within 30 miles; 25,000 to 30,000 sheep; 5,000 to 6,000 hogs and 7,343,000 hens.

San Luis Obispo has 600 cows on campus and 1,000 within 15 miles; four feedlots and 50,000 animal capacity; 17,500 sheep, 5,000 hogs, 250,000 fryers and 500,000 turkeys.

McVittie was echoed by Lancaster who reported the Pomona campus has adequate, developed land for the clinic and a sufficient mix of animals near the campus to support large animal instruction.

Lancaster stressed that reports indicate that California could experience a shortage of large animal veterinarians within the next 10 years if education and training are not expanded.

"Based on the reports and studies made, the most appropriate location for a new large animal clinic is the Cal Poly campus in Pomona," he stressed.

SPANISH NO, ENGLISH SI!

Volunteer teacher Elizabeth Josselyn, center, uses words cut from Progress Bulletin to teach Spanish-speaking Pomona residents to read and speak English. At left is Petra Nunez; at right, Hortencia Estrada holding her daughter, Alicia, 11-days-old the day the photograph was made. The card, made from newspaper cutouts, reads, "We are happy you have a new baby — good luck."

Learning the English language

Spanish-speaking residents aided by Pomona Head Start

By PHYLLIS CANNON
PB Staff Writer

Every Thursday at 9 a.m. 30 or more of Pomona's mothers and fathers gather in the cafetorium at Hamilton Elementary School to learn to read, write and speak English.

They are Spanish-speaking residents of the community and they come from all over the city, drawn by their desire to learn the language. Some walk a mile or more, some drive cars and others ride buses.

They are eager to learn and their efforts are rewarding, say school officials.

This opportunity for adults to master the English language is made possible by the Pomona Head Start program and its dedicated bilingual community assistant, Eloisa Barela. For the past three years she has coordinated the English classes.

Many of the students are parents of Head Start children. But others in the community have been included. All are Spanish-speaking with little or no knowledge of English.

Their teachers, on the other hand, speak, read and write only English. They volunteer their time and are as eager to teach as their students are to learn, said Freda M. Nelson, child development supervisor in Head Start.

The volunteer teachers are Elizabeth Josselyn, Pat Kittleson, Lorena Bondadelli, Marge Martin, Madge Scofield and Jon Chacopulos.

The Hamilton cafetorium provides an open classroom where several groups may work at different levels of progression. A variety of curriculum programs are used, depending upon individual needs within a group.

Beginners work from a Vital English textbook, while more advanced students use the ESL texts and workbooks. Other resource material includes the Progress Bulletin from which English words, found by the students, were cut and used to fashion a message for a card of congratulations to a new mother in the class.

Other learning experiences also are used, Mrs. Nelson explained. The students have taken field trips to Adobe Palomares and Pomona Public Library. They have held potluck dinners featuring Mexican and Latin American dishes. They are planning a picnic for the end of the school year.

No meeting

Pomona City Council's regular 8 p.m. meeting will not be held Monday due to a lack of sufficient business items to warrant the session.

The next meeting will be held on Monday, April 19.

Claremont YMCA will host camp this week

An Easter week day camp will be held by the Claremont YMCA this week for boys and girls 5 to 12 at the Claremont Collegiate School, 3105 Padua Ave.

Swimming lessons, nature hikes, movies, arts and crafts, sports, movement education, tutoring, and trips to a museum, police and fire departments, and botannical gardens are planned that week.

An Easter egg hunt and a special event will be held Friday.

The day camp will be run from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Cost of the program will be $10 for YMCA members, and $15 for nonmembers. Membership in the Y costs $8 a year, and $22 per family.

Parents may visit the YMCA at 120 W. San Jose Ave., Claremont Monday from 1 to 6 p.m. to register their children.

C-CAP plans picnic in San Dimas Canyon

Pomona Base of the California Community Alert Patrol (C-CAP) will conduct a community picnic April 25 in San Dimas Canyon Park, starting at 8 a.m.

Families that attend are asked to bring their own food and one wrapped gift which may be auctioned off as a fund-raiser for the base.

Commander Larry States said money is needed to purchase additional badges for the increasing membership, to meet costs of operating the communications command center and to pay for gasoline for mobile units participating in community-wide patrol.

The base conducted its initial community-wide patrol last Friday and reported a "well received, smooth operation." Lt. John Brizendine said the base put 25 radio-equipped cars in the city during the four-hour patrol "and it came off real well."

"Probably the highlight of the night was the fact that we witnessed a two-car accident at Towne and McKinley avenues and were able to assist police by directing traffic," Brizendine said.

He said the C-CAP volunteers actually had a "pretty quiet" night with "no problems and no harassment."

Purpose of the patrol, which will be repeated in the future and perhaps extended to include Saturday nights, was to assist citizens, and Police and Fire departments in efforts to curb crime in Pomona.

New assignments within the base administration include Earl Dunn of Claremont who has the responsibilities of communications officer, Chuck Wubker of Pomona, who is in charge of the base security patrol, and Sterling Bresster of Pomona, who is now in charge of block-to-block organizations.

Brizendine and his wife, Barbara, have been assigned to operate the office, situated on the third floor of the Progress Bulletin building, and schedule volunteers to man the telephones.

Mrs. Brizendine said the base, which began in March 1975 with 15 members, now has 450 members, and there are 31 block-to-block neighborhood watches organized in Pomona.

C-CAP volunteers are unpaid, unarmed and have no authority to make arrests. Officers explain their purpose is to assist law enforcement agencies and citizens whenever possible and to educate the public in methods of self-protection.

Base members are sponsoring a community musical May 22 at 8 p.m. in the Pomona Education Center auditorium as a fund-raiser.

It will feature the Society for the Preservation and Development of Jazz Inc. and the Pomona Valley Chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America.

Tickets, at $2 each, are being sold throughout the community by base members.

Mrs. Brizendine is collecting saleable items for a benefit yardsale, and aluminum cans and newspapers to sell for salvage. Base members will make pick-ups. Anyone with articles or salvage to donate may contact her at the communications center, 623-2554.

The hotline number is 622-3233.

Pomona Library shows 'Oklahoma'

Hollywood's film version of the classic musical "Oklahoma" will be shown Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. at the Pomona Public Library.

The film, made in 1955, stars Gordon MacRae, Shirley Jones, Rod Steiger, and Eddie Albert. The presentation is the sixth film in the current film series provided by the Natural History Museum of Los Angeles County.

The movie has a running time of almost 2½ hours.

On Thursday at the library a puppet workshop for young people will be held at 3:30 p.m. Materials will be provided to all participants.

A puppet playhouse will be held on Saturday at 1 p.m., at which time youngsters can use the puppets they have made.

Other children's events during the week include a preschool variety program on Tuesday at 2 p.m.; a preschool story hour on Wednesday at 10 a.m.; family movies on Wednesday and Thursday at 7 p.m.; and a crafts program on Saturday at 10 a.m.

FBI addition to Constitution

The Fourth Amendment to the U. S. Constitution states that "the right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects against unreasonable searches and seizures shall not be violated . . ."

On at least 238 occasions between 1942 and 1966, however, the Federal Bureau of Investigation took upon itself to amend that amendment to read . . . "unless the FBI decides otherwise."

The Bureau has admitted to making that many illegal searches if not seizures of the papers and effects of 14 "domestic subversive targets" in that period — what it calls "black bag" jobs, after the kits of burglar tools carried by its agents. Between 1960 and 1966, 92 of these break-ins, or about one every three weeks, were made without benefit of court-issued warrants against the New York City headquarters of the Socialist Workers Party.

The disclosures has come as the result of a long-running suit brought by the party against the government. Previously, the Justice Department had denied that the party had ever been the target of burglaries by federal agents.

FBI director Clarence Kelley has now assured Americans that the FBI stopped this kind of monkey business in the late 1960s and says he doesn't know of any more such instances "lurking in the background." But as one spokesman for the Socialist Workers Party has pointed out, there is no way of knowing if this is true. No agent or official of the FBI or no official of the New York police, which apparently co-operated with the feds, has ever been brought to account for this illegal activity.

So far as is known, the FBI was never able to find any evidence in the files of the Socialist Workers Party that it posed any threat to the security of the United States. What it did find and photograph, along with other harmelss documents and correspondence, were the names of contributors to the party.

What kind of chilling effect this revelation will have on the free exercise of political rights by people who have supported this or other unpopular socialist-oriented splinter groups is impossible to say.

But it should certainly send a shiver — of disgust if not of fear — down the spine of every American who believes that the Constitutuion is supposed to mean what it says.

Spray in safety

The controversy over the possible harmful effects of fluorocarbons may be on the way to resolving itself even before all the evidence is in.

In the face of falling sales of spray can products, as well as in answer to the health threat, many manufacturers are developing substitute propellants in place of fluorocarbons, which are suspected of eroding the earth's protective layer of ozone. Some are using compressed air. Others, like Johnson Wax Co., which phased out fluorocarbons in all its spray can products in mid-1975, are using either harmless carbon dioxide or liquid hydrocarbons.

In any event, an estimated half of all aerosol products now sold in the United States do not contain fluorocarbons.

As an alternative to aerosols entirely, another company, Bristol-Myers, has just introduced a new pump-type mechanism in its Ban Basic line of deodorants. Once almost the exlusive province of window cleaners and insecticides, pumps have become more sophisticated in design, making them usable in such products as antiperspirants and hair sprays, where a dripless, finely atomized spray is desired.

Another environmentally beneficial aspect of its pump, says Bristol-Myers, is that after the container is empty, instead of being thrown away, it can be rinsed out and filled with water for other purposes, such as misting house plants.

Birds not so dumb

The National Audubon Society reports that its Christmas Bird Count this winter recorded the greatest high-low spread in the 76-year history of the annual census of our feathered friends.

At the top of the list, 11,703 birds representing 293 species were sighted in Catemaco, Mexico. At the other extreme, numerically and geographically, a frost-nipped crew at Point Barrow in the northernmost tip of Alaska didn't see a single bird. The reason for such sparse spotting in frigid climes, explains the society, is that many birds head south for the winter.

Which causes us to wonder how the term "bird-brained" ever came to be used to describe a want of intelligence.

Just in jest

A friend of mine who has made a careful study of the situation, says he can usually determine what a woman's philosophy regarding equality of the sexes will turn out to be just by taking a good look at the clothes she wears.

"If her sweater is too large," he claims," in 90 percent of the cases she will be a woman's liberationist. But if it's too tight — well take my word for it — you can almost be certain that she's not adverse to being regarded as a sex object by discriminating male chauvinists."

GRS reform is called for Congress is now debating the renewal of General Revenue Sharing. Many important groups want it renewed without major changes. But major changes are necessary.

There are shameful deficiencies in General Revenue Sharing which are particularly neglectful of those citizens who are most needy. Payments to needy areas with high percentages of poverty level residents and with large outlays for public services, are reduced by three features of the present GRS formula for determining the size of entitlement checks:

* A ceiling on the amount of funds any one jurisdiction can receive has prevented cities like Baltimore, St. Louis and Newark from receiving the full share they are entitled to based on their poverty and need characteristics as compared with other areas.

* Payments are made to all jurisdictions even if in particular cases the local government already has adequate sources of local funds to meet its needs.

* Insufficient weight is placed in the formula on the idea that more funds should be targeted to areas whose levels of need are greatest.

Blacks and other minorities have been overlooked and uncounted in the population census to a far greater degree than non-minorities. The Census Bureau estimates an undercount rate of 7.7 per cent for blacks as compared with 1.9 per cent for whites.

The census undercount has a direct bearing on GRS, since the size of payments is keyed, to some extent, to the number of persons in the area. The larger the population, the more funds the area is entitled to receive.

It may be too much to expect a retrieval of the GRS dollars lost as a result of this undercount during the last five years, but it is not unreasonable to make certain it doesn't happen again.

Studies of General Revenue Sharing by the General Accounting Office and the House Civil Rights Oversight Committee reveal real problems with GRS. It is indicated, for instance, that extensive discrimination exists against minorities and women in state and local governmental activities involving GRS funds. Federal anti-bias requirements written into GRS by Congress are not being enforced by the Office of Revenue Sharing and the Department of Justice. And extensive discrimination has been shown to exist under GRS in the areas of public employment, the provision of government services and education.

Despite these extensive violations, and the clear, court-affirmed requirements in the General Revenue Sharing statute that funds be cut-off to violators, there have been only negligible and reluctant efforts by the federal government to enforce the law.

There is a growing concensus among minorities that if significant revisions to assure nondiscriminatory treatment are not written into the renewal of the GRS act, perhaps the concept as a whole ought to be rejected. Reforms are indeed needed, and needed badly by those who can least afford to be shortchanged again.

Enforce city ordinances

Dear Editor:

I have been wondering for these past few years why some private businessman or citizen must call city hall and try to get them to enforce our city ordinances.

Specifically, people who come into the city on weekends, but sometimes during the week too. And set up business, usually with a truck and sell merchandise without a license, sales tax permit, health certificate, or any other of the many permits needed to conduct a business.

Also, many so called yard and porch sales are nothing but a retail business being conducted illegally. And you would be surprised how many old service stations are occupied by nonconforming ventures and violate ordinances. And some are actually illegal.

Now, if our city officials can't correct these I don't see how they can expect new businesses to come to Pomona. They come down real strict on legitimate businesses, but let these others operate for months on end, paying no taxes, licenses, etc. And lots of times they are not residents of Pomona, but they like to come here because they know that in Pomona everything goes.

Many houses are being rented that do not meet minimum standards, there are lots of houses that need to be brought up to standard. If our city officials cannot correct these many, many violations, how can they expect to reduce crime?

Crime breeds in this kind of environment. The laws are here for their use. Now I say to the residents of Pomona, if you don't like the way your city is going, don't blame the police too much. Call the mayor, city administrator, city councilmen, planning department, etc. That is where corrections must start.

And it isn't going to get better until you holler loud enough. So get your city officials started going in the right direction. Or get a new group. If you will get out and drive around town and go into a few alleys, you will really discover Pomona, and correct it. — D. C. B., Pomona

Double standard?

Dear Editor:

I would like to know why Griswold's permitted Dan Sauter (owner of the Danson) to cater the food for the Recall Committee at the Pavilion Thursday, April 1st.

Being involved in Little League and etc. throughout the years we have always been told that Griswold's caters all food and beverages.

What kind of double standard is this?

I would think what is fair for one group (in Claremont) should apply to all groups. — Anita Robertson, Claremont

Classified leak

WASHINGTON — The Justice Department has suppressed records that tie Commerce Secretary Elliott Richardson to the leak of highly classified documents to Daniel Ellsberg. Our investigation indicates that Richardson encouraged Ellsberg, in turn, to pass the classified material to the press.

The Pentagon's chief investigator was so incensed over the leak that he recommended to the Justice Department that Richardson and an aide be prosecuted.

White House records show that then-President Nixon expressed his personal concern about the leak to aide John Ehrlichman. One cryptic note indicates that the White House was worried about the "E.L.R. implications," obviously meaning Elliott L. Richardson, who was then in the Nixon cabinet.

The Justice Department's refusal to lift the secrecy on this case comes at a time when Richardson is quietly seeking the vice presidential nomination on President Ford's ticket. The Richardson-Ellsberg leak clearly won't help his chances. But Justice insists the suppression has nothing to do with politics.

The evidence indicates that Richardson, working through an aide, used Ellsberg to leak a story helpful to Richardson. This occurred a year before the controversial Ellsberg was identified as the source of the more famous Pentagon Papers leak. Here are the details:

On March 26, 1970, the Washington Star published a story by its political reporter, James Doyle, revealing dates and details from classified State Department cables. The story told in terms favorable to Richardson, then Under Secretary of State, how he was trying to free a prominent South Vietnamese Assemblyman named Tran Ngoc Chau.

President Nixon was reported to be apoplectic over the leak, and the State Department was ordered to search for the source. The leak was traced to Charles M. Cooke, Jr., a former Air Force major, who had become Richardson's most trusted aide.

No action was taken against Cooke, and the incident was forgotten until the Pentagon's chief investigator, W. Donald Stewart, a dogged ex-FBI agent, began to poke into the files.

He described his findings in a Dec. 1, 1973, memo to the Senate Watergate Committee. "During the course of a series of Jack Anderson leaks in February-May, 1971," he wrote, "in search for a suspect, I came across Cooke's name ... He had ... access to such data which appeared in Anderson's column."

Cooke was not, we should interject, the source of our stories. But Stewart's memo continued: "In pursuit of Cooke, I reviewed his State Department security file and learned that he had been identified as the person who allowed Daniel Ellsberg of the Rand Corporation to review highly classified information concerning a Vietnamese named Tran Ngoc Chau."

This same information subsequently turned up in the Washington Star story. "The release of this data was of such embarrassment," wrote Stewart, "that then-Under Secretary of State Elliott Richardson ordered an immediate investigation."

The State Department sleuths quickly nailed Richardson's own aide, Charles cooke, "as the responsible person for allowing Ellsberg to review the file." Because no disciplinary action had been taken against Cooke for the security breach, Stewart himself went to the Justice Department to discuss "the Cooke matter." This resulted in a Justice investigation.

Stewart later learned from the office of then-Assistant Attorney General Robert Mardian that Cooke had been interviewed. "He reported that Elliott Richardson had instructed him to provide the data re Tran Ngoc Chau to Ellsberg," reported Stewart. "Richardson apparently desired a leak of this data to focus President Nixon's attention on it, which (Richardson) had been unable to do."

Stewart responded by recommending to the Justice Department that both Richardson and Cooke be prosecuted along with Ellsberg.

We contacted Richardson who acknowledged that he knew information had been furnished Ellsberg about the Chau case. The purpose, Richardson understood, was to enable Ellsberg to prepare a chronology of the case.

The Commerce Secretary emphatically denied that he had any part in the leak to the press. "There is nothing to that at all," he told us. "That's ridiculous."

Cooke admitted that he had made the Chau file available to Ellsberg but denied that the purpose was to leak the classified information to the press. Cooke said he kept Richardson informed of his actions and assumed Richardson knew Ellsberg had been given access to the secret file. But Cooke said that he, not Richardson, had made the explicit decision to show Ellsberg the file.

Thought

He who states his case first seems right, until the other comes and examines him. The lot puts an end to disputes and decides between powerful contenders. — Proverbs 18:17,18.

Beware stormy weather

Icky weather does make you feel bushed. You'd thought so. You've suffered rainy day blues. You've known that dreary weather tends to make you feel dreary. Now science knows it.

Homer McKee, the old Hoosier philosopher, used to say, "Who cares what the weather's like out there as long as the sun's shining in here." But it does make a difference.

John Askins researched for Chicago's Tribune and discovered children do better in school when the barometer is rising. Most riots occur when it's hot and humid. More factory accidents occur before storms. A cyclone on the way — before it gets to you — may trigger emotional disturbances.

Science now knows that meteorological factors do influence human behavior but it doesn't know why. You and I, fascinated by the subject of electrophysiology, are entitled to suspect some electrical short circuitry but we can't prove it.

What can be proved is this: a relationship between lunar cycles and suicides and homicides. Wright Institute, Berkeley, Calif., has established "a definite relationship," blames it on weather conditions which accompany the moon's phases.

Dr. John Valentine studied hospital records in Philadelphia and found that weather has a discernible impact on psychiatric admissions: high barometric pressure produces depression; low barometric pressure tends to increase the number of drug and alcohol addiction admissions.

All we have to go on so far are statistics. In Europe, where human response to environmental factors is studied much more seriously, there is growing belief that weather conditions influence a wide variety of physical diseases — everything from hernia to cancer.

The problem in making more specific cause-effect delineation is complicated by the fascinating fact that different people react differently to weather. You are stimulated by Florida's wet warmth; I feel exhilarated in Arizona's dryness.

Some researchers have tried to classify people into "K-types" and "W-types" — those who are sensitive to cold and those who are sensitive to warmth. Researcher Askins expects that your TV weather forecaster may one day be able to specify that "Tomorrow will be a good day for 'K-types.'"

Meteorologist Helmut Lundsberg theorizes that we are all preconditioned to responses which are left over from primitive times; that we are geared to respond favorably to the kind of weather to which our ancestors were acclimated.

But there is increasing evidence that the human response is more specific than that. More people suffer detached retinas in June — few in the wintertime. The incidence of glaucoma is highest after a cold front passes. Calcium, phosphorus and magnesium levels in the blood are lowest in February.

Your hair, fingernails and children grow more slowly in wintertime. But the most significant conclusion on which there is anything approaching a consensus is that whatever factors affect your thoughts, moods and emotions also affect your body — and vice versa.

Ann Landers

Tip on how to keep wig on

Dear Ann Landers: I am 26 years old, not what you would call a raving beauty, but I still rate a wolf whistle now and then.

The problem is this: Last year my hair began to fall out. I became increasingly concerned and finally went to see a doctor. He told me it was nerves, suggested that I have my hair cut short and wear a wig.

Six months ago, I met a man I respect, admire, and am now in love with. He wants me to go to the Bahamas with him for a little vacation. I am dying to say yes. I know the full implications of the trip. We would undoubtedly sleep together.

Please, no lectures on morality. I'm no teenager. The problem is the wig. I doubt very much that he knows I wear one. Should I tell him in advance and remove it at bedtime? Or should I wear the darned thing to bed and hope it stays on? — Needing An Answer

Dear Needing: You may be asking for more trouble than a slipped wig, but I shall respect your wishes and respond only to the question put to me.

Buy a pretty piece of net veiling. Wrap it around your head and tie a bow in front. Secure the veiling with a few bobby pins. It will keep the bloomin' thing anchored.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been arguing about something and collecting opinions, but so far we haven't been able to settle it. Please give us an answer. Whatever you say will be IT.

Suppose there was a national contest with a big prize for the first baby born in the United States in the New Year. Say a girl was born at 12:01 a.m. in Greenwich, Conn., on Jan. 1, and a boy was born in Berkeley, Calif., at 12:15 a.m. the same morning. Who would be the winner? (P.S. Ours is due in August, but don't tell anybody.) — On Dead Center

Dear O.D.C.: The Connecticut baby would be the winner, because of the three-hour difference in time zones. The Greenwich baby made the scene 3 hours and 14 minutes ahead of the Berkeley baby.

P.S. Your secret is safe with me. I wouldn't dream of telling a soul!

Dear Ann Landers: Can you believe that a seven-year-old nephew is ruining our marriage? Sunday little Lloyd walked on our new sofa with muddy feet, carved his initials on the kitchen cabinet and tore apart two new ferns.

No magazine is safe in little Lloyd's hands. He tears up everything. Every toy we bring him is in pieces in 10 minutes.

This morning I told my husband I was going to give the boy the spanking of his life if he did one more destructive thing in our home. (The child is his sister's.) He said, "You can't touch him because he's not yours to discipline."

How about this, Ann Landers? — Burned In Lansing

Dear B.: Where is little Lloyd's mother, anyway? If she leaves him in your care, you have every right to discipline him. If she is present and permits such shenanigans, she should be told to "control" the boy or leave him home. To tolerate such destruction is nonsense; moreover, you do that child no favor.

Is alcoholism ruining your life? Know the danger signals and what to do. Read the booklet, "Alcoholism — Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Rainbow scene not so accurate

Note a magazine storyteller writes: "He looked out across the river beyond which a rainbow arched half way across the sky, and beyond that the setting sun hung quite still between the cloud clump and the long blue line of mountains." Mighty pretty. Except any nitpicker knows, you can't see a rainbow unless you're between it and the sun.

Doctor Samuel Johnson, that literary lion of Olde England, had an odd wrinkle in his make-up. He couldn't pass a lamp-post without touching it with his cane. Or a picket fence without tapping each picket. Ever meet anybody with that peculiarity?

GUNSHOT WOUND

Nature of our political chiefs has changed considerably, hasn't it? For instance, what would one of our former presidents do first, if some would-be assassin were to shoot him? That occurred. To Theodore Roosevelt. At Milwaukee in 1912. He was on the way to a political rally. He took the bullet in the chest, but didn't stop to get mended. Instead he went on, carrying the lead, to speak for an hour and a half.

What is the only thing about somebody you never forget? Answer too obvious, I suppose. It's the person's sex. Frequently you can't remember the name, the profession, the telephone number. But never do you fail to recall whether the party was a male or a female. Psychologists regard this fact as exceedingly significant, why I don't know.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS

Q. "Where'd we get the phrase 'pass the buck'?"

A. An old poker term, that one. The buck was a chip, coin, anything, to mark the player whose turn it was to deal, bet or ante. When an uncourageous fellow wanted to relieve himself of any of the aforedescribed responsibilities, he passed said buck.

Q. "What does your Love and War Man think of a mother who says, 'I'm my son's best girl'?

A. He thinks the son would do well to join the Navy and see the world.

Q. "Do grizzly bears climb trees?"

A. Not grownup grizzlies.

During daylight, six out of every 100 drivers are teenagers. Between dusk and midnight, 14 out of every 100 are teenagers. After midnight, 20 out of every 100 are teenagers. The little rascals.

Dr. Miller

New mate for widowed pigeon

DEAR DR. MILLER: I had a hard time finding a suitable mate for my pigeon. I finally presented her with one she liked. They got on famously, raised squabs and the whole bit, but now tragedy. Her husband recently got torn up by a cat and I had to put him out of his misery. I'm trying to find her a new husband who looks as much as possible like her old one. Isn't she more likely to accept him if he does? My wife says looks don't mean that much to a pigeon. I'm not so sure? — F.O.

DEAR F.O.: Looks aren't everything, true. Still, other things being equal, your pigeon's prospective partner will have a better chance of making it as her mate if he resembles her ex.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Do you have to spend the money on a heater and a thermostat for a tropical fish tank when the tank's in a room that's always heated? — F.T.

DEAR F.T.: It would depend on the kind of fish in your tank, the size of the tank, and the amount of temperature fluctuation on a 24-hour basis which occurs in that heated room. Since in most rooms the temperature will vary considerably, and since most tropical fish tend to resent wide temperature fluctuations to the point of the ultimate protest — dying — a reliable thermostatically controlled heater is, over the long term, an economical investment.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I'm in the doghouse because I think we should get one if we get a dog. My wife thinks anyone who has a doghouse is advertising to the world they don't love their dog enough to have it inside with them, "where it belongs." I don't consider this a fair feeling. How do you solve such a stalemate? — H.T.

DEAR H.T.: Doghouse dilemmas are best resolved by considering the needs of those involved. The smaller breeds generally don't belong in doghouses because of physical and/or psychological considerations. Many larger breeds, however, will do better with backyard elbow room and the outside environment. These dogs may actually be healthier and happier sleeping in a doghouse, provided they receive some "in" time, adequate exercise (outside that backyard) and sufficient daily socialization and affection from their owners. All too often, the doghouse becomes merely one end of an isolation run. It obviously does not replace the needed warmth and affection which people, not places, can best provide.

DEAR DR. MILLER: What do you do with a cat who suddenly becomes unhousebroken when she's been perfectly trained for two years before that? — G. E.

DEAR G.E.: You find out, as soon as possible, why. This is often a danger signal indicating severe or potentially severe illness. The distressed cat will frequently eliminate in an obvious spot in a deliberate attempt to show you that a problem exists. This plea for help is all too often ignored or misunderstood by the owner. There are also other occasions when such "Messing around" is the result of frustration and may even be a deliberate attempt to get even. Her doctor should rule out all physical causes before it can safely be assumed that psychological problems caused the puddle or pile positioning.

A sucker for worn out cars

The other night on "Starsky and Hutch," we watched the two detectives drive their car down a one-way street, tear up two tires on a U-turn, side-swipe a semi truck, drive through a barrier and sail through the air before coming to rest on a ferry boat that had left the dock five minutes earlier. The hood sprung into mid-air and there was smoke pouring from the engine.

Did you ever wonder who buys those cars when they're finished with them? We do.

They just paint a racing stripe around each one and our kids stand there with the egg money in their hands and beg to let them tow it out of the lot.

When our children reached the driving age, we made a mistake. We said, "We are not going to buy your cars for you. Save your money and when you have enough for a car you can afford, buy it."

Some men have paid more for a necktie than our kids have paid for their cars.

We have one that was owned by a little old lady from Long Beach who only drove it when she hit a bank and drove the car non-stop to Orlando with only one oil change.

We bought another that was touted as a second car, driven only by the wife of a dealer. She just happened to be a stunt driver for a demolition derby every Friday night at the racetrack.

I used to think that when a child — especially a boy — reached the age of Clearasil, he automtically became interested in cars — what made them run, what made them stop running, how you could add little goodies under the hood for pennies a serving, and how to pick up bargains off a used-car lot.

Well, our boys never made the transition.

The other day one of them drove home a real "doggie." It was bright red with a black racing stripe along the side and twin exhausts. The paint was wet to the touch.

"How many miles does this car have on it?" asked my husband suspiciously.

"137,000. Whatya think?"

"I think they tampered with the mileage. This car is older than that. The headlights have a place for wicks."

"Somehow," said my husband, "it looks familiar."

"It should," said our son. "Remember the car that scaled a mountain? Tested its suspension on 136 miles of railroad track? Stopped on a wet road? Had its battery light up a football field? Submerged in a lake to test its airtight body? Get ripped to shreds on the Baja? And crashed through a paper hoop with Platformate? This is the little baby that did it!"

Dr. Lamb

She benefits from bulk diet

DEAR DR. LAMB — I too have benefited from the whole wheat, fruit and cereal diet. I use some bran every day, either Bran Flakes or All-Bran. The one thing I don't understand is that I began to lose weight as soon as I started this diet. It certainly straightened out all of my bowel problems. I went from 125 to 110 pounds. I am a 72 year old female and am 5 feet 5 inches. I have had a physical checkup (no blood clot this time) and everything was okay. My blood pressure was 140 over 80 which pleased my doctor. He also didn't seem to be alarmed about my weight loss, but I am concerned so I thought you might give me an idea as to whether a blood count might help.

I feel great otherwise, except my fingernails peel off and my hair has thinned so that I am about to get a wig. I do hope you can enlighten me as what to do next.

DEAR READER — I am pleased to hear that your bowel problem has been corrected. A large number of people who have had chronic constipation and spastic colon problems benefit by increasing bulk in their diet. Others who want this information can send 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 2-1, Spastic and Irritable Colon and Constipation. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Your main problem now is weight loss. There is only one way that a person loses weight and that is by taking in fewer calories than their body uses. Something has happened to increase your calorie use or else you are eating less. I would guess that the latter may be the case. This is often a side benefit of an increase in bulk in the diet. If you have cut down on sugars and sweets that you may have been using in the past and converted to more bulky foods you may be satisfied with foods that provide less calories.

I would like to point out that many people who lose a modest amount of weight will have a significant decrease in their blood pressure. This is true even in people who previously had normal blood pressure. The decrease in the level of blood pressure is good because it decreases the risk of heart and vascular disease. No wonder your doctor is pleased.

There are many other reasons for weight loss besides a change in diet. These include diabetes, cancer, tuberculosis and an overactive thyroid. It requires a fairly extensive medical examination to track down the real cause of unexplained weight loss not related to a decrease in calorie intake.

Don't blame your fingernails and loss of hair on your change in eating habits. Many other poeple who have gone on this diet have no such responses. The truth is as one gets older there are changes which occur. Until we understand more about aging they just have to be expected. Regardless of what you have done about your diet you had probably started to develop increased thinning of hair and you may also have had changes in your nails.

Be sure to get an adequate amount of good protein (milk and meat) in your diet. Both hair and fingernails come from protein. Many women tell me that after they stopped using fingernail polish their fingernails were perfectly normal. From the dietary point of view, getting adequate protein plus adequate calcium from milk products is about the most that can be accomplished.

Make your own library paste

By NORMAN H. STARK

What parents haven't been proud when their child brings home a paper cherry tree, Easter bunny, an eerie witch or pumpkin face, pilgrims with a wild turkey or a Santa Claus face? Credit must be given to dedicated teachers who encourage creativeness at an early age.

Aside from the other materials, library paste plays an important part in "pasting it all together." But there are also many other uses outside the classroom for this inexpensive easy-to-make adhesive. Here's the way to make your own library paste.

All you will need is one-half cup CORN STARCH, three-fourths cup COLD WATER and six cups BOILING WATER. Make a paste of the corn starch and cold water. Add this paste to the boiling water and stir until a translucent mixture forms. Cool down to room temperature and store in glass or plastic containers. To use, coat a thin film on the surface to be bonded and apply pressure until bond forms.

Your cost to make your own library paste is approximately one-fourth of a cent per ounce.

To determine your savings, divide the cost of your store-bought brand by the number of ounces it contains. Then compare the per-ounce cost — you'll be surprised at how much you can save for so little effort.

Note: Material costs are based on the prices at retail outlets of national drug, grocery and hardware chains. These costs will vary, depending on the geographic area. If you wish to make up a larger quantity — and save even more — buy your materials at a chemical supply company (see the Yellow Pages).

(Like any chemical product you use at home, you should store this one safely, label it — listing ingredients and noting any cautions — and keep it out of reach of children.)

(There has never been a how-to book so practical and helpful as THE FORMULA BOOK. Hundreds of easy recipes put savings and fun into the making of your own personal and home care items. Over 200 pages of recipes, diagrams and instructions on ingredients and equipment, in a large paperback format, for only $5.95. Send to THE FORMULA BOOK, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 2218, Shawnee Mission, Kan. 66201.)

For Monday, April 12, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) An unexpected disruption in your routine today may suddenly throw you off course. Don't use it as an excuse to avoid responsibility.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) This is one of those days when you could create more work for yourself by trying to do things the easy way. Forget the short cuts.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you're committed to do something special with a friend today, don't back out at the last minute. You could lose a pal.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) It might be very difficult for you to keep secrets today. Be careful what you say to others or put in writing.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) The edge will be taken off something nice you do for a friend today, if you boast of your deed. And it won't help your mileage.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't let your aptitude for details desert you today. Overlooking minor points where business is concerned could be costly.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be willing to share today, but it isn't necessary to reward others for something they don't deserve. Be sensible and discriminating.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) People you'll be associating with may try to shift their burdens to your shoulders if given the slightest opportunity.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Be persistent in what you set out to do or you may quit before you accomplish your goal. Success requires extra effort today.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You're likely to be better at formulating plans today than you will in implementing them. Follow your blueprints.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) It would be a mistake to rely too heavily upon others. They may promise you more than they can deliver. Do things yourself.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be careful how you negotiate commercial transactions today or you may wind up being taken.

Your Brithday, April 12, 1976

Be alert this coming year for opportunities where your work or career is concerned. They could come through persons you'll get to know socially.

South looked over the dummy. He counted 12 easy tricks. The 13th was there if he could drop the queen of hearts, singleton, doubleton or tripleton or finesse successfully against it. Then there just might be a squeeze. South decided to keep open as many options as possible.

He won the club in his hand; played three rounds of trumps and his ace and king of spades. He ruffed his last spade; came back to his hand with the king of hearts and cashed his next to last trump to leave himself with one trump; one heart and two clubs.

West had to come down to four cards also. He had already discarded a club and a heart; he had to chuck one more heart.

South didn't have any further worries. He simply discarded dummy's nine of clubs, led a heart to the ace, ruffed a heart and made the last two tricks with dummy's jack of heart and ace of clubs.

The standard American response is four spades. If you are playing Jacoby transfer you first transfer and then take your partner to four spades. Either way you are gambling but the gamble is a good one.

'I like to travel around'

Savalas bugged by Kojak

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Telly Savalas, who believes that actors should never become too secure, never intended that "Kojak" would develop into a television series.

It was simply to be a one-shot TV movie, "The Marcus-Nelson Murders," then Telly would go back to the film roles that had turned him into one of the screen's most menacing villians. But the movie was a TV hit and CBS wanted the baldas-a-bullet detective every week.

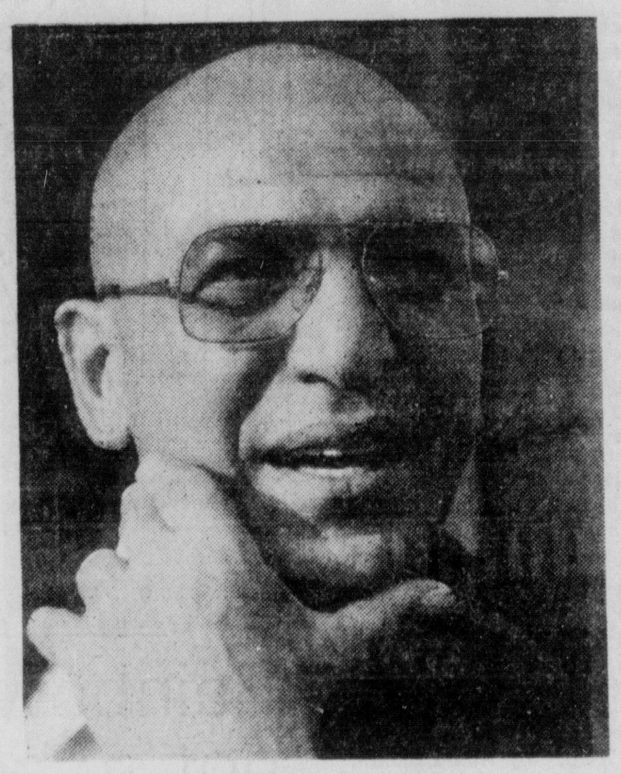
But Savalas had always preferred the freedom and the unpredictability and travel involved with motion pictures. "I don't mind working. I always work 18 to 20 hours a day. TV is interesting enough, but I like to travel around. In past days I'm sure I would have been a razzle-dazzle man with a traveling circus."

Telly is something of a razzle-dazzle man anyway: A onetime diplomatic corps employe, former television producer, now actor, singer, nightclub performer and owner of a spectacularly successful race horse named Telly's Pop.

He figures television is a little too secure for his lifestyle, although he's adjusted to it well. "If you take all the insecurities out of life, it becomes less fun," he said. "If you look back, the happiest times were when you didn't know how you were going to pay the milk bill."

It is doubtful that Savalas would have allowed the name Kojak to stick if if he had known he would be doing a series. Outwardly and inwardly Greek-oriented — his own first name is Aristotle — Savalas would have wanted a more flowing Helenic name.

He was a latecomer to acting, not taking it up until he was 36. Although there are those who say the 51-year-old Savalas has always been an actor with flamboyant and funloving style. In fact, he says it's his experiences in life and his observations that prepared him for acting.



KOJAK

"There's no question that experience is more important and rewarding to someone who is an actor. My approach to Kojak is any situation would be my own approach. How I would react and respond. That's basically true whether I'm portraying a cop or a candlestick maker."

For instance, that lollypop that has almost become a Kojak trademark was Telly's invention.

With a degree in psychology from Columbia University, he went to work at the State Department and quickly rose to executive director of Information Services. Later, he became an award-winning producer for ABC Television.

His acting acreer began when he was unable to help a theatrical agent find an actor who could do a particular European accent. Savalas took the role to help out his friend — then opted for a few more. He had only been in three television shows when he was spotted by Burt Lancaster.

Lancaster signed him for the role of Feto Gomez in "Birdman of Alcatraz," which won him a nomination for an Academy Award as best supporting actor in 1962.

Savalas said, "I was with the State Department and when I would interview President Truman or Eisenhower or Andrei Gromyko, I was never nervous. I was never nervous with the men who ruled the world. All of a sudden I was in a picture with Burt Lancaster. I was in awe. It was part of the mystique. I was speechless. I can understand people who come up to me for autographs. I was the same way."

Despite his flashy showmanship, Savalas is a shy man. Once he was in a London gambling club when he spotted George C. Scott. He wanted to tell him how much he admired his acting, but held back. While he was debating with himself, Scott walked over, stuck out a hand and said, "We haven't met, Telly, but I wanted to tell you that you're my favorite actor."

Telly, the father of four children, is divorced and occasionally dates. Much of his sparetime has been spent following his favorite horse — Telly's Pop. He went into partnership with producer Howard Koch to buy the 2-year-old to help out the trainer.

Since then Telly's Pop has won five of nine races, pulled in $350,000 in winnings, became the first 2-year-old to ever win a "Triple Crown" by taking three races in a row and is a possible entry in the Kentucky Derby.

Telly's mother is the American artist Christine Savalas, his brother Constantine is with the U.S. Embassy in Greece, his brother Theodore is a teacher at Athens University and brother George — born Demosthenes — plays Kojak's sidekick Stavros on the show.

Abby Mann wrote the screenplay for "The Marcus-Nelson Murders" and Matthew Rapf was the producer.

Rapf said the movie suddenly became a series potential when Telly was cast in the role of the New York City police lieutenant, Theo Kojak. The network had been after Telly for years to do a series — ever since he played the role of Bear on "Cimarron Strip." He said, "That's when it became a series — when Telly signed the option."

Mystery yarns used in school

CHURCHVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — Stephen Clarke, an English teacher, is a mystery fan.

At Spencerport High School, he teaches a course in detective fiction which he created a few years ago, and he has written a textbook on the subject.

Clarke said he used mysteries as a device for teaching the principles of logic and orderly composition.

Credit union for women a huge success

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The California Feminist Federal Credit Union has marked its first year by paying out a fourth 5 1-2 per cent quarterly dividend, a spokeswoman says.

The credit union was the first of its kind chartered in California for women and is one of 14 in the United States and Canada. In its first year nearly 1,000 members deposited $180,000 in shares and nearly all of that was invested in loans to members.

FATHER OF SURGERY — Robert Thom's oil painting of a 16th century wartime operation is one of the works in "A History of Medicine in Painting," on view in the Cal Poly library next Sunday through May 2. The painting depicts Ambroise Parea, a young French army surgeon, treating a man for arquebus wounds. Pare, surgeon to four French kings during his lifetime (1510-1590), earned the title of "Father of Surgery."

Painter plans art critique

Artist Darwin Duncan of Garden Grove will provide a critique of paintings by members of the Associated Artists at the group's monthly meeting at the Ontario Public Library at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Duncan, an instructor in fine arts at Orange Coast College, is a critic and art judge as well as an artist and teacher. He conducts workshops in scenic painting at Jackson Hole, Wyo., and gives demonstrations throughout Southern California.

Barthelme novel wild off-beat, critic claims

By S.I. BELLMAN

THE DEAD FATHER. By Donald Barthelme. Farrar, Straus and Giroux. $7.95.

Donald Barthelme has written surrealistic, Dadaistic pieces before, but never anything so wildly offbeat as this short novel.

As always, he dumps into his anti-narrative, literary styles and flourishes from anywhere and everywhere — mocking and travesty-ing whatever his memory lights on. And, as he has done before, he makes reference to brain damage, in such a way as to make us wonder, once again, whether that condition is part of his problem; the disconnectedness, the one part sense to nine parts nonsense, the insistence on trying to convey a message despite radical incoherence — suggest much more than a wry and clever "put on." They suggest that Barthelme simply can't help himself, and is being aided and abetted by cynical editors and publicity flacks.

(Samuel Bellman is visiting exchange professor in the department of literary and historical studies at Portsmouth Polytechnic, Portsmouth, England)

True, "The Dead Father," for all its essential looniness, resembles James Joyce's "Finnegans Wake" to a slight extent, and Joyce's tepid successor, Samuel Beckett, wrote many "books" or anti-books that similarly resisted the reading process. But a basic question remains unanswered: If a book is not in "machine-readable form," that is, not understandable by its potential readers, what is its artistic or aesthetic purpose? Another question raises its curious head: If Barthelme does not suffer from brain damage, despite appearances, why — since he has a most remarkable command of language and a febrile imagination — does he not put his talents to proper use and write comprehensibly?

Some few years ago Barthelme wrote a "New Yorker" piece "Views of My Father Weeping." A really beautiful and eerily suggestive story, it consisted of fragments dealing with the narrator's dead father, run over by a royal horse-drawn coach in some European kingdom of dukedom several centuries back.

The narrator continually mourns for his dead father, slaughtered so needlessly and wantonly. But, interspersed among these little story fragments, are fragments of another story-line: the narrator is continually having to deal with his father, who is sitting on a desk, weeping (at the relaization of his death? the story doesn't say).

All of which suggests a most unusual literary experiment, the circumvention of death (on paper) by means of dissociation of consciousness. On one plane of existence the father is dead, on another plane of existence he is merely weeping: the double-faceted picture surface. Was Barthelme thinking of his own father, a wise mentor to the future writer, and a professor of architectural design at the University of Houston?

Now comes this quickie anti-novel.

One blushes even to say anything about the plot. Hintingly, Barthelme (like a musician who takes a theme up only in order to discard it) suggests the long-drawn-out burial of The Dead Father, who is rather alive and emotionally responsive until he is thrown in the burial hole and covered with earth by bulldozers.

This mythic figure is being hauled through the land by a platoon of men, using a powerful cable. The Dead Father is quite large, a Paul Bunyan or Green Giant figure, and he has either fathered or adopted a number of offspring, who are accompanying him to his final resting place.

Before the Dead Father is interred, at the very close of the book, Barthelme indulges in a lot of pure tomfoolery about what fathers are and do and mean. Some of this material is frankly pornographic and a good deal of it is mock learning.

We don't really get a sense of suspense — will they make it to the burial ground and finally get rid of the talking corpse? — because Barthelme is, apparently, unalterably opposed to meaningful plot.

"The death of fathers: When a father dies, his fatherhood is returned to the All-Father, who is the sum of all dead fathers taken together." Profound enough, in its own way, and possibly a filial cry in the night on Barthelme's part, but can the novel, the novella, the short story, survive Barthelme's onslaughts against the basic story-telling tradition that has sustained Western (and Eastern) Man for possibly the last 100,000 years or more?

Ireland background of new Uris novel

By DUDLEY LEHEW
AP Book Critic

TRINITY. By Leon Uris. Doubleday. $10.95.

Leon Uris is known for novels of impact — "Exodus," for example — and he's done it again in "Trinity," a novel about Ireland and its turbulent past.

To tell his story, Uris basically has chosen the intimate lives and cultures of two families — although a third family is instrumental, too. The result is good, one of the best pieces of fiction to hit the bookstores in a long time.

It is the turmoil of Ireland's past that is the setting for "Trinity": the struggles of the poor Irish Catholic farmer loyal to his land and his heritage, the dominance of British landowners and manufacturers exploiting the Irish worker, and the native Irish Protestants seeking to keep the country subject to the crown.

The theme is best summed up in one of the final pages where it is said that Ireland has no future, only the past occurring over and over. Uris' narrative of this past and the people affected by it has timely impact in helping the reader understand today's turbulence in Ireland and also the discrimination suffered by the Irish in America.

For those who take pleasure from diving deep into the novel and getting thoroughly wrapped up in it, "Trinity" has a bonus, something found too little in writing these days — a thorough development of the main character, in this case, Conor Larkin. His feelings, hopes, thoughts and even his physical being are made so vivid by Uris' skill that Larkin will be remembered for a long time, perhaps even after the plot fades from the reader's mind.

As the plot unfolds, Uris enables the reader to step inside Larkin and think along with him as he reacts to the unfolding of his destiny, an involvement that is highly recommended.

"20 YEAR RE-OCCURING ULCER GONE"

says Richard Taylor, truck driver. "I was so sick I couldn't eat, and lost 56 lbs. My ulcer would clear up a month or two and then return. No doctor could help me until I took Dr. Wing's treatment. After two weeks, I felt much better. In a short time later I quit and haven't taken any medication and eat anything I want and have gained back to 200 lbs. Truck driving is hard on my nerves but my stomach hasn't bothered me the last 2 years."

Leos, Stags split twinbill

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

La Verne and Claremont-Mudd battled to a standoff Saturday at La Verne College.

The Leos took the first game, 10-1, behind Jim Vallone's four-hit pitching. But the Stags came back twice in the nightcap and won it with three runs in the ninth, 6-5.

La Verne, 9-2 in conference play and 15-14 overall, takes a week off now and won't play until the series concludes at Claremont-Mudd Tuesday, April 20.

C-M, 10-4 in the SCIAC and 15-9 overall, will play three games with Grand Canyon College in Phoenix, Ariz. Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

As for Saturday's split, neither coach was particularly happy with it. Bill Arce of the Stags was very happy with his team's comeback, but didn't see the win changing the title picture.

"It was a great comeback," Arce said. "The kids never gave up and came on real strong at the end. But La Verne has the conference cinched. We would have had to sweep three games to take it."

The Stags actually trailed or were tied for 15 of 16 innings Saturday. The only lead they held was the big one at the end of the second game. While they gained no ground, they lost none either. Whittier split with Redlands, losing 7-3 and winning 5-4.

"It just leaves us right where we were at the start of the day," said Leopard coach Ben Hines. "Now the game at their place is more crucial and the comeback win in the second game gives them a little momentum."

The first game was all La Verne. The Leos jumped on Norm Richards (4-5) for six hits, including two three-run homeruns in the course of a seven-run third inning.

Ralph Valadez and Gary Pierson pounded the four-baggers. Wayne Redfearn contributed a sacrifice fly. Back-to-back doubles by Valadez and John Laubhan followed by Steve Polan's roundtripper off Mitch Katlin accounted for the other three runs in the fifth.

Meanwhile the La Verne infield of Polan, Pat Proulx, Steve Watson and John Edwards was giving Vallone (5-6) airtight support with four double plays.

The Stags got their only run in the seventh on Andy Roundtree's double, a single by Wynn Moore and Jon Begetow's infield out.

La Verne held leads of 1-0, 3-1 and 5-3 in the second game. Home runs by Laubhan, Redfearn and Edwards accounted for three Leo runs. Redfearn's RBI single and Edwards' sacrifice fly tallied the final two in the fifth inning.

It stayed 5-3, La Verne, until the ninth. The Leopards made two more double plays to bring their total to 33. But Jaime Opatrny helped out Joe Maiberger (9-2) with two fine stops at third. Opatrny dived to his right and threw to second for a brilliant force once. Another time he dived to his left and fielded a hard smash.

Fernie Tarin (2-3) walked Pignotti to lead off the Stags' ninth. Al Golad singled. Bob Turek sacrificed. Roundtree came through with a sacrifice fly for one run. Moore's RBI double tied it. Jon Begerow walked and Gregg Thompson's second two-bagger drove in the winning run.

Moore's homer tied it the first time for the Stags. Three hits, including Thompson's double, a walk and an error on a double steal tied it the second time. John Pignotti got an RBI single in the inning.

Atlanta gets Andy

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Free agent pitcher Andy Messersmith ended his search for a million dollars Saturday when he surprisingly agreed to terms with the Atlanta Braves.

And an hour after he reached San Diego Stadium for a game against the Padres, Messersmith said that an angry statement by Padres' owner Ray Kroc after a long, fruitless negotiation session Thursday helped convince him to become a Brave.

Kroc, upset over Messersmith's contract demands, told news media that as far as he was concerned, Messersmith could go to work in a car wash.

Ted Turner, the new owner of the Braves, then called Messersmith to reopen talks. "It took me just 10 minutes to make up my mind when Ted reopened negotiations today," Messersmith told The Associated Press as he dressed for Saturday night's game.

Messersmith revealed that Turner's offer was less than the $1.15 million which the Padres offered, but it had—according to Padres' President E. J. "Buzzie" Bavasi—some factors to which San Diego could not agree.

The three-year, $1 million contract with options to renew included a no-cut, no-trade arrangement, Bavasi told The AP.

"I couldn't look any of our other players in the eye and then give Andy a no-trade," Bavasi said.

Messersmith said he has remained in shape at home, but has not worked out with a club since being adjudged a free agent by arbitrator Peter Seitz in the ruling which knocked down the 89-year-old reserve clause binding a player to team for life. The free agent status twice has been affirmed by federal courts.

Messersmith was sent to the Braves' bullpen Saturay night to begin his new employment, but he was not expected to be used immediately.

Messersmith said, however, the only thing he lacks from being ready to start now is a "competitive edge. I'm ready to throw. I just need my sharpness."

"Baseball has to be relieved that this is over," Bavasi said. "We gave it our best shot and lost."

Messersmith said Kroc, the hamburger chain millionaire, had "not endeared himself to me with his remarks." Earlier in the day, Kroc had said he was 90 per cent certain Messersmith would sign with the Padres.

Turner was the first owner to contact Messersmith after Seitz' original ruling, but Atlanta soon dropped out of the bidding until it got down to two teams—the Padres and Dodgers. After Kroc's remarks, Turner called Messersmith and his agent, Herb Osmond, and he quickly settled on a contract.

"I don't think it will make any difference to other players on any teams once I get into games," said Messersmith. "It still comes down to my pitching and their trying to hit my stuff."

Terms of the contract were not disclosed by ecstatic Braves' owner Ted Turner, but a source close to the club said the offer was "very comparable to the offer the (San Diego) Padres made"—which was $1.15 million spread over a four-year period.

However, Turner, an Atlanta yachtsman, said it was "a three-year contract with renewals."

Turner met with Herb Osmond, Messersmith's agent, for more than two hours Saturday and when they emerged from a meeting room at a San Diego hotel, Turner was beaming.

"Well, I've just signed a 10-page document and I'm not sure what it said," he said with a wide grin. "We just discussed the basic points." Turner was dressed in white yachting slacks and he puffed on a cigar.

Messersmith was not at the meeting, but Osmond called him, from a pay phone, at his Newport Beach, Calif., apartment. "Well, here's what they offered," said Osmond, who then shut the door to the phone booth.

On Thursday, San Diego owner Ray Kroc had offered the former Los Angeles Dodger pitcher a four-year, $1.15 million contract and when Messersmith turned it down, Kroc called the right-handed ace arrogant. "He can work in a car wash," Kroc said.

"We just felt Andy Messersmith was too good to work in a car wash," said Turner.

Nolan Ryan done in by Oakland hit

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

ANAHEIM — Nolan Ryan looked sharp Saturday afternoon in allowing only one hit in seven innings but the one hit was all the Oakland A's needed.

Light-hitting Phil Garner ripped a double off of the leftcenter field wall to drive in Sal Bando and Billy Williams to lead the parade for the A's in a 6-2 victory to take the first two games in the opening weekend at Anaheim Stadium.

The one hit was utter frustration for both Ryan and Manager Dick Williams.

Garner belted a 1-2 pitch for the key double breaking up a scoreless game in the top of the fifth inning.

"I threw a curve ball up and over the plate," Ryan said. "I intended to waste a pitch but it was right where Garner wanted it. It was an unforgiveable sin. I deserved to lose on a pitch like that."

Williams agreed.

"Nolan threw well today but his selection of pitches were not good," the Angels' skipper said. "Garner likes the ball out over the plate and that's exactly where he got it. In a tough situation like that, you must go with your best stuff and Nolan had a good fastball today."

Anyway, both Ryan and Williams were pleased by Ryan's first regular season outing since undergoing an operation on his right elbow on Sept. 23.

In his seven innings, Ryan struck out seven but issued six walks. Obviously, the free passes to Bando and Williams wrecked him.

"I'm not pleased by my performance but I am happy about my arm," Ryan said. "I had trouble with my curve."

The A's, who certainly look ready to win their sixth consecutive American League West, jumped on rookie pitcher Paul Hartzell for three more runs in the eighth and completed the day with a single tally in the ninth.

Garner's triple opened up the eighth. North followed with a single on a ball fielded by Hartzell, who couldn't make up his mind where to throw the ball. Bert Campaneris singled to score Garner. Campy stole second and North came home when catcher Andy Etchebarren threw the ball into centerfield for an error. Joe Rudi's double completed the rally.

Oakland added an unearned run in the ninth off of Steve Dunning when Campaneris' hit brought Gene Tenace home.

Meanwhile, the Angels couldn't do much against Vida Blue, Paul Lindblad and Rollie Fingers.

Blue pitched only five innings as the lefthander stopped the Halos on two hits. Lindblad also had two easy frames until the eighth when the Angels came alive on back-to-back hits by Jerry Remy, Bruce Bochte and Bill Melton to score two runs.

The former Upland High star got Lee Stanton to bounce back weakly to Fingers. Rollie decided to go for the out at second base. Garner fielded the ball but dropped it.

Umpire Rich Garcia ruled Melton out saying Garner had possession of the ball long enough and dropped it trying to throw it.

It was a key call and the Angels were angry.

"He never had possession of the ball," Williams snapped after the game.

That was the last hurrah for the Halos.

Fingers struck out Dave Chalk for the final out and retired three of the four batters in the ninth with ease.

"Our bats are silent," Williams said in an understatement.

ANGEL ANGLES — The weekend series closes today (1 p.m.) with Don Kirkwood facing Oakland's Stan Bahnsen. The Halos then head for Kansas City for a three-game series before returning home next weekend to host Detroit. . . Next Saturday afternoon is Bat Day with free bats presented to everybody through age 14 . . . Oakland stole four bases for a total of six in the two games . . . Blue beat the Halos five times last season and now enjoys a 13-8 lifetime advantage . . . Lee Stanton celebrated his 30th birthday . . . Fingers recorded his second save in two days and 118th of his career. He has 12 against the Angels and has a string of 12 innings vs. the Angels without a run.

Floyd leading Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Ray Floyd fondly recalled a shot flying off the face of his newlybuilt, lofted little wood club, the ball lancing more than 220 yards through the bright blue Georgia sky, clearing the meandering, shimmering little stream called Rae's Creek and nestling cleanly in the relative safety of white sand.

"That was my round," Floyd said Saturday after his continued, complete domination of the par five holes—none have escaped the magic of that little wood club—had staked him to an all-but-incredible eight-stroke lead through three rounds of the Masters Golf Championship.

The high drama came on the 13th hole at the Augusta National Golf Club course. It's a recently-lengthened par five that must be approached over the yawning ditch that houses the little stream.

Floyd had just made double bogey six. His lead seemed to be fading. His drive wasn't too good, coming to rest in the right rough near the bole of a huge tree and presenting him with a stance in which the ball was above his feet.

"I elected to gamble," he said. "You don't make birdie laying up. So I pulled out the little old five wood. I had 219 yards to clear the water and I aimed it for the bunker, thinking I could just get it over the creek.

"I almost fainted when I got it over the water in the trap."

From there he made birdie.

The five wood set up still another birdie on the par five 15th. And he rammed in a birdie putt on the 18th.

It gave the husky guy, a one-time playboy but now a solid family man, a flock of Masters records and an iron hold on the lead in this, the first of the year's four major tests of golfing greatness.

"I feel I'll be awfully hard to beat," the 33-year-old Floyd said. "I don't think any of you guys would bet against me. An eight-shot lead is awfully big. It'd be hard to catch any player with that kind of a lead."

The record lead was built on two factors: the failure of Jack Nicklaus to mount a charge and Floyd's amazing, near-perfect play on the par fives. He birdied them all on the way to a third-round 70, putting him a record 15 strokes under par for 54 holes.

That record, along with his 201 total—also the best this tournament has ever seen—can be attributed directly to his performance on the par five holes, holes on which he uses a lofted little five-wood club built especially for this tournament.

In three rounds he's played par fives 12 times. The reformed playboy has mastered them all. None have escaped. He's made birdie 11 times and eagle once. Of his 15 strokes below par, 13 of them have come on the par fives.

And that puts him in line for still another record. Jimmy Demaret played the par fives 13 under — for four rounds — in his 1950 victory. But no one has ever played them as well as the husky Floyd over the first three days this week.

It's helped him turn this fabled event—so often the site of pulse-pounding finishes, of multiple-man challenges down to the wire, of victories usually achieved by the tiniest of margins into a potential rout.

And at least part of that is due to Nicklaus himself.

He couldn't mount a charge. The Golden Bear, the most feared competitor in the game, started the bright, warm, sunny day five strokes back, went two over par on the front side, didn't make a birdie through the first 12 holes and simply allowed Floyd to stalk away from the field.

Nicklaus, grimacing and gesturing in disgust from time to time, finally pulled his awesome game together just about the time he reached the range of the national television cameras, birdied two in a row and then left a putt hanging on the lip of the cup on the 18th hole. It was a putt he needed for a round of par 72. It wouldn't fall.

The defending champion, who already owns a record five Masters crowns and a total of 16 major championships, had to settle for a 73 and a 209 total, eight big strokes behind.

Nicklaus, incidentally, held the old 54-hole Masters scoring record of 202, wiped out when Floyd ran in a birdie putt on the 54th hole.

There was Nicklaus, striking a great second shot to the 13th, only to watch in disgust as the ball struck just below the flag, then trickled off the green, down the bank and almost into the water of Rae's creek.

There was Green, flailing away to a seven on the same hole.

There was Ziegler, three-putting and falling back.

Even Floyd couldn't escape the subtle terrors of this old course that was built on rolling hills that once hosted a tree nursery. He made double-bogey six on the 11th hole, hooking a four iron into the water.

He three-putted for bogey on the sixth.

He missed the green and bogeyed the fifth.

But the par fives saved him.

"I'm very aware of what I've done on those holes, and I'm tickled to death," Floyd said.

Locals set for Elks Tourney

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

The 41st Annual Pomona Elks Invitational Baseball Tourney swings into full view Monday, with the varsity division competition opening at seven different diamonds around the valley.

No less than 16 games are slated for Monday morning, and 16 more will be played Monday afternoon and evening. By the end of Monday's first and second round games, half of the 32-team varsity field will be eliminated from the tourney.

From all indications, this year's Elks affair could well be the most hotly contested ever. Defending 1975 tourney champ Chaffey High is back, as is 1975 runnerup Edgewood. The Tigers go into the competition as the top-seeded squad, but many observers pick Edgewood as the team to beat.

Chaffey has been struggling to this point in the season, and the Tiger pitching has been cuffed around a bit in Citrus Belt League outings. In contrast, Edgewood has received outstanding pitching in zooming to a 14-1 season mark and first place in the always-rugged Sierra League.

The Trojans go into the tourney as the number-one ranked team in the CIF 3A division.

Chaffey is ranked 11th in 4A, while other tourney entries rated in the CIF include Cabrillo (third in 3A), Montclair (16th in 3A) and Bonita (third in 2A).

Returning will be the 1975 Tourney MVP, Anthony Munoz of Chaffey, and 1975 All-Tourney selection Jeff Toothman of Edgewood.

Pitching is usually the key to winning the tourney, and if that holds true this year several local teams should do well.

Chaffey goes into tourney play with a staff of Munoz, John Mattke, Ken Owens, Art Rodriguez and Tony Ciotti, which gives the Tigers hurling depth, if not any one outstanding individual. Bonita, with the likes of pitchers Bill Bumstead, Dave Drury, Ralph Ortega and Brad Snedeker, could also be a strong contender for the tourney title.

Claremont is another team with outstanding pitching, as the Wolfpack threesome of Mil Pompa, Brad Kirkendall and Leonard Peacock is as good a trio as there is locally.

Host school Pomona has not had much luck in the tourney in recent years, but this year's edition of the Red Devils could challenge for the title if its pitching holds out. Pomona coach Jay Craven has three effective hurlers in Mike Keegan, Jackie Phillips and Mark Soto, but it would be a toss-up as to who would go to the hill after that.

Montclair coach Tom McFadden has already announced that he won't use ace southpaw Don Pierce (who is ailing with a strained elbow) in the tourney, so the Cavaliers chances don't appear to be too good. Ditto San Antonio League clubs Damien and Ganesha, both of whom have two good pitchers (the Spartans Todd Bell and Richard Bustos and the Giants Joe Jones and Joe Madrigal) but lack bullpen depth.

Of all the local teams, Upland could be the real sleeper in the 32-team field. The Highlanders have no less than five established hurlers in Stan Smith, Gary Carr, Eric Stentz, Wade Lichte and Doug Lindsey. They also appear to have the offensive punch to support their pitchers' efforts.

Action in the varsity division will get underway at 9 a.m. Monday morning. Monday's games will take place at Ralph Welch Park, Pomona High, Mt. San Antonio College and Ganesha High. Included in the 32-game opening-day slate are four night games at Ralph Welch.

All varsity games after Monday will be played at Ralph Welch. The championship final contest will go on at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, the consolation final at 5 p.m. Wednesday, and the third place final at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday.

The finals in the J.V. division are also scheduled for Wednesday at Ralph Welch.

Pincay, Katonka combine for win

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Sandy Hawley scored four victories Saturday at Hollywood Park, but Laffit Pincay Jr. posted the biggest triumph of the day when he coaxed Katonka to victory in the day's feature race, the $50,000 Gamely Handicap.

A threatened strike by security guards and other employees that would have closed Hollywood Park and three other California tracks failed to materialize Saturday.

Pincay guided Katonka, a slight favorite, to a 1:50 2-5 clocking over the 1⅛-mile on the turf, as the winner returned $5.80, $3.80, and $2.60

NFL teams wonder about draft results

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League's collegiate marketplace is shut down for another year, with 487 of the nation's most promising young athletes neatly divided among the 28 NFL clubs.

Now, the teams must wonder who got the best of the grabbag, and will the new names look as attractive in September as they do in April?

Generally only about half of the draft class survive the rigors of training camp and show up on NFL rosters when the season begins in the fall. There are, however, a few of this year's selections who should have no problem in that area.

The first two picks, for example, were a pair of All-American defensive tackles, Leroy Selmon of Oklahoma, selected by Tampa, and Steve Niehaus of Notre Dame, picked by Seattle. Both are almost certain to be instant starters with their expansion teams.

"It could be neat," said Selmon, considering the prospect of playing with a first-year team assembled of rookies, free agents and left-overs culled from the expansion draft. "There's a lot of work involved, but that's what life is all about."

Niehaus also liked the idea. "I figured it would be best to start out with a new team and a new system," he said.

Both new clubs expect their No. 1 picks to be major factors for their teams.

"Leroy will be the cornerstone of our defense for many years," predicted Tampa Coach John McKay. "By the end of the year, I think Steve may be our best man up front," said Jack Patera, Seattle's coach.

Another pick almost certain to make his team before a football is kicked in anger this summer is Alabama quarterback Richard Todd, who was the New York Jets' first round choice. Todd will be groomed to take over the Jets signalcalling job from aging Joe Namath, and it was Namath, another Alabama product, who recommended the youngster.

Todd was the only quarterback chosen in the draft's first round. There was, however, no shortage of running backs.

Most teams believe running backs are the easiest players to turn up in the pros. Usually they concentrate instead on drafting players who can open up the holes...or close them...for those ball carrying bulls. But the class of rushers available in this draft was too good to pass up and so 11 runners were grabbed in the first 40 selections.

Six of them were among the first 24 players chosen. New Orleans took California's Chuck Muncie, San Diego chose Joe Washington of Oklahoma, Cleveland picked Purdue's Mike Pruitt, Bubba Bean of Texas A&M went to Atlanta, Detroit went for Lawrence Gaines of Wyoming.

Two-time Heisman Trophy winner Archie Griffin, the nation's best known runner, was the last one picked in the opening round. He went to Cincinnati as the 24th player to be drafted.

Two teams, New Orleans and Atlanta, went for runners on both the first and second rounds. After grabbing Muncie, the Saints drafted Tony Galbreath of Missouri in the second round. The Falcons went for Sonny Collins of Kentucky to pair with their first round choice, Bean.

Most of the quality players go in the first couple of rounds of the draft but occasionally a top performer slips through the early net. There was, for example, Don Nottingham, who was the 442nd and final player chosen in 1971. A year later, linebacker Stan White was the final player selected by Baltimore. Both not only survived the various roster cuts but became top NFL players.

Aztecs hosting Cosmos today

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Southern California soccer fans get a chance to see two of the game's most celebrated players today when Pele leads the New York Cosmos against the George Best-headed Los Angeles Aztecs today at the Coliseum.

The first meeting of the two clubs this year was an exhibition game in Arizona last week. Neither former Brazilian great Pele nor British superstar Best, however, had much luck in the game, as the Cosmos and Aztecs battled to a scoreless draw.

Friday night in Seattle, a crowd of 58,138 — lured by a combination of the opening of the new Kingdome and the appearance of Pele — watched the Cosmos down the Sounders 3-1. The crowd was the largest ever to attend a soccer match in the United States.

HELPS NEW YORK

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Summer and fall racing at Belmont Park and Roosevelt Raceway enriched New York State's coffers by more than $33 million in 1975. Belmont's 65-day meeting gave the state $17,982,802 in parimutuel tax, reports the New York State Taxation and Finance Department. The meeting ran from Aug. 25 through Nov. 8.

Frazier, Foreman to meet

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former world heavyweight boxing champions George Foreman and Joe Frazier will meet June 15 in New York City's Yankee Stadium for $1 million each plus a percentage of gross receipts, it was announced Saturday.

Jerry Perenchio, who is promoting the fight for Caesars Palace in Las Vegas, Nev., said the bout also would be shown on closed circuit television in the United States and in at least 19 other countries.

Perenchio said he expected a Yankee Stadium gate of about 60,000 persons, with premium tickets going for $200, $100, $50, and $20. General admission tickets will be $2.00.

"This thing took 10 weeks to set up," he said. "And the fight will go on rain or shine. We'll have two companion fights on the card, one for heavyweights and one for a lower division championship."

He said further details would be made available within 10 days at a Yankee Stadium press conference, adding that Foreman and Frazier signed for the fight nearly a month ago.

BB expansion still in limbo

NEW YORK (AP) — Commissioner Bowie Kuhn again deferred any action on the question of baseball expansion to Toronto and Washington Saturday, pending a meeting with the American League's planning committee.

Kuhn issued a short statement from his office saying that Lee MacPhail, president of the American League, had suggested an early meeting of the committee with the commissioner.

"The purpose of the meeting is to discuss further the Washington situation," Kuhn said.

Ten days ago, the commissioner approved American League expansion to Toronto providing the league also came up with a formula for supplying major league baseball to Washington. He set a seven-day deadline for that purpose, saying if the AL could not come up with a solution in that period, he woald consider a proposed National League move to Toronto and Washington instead.

The American League reacted angrily to Kuhn's action, saying it planned to go ahead with its announced expansion to Seattle and Toronto, regardless of the Commissioner's announcement.

The seven-day period expired Thursday, but Kuhn delayed any action at the request of the leagues. Then Saturday, he again put off any decision.

"President MacPhail advised that he was acting pursuant to the commissioner's teletype request to all clubs last Wednesday that they let him (Kuhn) know any suggested solutions," Kuhn said.

In that teletpe, the commissioner informed all 24 major league clubs that there had been no substantial progress made by the AL to satisfy his request regarding the return of baseball to Washington.

"Under the circumstances, I will defer any final decision until the (American) league's ideas have been fully explored.

"Meanwhile, my decision of April 1 continues in effect in all respects."

Kuhn said he planned to arrange the meeting with the planning committee "and other interested league members" for early next week.

OATES KOed — Phillie catcher Johnny Oates suffered a broken collarbone on this play in Saturday's game with Pittsburgh, as Pirates' Dave Parker crashed into him at home plate in ninth inning. Oates will be sidelined for two months with the injury.

Storybook finish vanishes

MILWAUKEE (AP) — What appeared to be a storybook finish for the Milwaukee Brewers proved to be just that Saturday: pure fiction.

Then again, it all depended on who was retelling the story. And there were plenty of conflicting versions after Don Money's ninth inning grand slam home run—which would have given the Brewers a 10-9 victory—was nullified because first base umpire Jim McKean said he had called time out before the pitch.

The New York Yankees, having scored five runs in their half of the ninth, won 9-7 amid the jeers of the Milwaukee fans.

Trailing 9-6, the Brewers filled the bases with none out in their half of the ninth on a single by Robin Yount, a walk and an error. Right-hander Dave Pagan, fifth of six New York pitchers, had a one-ball, no-strike count on Money, who drilled the next pitch into the left-centerfield bleachers.

Yankee Manager Billy Martin and first baseman Chris Chambliss immediately stormed McKean. After several minutes of heated discussion and mass confusion, the umpires conferred and then called the players back to their positions.

Money, called back to the plate, flied to short right. After a sacrifice fly by George Scott, Darrell Porter was retired on a grounder to second.

That ended the game, as booing fans littered the field with paper cups and other debris. But the controversy continued. Brewer Manager Alex Grammas said an official protest would be filed. Brewer President Bud Selig declined comment.

"Chambliss turned to me just before the pitch and asked for time out," McKean said. "He said Billy (Martin) wanted him to tell the pitcher to go to a full windup, instead of the stretch.

"It was a tough situation, but not a controversial one as far as judgement was concerned because I had called time. No way that hit could have counted because I had called time out.

"Billy came running out, yelling at Chambliss, 'Tell Jimmy you called time.' I couldn't comprehend what Billy was claiming at first, but then I told him, 'Right. Time was out, period. I'll go tell the other dugout.'"

Martin said he told McKean, "You called time. Now you have to back it up." He did.

"It was a tough decision for an umpire," Martin said. "Whether he called it for me or against me, he showed me a lot of class. Good thing Money didn't hit a double-play ball. I would have to go back to the dugout and cry."

Harvey Kuenn, the Brewers' first base coach, disputed McKean's version.

"I heard McKean tell Chambliss he did not call time out," Kuenn said. "I did hear Chambliss call for time, but I never heard the umpire call it. I don't know if McKean put his hand up to signal for time, but I know he didn't yell for time.

"By the time Chambliss was asking for time, the pitch was already on its way. After the ball had gone into the stands, I heard the second base umpire (Nick Bremigan) say he saw the first base ump's hand go up out of the corner of his eye."

Ask whether Bremigan had said he saw the hand go up before or after the pitch, Kueen said, "That was my next question. But they wouldn't let me ask it."

Bobby Darwin, the Brewers' runner on first base at the time, said Pagan was on the rubber, looking for the catcher's sign when Chambliss asked for time.

"My back was to the umpire, so I didn't see whether he put up his hand up," Darwin said. "I heard Chambliss yell, 'time, time.' And then, 'Oh . . .!' when Pagan let the pitch go. I didn't hear the umpire call for time.

Money said he believed Martin influenced the umpire to change his decision.

"Damm right," teammate Kurt Bevacqua said, "he's the best intimidator in the league. He and (California Manager Dick Williams)."

"Why did Billy have to come out and argue all that time?" Money asked. "He (McKean) could have said, 'Billy, I called time out.' but no, they had to argue before he changed his decision. You should just make your decision, right or wrong, and stick by it."

After reporters had gotten the umpire's versions, Selig met privately with the umpires in their dressing room. He wouldn't say what he had said, but plate umpire George Maloney said Selig had been very courteous and had said nothing about a possible protest.

"He's an owner, and he's entitled to an explanation," Maloney said. "We gave it to him."

In Saturday's other American League afternoon action, Baltimore beat Boston 5-1, Detroit defeated Cleveland 3-1 and Oakland downed California 6-2.

In National League day games, Cincinnati rocked Houston 13-7, the New York Mets edged Montreal 1-0, the Chicago Cubs nipped St. Louis 4-3 and Pittsburgh topped Philadelphia 5-4 in 11 innings. Los Angeles at San Francisco was rained out.

Chris Chambliss' two-run double and Lou Piniella's triple highlighted the five-run burst in the top of the ninth that completed the Yankees' comeback from a 6-0 deficit.

Lee May's tie-breaking single and Tony Muser's two-run hit keyed the five-run eighth inning that propelled Baltimore past the Red Sox. Designated hitter Willie Horton's two-run homer led Detroit past the Indians.

Johnny Bench slammed a three-run homer and a double and Joe Morgan hit a two-run homer as Cincinnati belted Houston. Jon Matlock's four-hitter and Felix Millan's fourth-inning RBI-double gave the Mets their victory over Montreal.

Kings meet Bruins

BOSTON (AP) — Lacking a pair of star defensemen, the Boston Bruins are counting on goalie Gilles Gilbert to get the National Hockey League's Stanley Cup playoffs quarter-finals off to a good start against the Los Angeles Kings on Sunday night.

Gilbert shut out the Kings once in the five times the two teams met during the regular season. In all, Boston won four times and the Kings once.

But superstar Bruins defenseman Bobby Orr, sidelined with knee trouble since November, is still out, as is defenseman Brad Park, who underwent knee surgery in February.

"No coach is going to change what he's been doing for eight months and suddenly put in the perfect play," he said. "If I had the perfect play, I'd have used it in November."

For weeks the team hoped Orr's left knee would be well enough for him to return in the playoffs. But he and his doctors admitted last Wednesday the knee just wasn't ready.

In the best-of-seven series, Los Angeles will rely on goalie Rogie Vachon, who has the lowest goals-against average of any netminder in the playoffs, 1.86.

Kings Coach Bob Pulford, who centered for the Toronto Maple Leafs for four Stanley Cups in the 1960, hadn't decided Saturday whether to start Vachon against Gilbert tonight.

The Kings have never won the trophy. They were knocked out in the first round by Toronto last year and compiled a 38-33-9 record in the regular season, finishing second to Montreal in the NHL's Norris Division.

Broncos lose twice

RIVERSIDE — The UC Riverside baseball team rocked Cal Poly Pomona pitching for 18 runs on 25 hits Saturday in a CCAA doubleheader, taking the first game 13-7 and the nightcap 5-4.

The two losses drop the Broncs' conference mark to 3-3. UCR now leads the CCAA with a 4-2 ledger. Cal Poly stands at 18-18-1 on the year.

The Highlanders blasted out 17 hits to win Saturday's opener, as Chaffey High and Chaffey JC product Brian Francisco led the UCR attack with a home run and two singles good for three RBI.

The Broncs had taken a 2-1 lead in that contest after three and one-half innings on the strength of homers by Dennis Sherow and Dale Biggs, but UCR scored five times in the fourth and six more in the sixth to zoom ahead to stay.

Cal Poly led 4-3 going into the last of the sixth of the second game, but a double by Randy Christman drove in the tieing run and the winning tally came across in the same frame on a ground out.

CPP had a double by Clay Harris and a walk by Jim Pryor in the top of the seventh of the second contest in its last at bats, but Kevin Jenkins struck out to end the frustrating afternoon for the locals.

On the twinbill, Sherow and Alex Torres had four hits apiece for the Broncs, but UCR's John Messner had seven hits in the two games and Francisco added a homer, triple and three singles.

Cal Poly will continue CCAA play on Thursday vs. Cal State Northridge.

Citrus expands Mission lead

Saturday was a good day for the three local junior colleges, as they all registered wins on the baseball field.

Citrus pushed its lead in the Mission Conference Northern Division to two full games by besting Saddleback 5-2 while Chaffey was beating San Bernardino Valley College 7-0. Mt. San Antonio College caputred a 9-4 non-league decision from Rio Hondo.

The Owls used the services of four pitchers to seven-hit Saddleback. Mike Yackee picked up the win by working the middle five innings.

Citrus is now 11-3 in Mission outings and 19-6 on the year.

Chaffey pushed its Mission mark to 9-5 with the win over SBVC. San Bernardino is now also 9-5 in conference.

Larry Bell got the starting call for the Panthers and responded with a six-hit shutout. The freshman righthander, a product of Alta Loma High, fanned two and walked six, but the Panther defense helped him out with errorless ball afield.

The Panthers jumped on SBVC ace Kevin Stanfield for four big runs in the fourth to take a 6-0 lead. Big blow in that frame was a two-run triple by Murray Daniels.

MSAC's Kevin Chapman picked up his seventh win of the year against no losses against Rio Hondo. The Mounties trailed 2-0 early in the game, but scored all nine of their runs in the middle innings.

Tracy Cowger had a solo homer for the locals while Dave Payne had a homer and double for Rio Hondo. MSAC is now 17-6-1 on the season.

Hornets win swim finals

Fullerton Junior College handily won the South Coast Conference swimming and diving title Saturday at Mt. San Antonio College's pool.

The Hornets' three-day point total was 153, placing them far ahead of Grossmont (85½), Orange Coast (83), Santa Ana (62), Cerritos (51), San Diego Mesa (20) and MSAC (9½).

Fullerton's Scott Claffey set a conference record in the 200-yard backstroke with a time of 2:01.8 while teammate Les Oja set a mark in the 100 freestyle in 48.7. The pair helped Fullerton's 400 freestyle relay team turn in a record 3:18.3, eclipsing that school's mark of 3:20.3 set in 1970.

Orange Coast's Ron Schafer swam to a record 2:18.4 in the 200 breaststroke. The other six records set in the three days of competition belonged to Fullerton.

MSAC's Bob McCormick placed fourth in the 100 freestyle in 50.7 Saturday while teammate Bill Burns was sixth in the 200 butterfly in 2:12.5.

IRISH MIKE — Boxing prospect Irish Mike Baker works out in Washington, D.C. Baker is owned by Washington Redskin coach George Allen and 'Skins owner Edward Bennett Williams.

'Skins George Allen has boxing prospect

WASHINGTON (AP) — Few things can divert George Allen's attention from his Washington Redskins and professional football. But Irish Mike Baker is one of them.

Allen, the Redskins' general manager and coach, also is a long-time boxing fan. So, Allen has become the owner, along with Redskins President Edward Bennett Williams, of a fighter—namely, Baker, a junior middleweight.

Not one to do anything halfway, Allen has put Baker on the Redskins' payroll, installed a speed punching bag and a 10-pound heavy bag in the gym at Redskins Park and plans to construct an outdoor boxing ring at Washington's training camp in Carlisle, Pa., in July.

Baker, 24, held the U.S. junior middleweight title in January with a 26-6-1 record, but he was out of condition and depressed and hadn't fought since October. His regular job as a messenger in the House of Representatives barely left him enough time and energy to train. His diet was hamburgers, submarine sandwiches and soft drinks.

"It had come to the point where I was almost ready to retire," he said.

Enter Allen, who confessed that as a youngster that he loved watching fighters and as an adult wanted to own one.

"When I came to Washington," Allen said, "Ed Williams and I were looking for a heavyweight. We saw Irish Mike fight at Capital Centre, and we liked him and we purchased his contract. It's natural to have a fighter use the facilities here."

Allen first hired Baker on the Redskins' staff for the same, undisclosed salary that the fighter made working on Capital Hill, a job which he quit.

The Redskins coach then brought in new trainers—Bobby Brown and Ken Stribling—and sent Baker to a Washington gymnasium to work out every day.

Next, he lined up some fights—the one Monday night and one in Los Angeles April 21 against Renato Garcia. A planned match March 1 against Emile Griffith was canceled when Griffith suffered an injury and retired.

Then, Allen revamped Baker's diet to cut out the junk food, and changed his training strategy. He started Baker on lifting light weights—a taboo among most fight trainers who feel that weightlifting builds bulk at the expense of agility. Baker now lifts 70-pound barbells to strengthen his triceps and does 130-pound bench presses to build his chest muscles.

The Redskins' trainers taught Baker some other tricks, too. Like stretching muscles with calisthenics before a workout to avoid muscle pulls. The trainers also suggested that Baker press ice cubes under each eye between rounds in a fight to reduce swelling.

In addition, Allen will bring the fighter to training camp in Carlisle to spar in an outdoor ring. The coach feels the sun will toughen Baker's skin and the regular meals and sleep will improve his condition.

"It will be good for him," Allen said, "and it will be a diversion for the players."

West Coast 250 set to go today

L.D. Ottinger of Newport, Tenn., only "outsider" in the lineup, will be on the pole when the race gets underway at 1 p.m. Ottinger is NASCAR's National Sportsmen champion.

Jimmy Insolo of Mission Hills will be on the outside of the first row. Sonny Easley (Van Nuys) and Herschel McGriff of Bridal Veil, Ore. will be in the second row in the number three and four positions.

Tickets may be purchased at the gate. General admission price is $6.00. Spectator gates open at 9 a.m.

All 40 cars were impounded after last Sunday's washout and will not be released until 10 a.m. this morning. A brief practice session is scheduled for 11 a.m.

McGriff, at 49, is one of the oldest drivers racing. He began his career in 1953. He has won the Permatex 200 at Riverside four times and figures to be a front runner today.

Easley was runnerup to Grand National West Champion Ray Elder in the 1975 NASCAR standings with two victories and nine finishes in the top 10.

Insolo was seventh in the 1975 standings but also had two victories. Easley dominated the last NASCAR Sportsman race at OMS. He led almost all the way only to be edged at the finish by George Follmer.

Ottinger qualified a California prepared 1975 Chevy at a speed of 148.947 mph. Insolo, in a 1973 Chevy, was clocked at 148.407 mph.

Lakers' Sharman on spot

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers, despite the addition of Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, lost out in the battle to the National Basketball Association playoffs—and Coach Bill Sharman wonders if he'll be back next season.

Sharman coached the Lakers totheir only NBA title in his first year at Los Angeles, 1971. Now he has finished the final season of a five-year contract.

"I've never been in this position before," says the former star of the Boston Celtics who has coached winners in both the NBA and ABA. "I have no idea what's going to happen, but I hope a decision will be reached soon for the benefit of the team, the organization and, of course, me."

The Phoenix Suns beat the Lakers 113-98 Thursday night to erase the final chance of Los Angeles reaching the playoffs. Their 40-42 record left them in fourth place behind Golden State, Seattle and Phoenix in the Pacific Division.

There was no immediate meeting scheduled between Sharman and owner Jack Kent Cooke, whose Kings of the National Hockey League are still in the playoffs.

Sharman said he would like to be back with the Lakers next season and said the team's record 33 consecutive victories during his first season has proven to be the highlight of his career.

"The Lakers have given me five great years," the coach commented. I've been very fortunate in basketball and that championship season will be hard to beat."

Sharman said Cooke had been "super" to him, "especially when he helped me through all of my personal problems."

The coach's wife died 20 months ago and his father died five months later.

"I considered taking a year off, but I decided to keep my mind occupied as much as possible through basketball. I thought it would be better than brooding.

"It's kind of unfortunate for me that we were rebuilding the last year of my contract. If this were in the middle of my contract, it wouldn't bother me as much.

"I've always wanted a running team. We don't have that type of team yet, but I know that if I stay here, we eventually are going to have it."

Ross wants a chance

Just a chance to pitch occasionally — preferably in the majors and preferably for someone who appreciates what he has to contribute.

Gary Douglas Ross is a 28-year-old right-hander currently fighting to win a job with the California Angels and at this juncture he appears destined to join Jim Brewer, Dick Drago and Mickey Scott in the rejuvenated Angel bullpen, heretofore sometimes referred to sarcastically as the Arson Squad.

"I'd be crazy if I said I didn't want to start, but every other pitcher on this team would probably tell you the same thing—except for Brewer," Ross acknowledged.

"But I've been in the bullpen for five years so I know what it's like and what I have to do. Like they say, I'm just glad to be here. I'll do whatever they ask but if they want me to start I'll run to the ballpark."

Even if Ross is assigned to the bullpen it will be a decided improvement on his location last year—Hawaii, a nice place to vacation but you wouldn't want to pitch there knowing you probably should be in the big leagues.

Red Sox picked to repeat

By Associated Press

How quickly they forget.

It was only six months ago that the Boston Red Sox went to the ninth inning of the seventh game of the World Series before bowing to Cincinnati. But now, just because of one blockbuster trade, some people are writing off the Red Sox, saying that Baltimore has dealt itself to a championship.

Sure the Orioles look awesome with the addition of slugger Reggie Jackson and pitcher Ken Holtzman, who came to Baltimore courtesy of Oakland owner Charles O. Finley. Certainly, the Orioles will make it close in the American League East. But when it's all over, look for the boys from Boston to be back on top of the division.

The Red Sox simply have too much talent to be a one-shot sensation. Throughout their lineup, the Sox are loaded.

Fred Lynn, the Most Valuable Player and Rookie of the Year, anchors an outstanding young outfield which also includes Jim Rice and Dwight Evans. The infield is solid and Carlton Fisk is the best catcher in the American League. The pitching staff, with Luis Tiant, Bill Lee and Rick Wise, should get a big boost from Fergy Jenkins, acquired from Texas.

Jackson gives the Orioles big punch in the middle of their batting order. He moves into an outfield that includes defensive whiz Paul Blair and slugger Ken Singleton. First baseman Lee May also has long ball power. Mark Belanger and Bobby Grich are vacuum cleaners around the middle of the diamond.

For Baltimore, the other nice part of the A's trade is being able to go into almost every series knowing that Jim Palmer and Ken Holtzman will pitch two of the games. Mike Cuellar and Ross Grimsley figure to complete the starting rotation.

The New York Yankees return to refurbished Yankee Stadium with a new look for their new ball park. the Yankees have traded thunder for lightning, surrendering power for speed. The new look is best reflected by centerfielder Mickey Rivers, the AL base-stealing king, who came from California in exchange for Bobby Bonds.

The Yankees also got pitcher Ed Figueroa in that deal, and he'll be the No. 2 starter behind Catfish Hunter. Another key newcomer is second baseman Willie Randolph, whom the Yankees hope can end decade-long headaches at that position.

Cleveland is improving under Manager Frank Robinson, and outfielder Rick Manning could be a superstar. If George Hendrick and Charlie Spikes play up to their potential, the Indians outfield could rival Boston's.

New Manager Alex Grammas will find that Milwaukee is a little thinner on talent than Cincinnati, where he coached last year. The Brewers do have one legitimate run-producer in slugger George Scott and a star of the future in shortstop Robin Yount.

Detroit picked up outfielder Rusty Staub from the New York Mets but it cost them pitcher Mickey Lolich. That leaves Manager Ralph Houk with Joe Coleman, Vern Ruhle and newcomer Dave Roberts as his three top starters and that seems a little thin. Of course, with Lolich gone, that would be expected.

It is a tribute to Bill North, Joe Rudi, Gene Tenace, Sal Bando, Vida Blue, Rollie Fingers and the other veterans of the Oakland A's that they keep right on winning.

They were stripped of 20-game winner Hunter last year and still won, and they now are stripped of slugger Jackson and another 20-game winner in Holtzman and they still will win. Partly because the Jackson-Holtzman replacements, outfielder Don Baylor and pitcher Mike Torrez, are solid performers. And partly because the American League West, where the A's operate, never will be mistaken for baseball's most potent division.

The picks:

West: Oakland, Kansas City, Texas, Chicago, Minnesota, California.

Sorry—this is for champs

By PHIL ROCHE
PB Golf Writer

It's the richest per capita tournament in the country — nearly $10,000 per player ($9,782.60).

It rewards handsomely even those who aren't winners. For example, the player who finished dead last will receive about $4,000.

First prize in the MONY Tournament of Champions is $45,000.

The 24th annual elite event will be contested this week at beautiful La Costa Country Club.

At this writing 23 players have qualified for this tournament, open only to winners of major events since the last MONY T of C.

That's the huge obstacle — winning a tournament. For nine qualifiers, defending champion Al Geiberger, Jack Nicklaus, Johnny Miller, Hale Irwin, Hubert Green, Tom Watson, Gene Littler, Ben Crenshaw and Roger Maltbie, it was easy. They have won two or more tournaments. But for others, there's an awesome mortality rate among year-to-year qualifiers.

Of the 30 players in last year's MONY T of C, only 10 will be back — an attrition rate of 67%, and that's not the worst. Of the 31 qualifiers in 1973, only seven are back in 1974, a 77% fatality rate.

The fewest number of qualifiers was 20, in 1953 and 1954.

Campbell scored a 2, three under par on the par 5, 475-yard 12th at San Dimas Canyon, last week, firing 35 on the front nine and 31, five under, on the back for a classy 66.

In low net they were Josie Ochoa, Virginia Block, Sue Tennyson and Mally Darling.

ATHLETIC DIRECTOR Ed Conly at Citrus College announced that the Seventh Annual memorial golf tournament, named for former head basketball coach Don Edwards, will be played on Saturday, June 12, at Corona National Golf Course.

The annual event, with proceeds going to scholarships, had been played exclusively at El Rancho Verde in Rialto.

"We just want to let all of our many friends know that the date has been set and we'd like to have them reserve the day to join us for the fun and competition," said Conly. "We will have more detailed information a little later, but for those who would like more information, please call me at Citrus (335-0521) and we will add them to our mailing list," he said.

He putts lefthanded, but he swings all the other golf clubs righthanded. He didn't start to play golf seriously until he was 22. He was a southpaw pitcher for the University of Washington and in his last game against UCLA he ripped the tendons in his elbow. "That ended my baseball career," Acton said.

Minnie Minoso happy to be back

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — After 12 years in self-imposed exile, old Minnie Minoso is back in the major leagues—and Bill Veeck's got him.

"I'm beginning my second life," the former all-star outfielder said today, his black face shining in the Florida sun. "When you live to 50 it is one life. When you start the second 50, it is a new one.

"I am 52. If I got arrested they couldn't prosecute me. I am a minor. I am two years old."

Minoso, who has spent the last 12 years on the baseball diamonds of Mexico, is part of Veeck's reconstruction program with the Chicago White Sox. As first base coach, he again is working for the man who first hired him and for his favorite manager, Paul Richards.

"I was the first black man to wear a White Sox uniform," he said proudly, "And now I am the first black coach for the team."

The Cuban native said an early morning phone call in January brought him out of the moth balls.

"It was Mr. Veeck," he recalled. "He said, 'Minnie do you want to come back to baseball?' It was too early in the morning. At first I thought it was a dream, that I was still asleep.

"When I came to my senses, I said, 'Tell me when you want me—I will be there.' Richards called later. If I say no to these men, I die."

Even then it wasn't an easy decision for the old player and his family—a wife and four children.

"My wife said to me, 'Minnie, what do you love better— baseball or your family?'" he related. "I said to her, 'I have always come home to my family. When I am in uniform, on the field, baseball is No. 1.'

"It is not a matter of choice. After all, baseball took me out of the sugar cane fields"

Minoso grew up in the little sugar cane community of Perico, more than 100 miles from Havana. He worked hard and played baseball. All kids in Cuba played baseball.

In 1948, Veeck, the great innovator who then was at Cleveland, signed him and sent him to Dayton.

Davis to defend PBA title

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Dave Davis will defend his championship this week against 51 challengers in the windup of the Professional Bowlers Association winter tour, the $125,000 Tournament of Champions.

The $25,000 first prize is the richest in professional bowling.

The field, limited to tour winners, is certain to include eight newcomers at Riviera Lanes Wednesday through Saturday. The finals will be nationally televised by ABC.

The new champions appearing will be Sam Flanagan of Parkersburg, W. Va., Sal Bongiorno of Hollywood, Fla., Palmer Fallgren of Sacramento, Calif., Marshall Holman of Medford, Ore., Dale Glenn of Los Angeles, John Wilcox of Montoursville, Pa., Bus Oswalt of Muncie, Ind., and Paul Moser of Medford, Mass.

Fallgren, only 25 but on the pro tour seven years, won at San Jose and earned $26,000 last season.

As an amateur, Wilcox rolled the second all-time high series of 885 in 1972. He took the Syracuse Open last fall and was fourth in the $100,000 World Open.

Oswalt, a long-time PBA member, competes mainly in regional tournaments. He won at Irving, Tex., to make it to Akron.

NASL opens Weds.

NEW YORK (AP) — The North American Soccer League opens its 10th season Wednesday with 20 franchises, a bright attendance picture, a host of newly arrived British stars, some Americans who are gradually developing into world-class players—and Pele.

Foremost of all, Pele.

"Image is what professional sports is all about," said NASL Commissioner Phil Woosnam, "and Pele projects the image of a champion. There is no greater missionary for our game. He provides identification. He's attracted the attention of people who now know about soccer."

Tampa Bay took the NASL title last year, won the league's indoor tournament this winter and is favored to become the league's first repeat champion.

New attractions around the league include famed British stars George Best and Ron Davies with Los Angeles, Bobby Moore with San Antonio, Geoff Hurst with Seattle and Rodney Marsh with Tampa. Top holdovers include Pele and American goalie Bob Rigby of the Cosmos, 1975 leading scoring Steve David of Miami and American Kyle Rote Jr. of Dallas.

Warriors eager for NBA playoff action

OAKLAND (AP) — The Golden State Warriors eagerly await the National Basketball Association playoffs, their personal showcase and road to glory a year ago.

"Once we get into the playoffs, we'll play with full intensity," predicted center Clifford Ray after the Warriors were forced into overtime before winning a late-season game against Phoenix.

Phil Smith echoed that thought.

"We've got to stomp them when they're down," he said. "We've played a little too loosely at times lately. Sometimes we have a tendency to feel a game is won too soon."

Last year, when the Warriors had only the fourth best regular season record in the NBA, such tendencies were not evident. They were the team which came from behind, particularly in the championship series against Washington when they swept to a shocking four-game sweep of the Bullets.

Coach Al Attles' Warriors finished this season with the best record in the NBA, never lost more than two games in a row and led the league in scoring and rebounding.

"We had confidence coming into the season," says Smith, who developed into one of pro basketball's top guards in his first season as a starter. "After winning last season, we knew what we could do and what we had to do to accomplish it. The most important thing is that we're all hard workers on this team."

Smith and forward Jamaal Wilkes, both second-year pros, earned All-Star game invitations this year. The team's bench is deeper and stronger with the addition of forward Dwight Davis, acquired from Cleveland, and rookie guard Gus Williams, who played more and scored more than starter Charles Johnson.

"We're an improved team, there's no doubt about that. Gus and Dwight are two of the biggest reasons why," says Rick Barry, the superstar no longer counted on for 30 points a game.

Barry's 21-point average is nine points lower than a year ago. He averaged two minutes less playing time and seven less shots per game, but collected more rebounds and assists than last season.

"Rick has done everything he's had to do," says Warriors General Manager Dick Vertlieb, who has criticized the selection of other players for the NBA Most Valuable Player award the past two seasons.

"Rick changed his game this year. I thought other people would recognize what he's done, but obviously they didn't," Vertlieb concluded.

Maybe after the playoffs, he'll be asking for a recount again.

Politics bar athletes from Olympics

LOS ANGELES (AP) — John Van Reenen, Danie Malan, Fanie Van Zijl and Jonty Skinner all have the same problem. Marcello Fiasconaro had it and solved it. Bruce Kennedy has it and he's in limbo.

All are citizens of nations banned from the 1976 Summer Olympic Games at Montreal. And unless something changes drastically in the next few months, five of them will be spectators instead of competitors when the Olympics begin.

The first three have long known they were outcasts. Van Reenen, former world record holder in the discus; Malan, one of the world's top 800-meter runners, and Van Zijl, a 1,500-meter specialist, are all South Africans, and thus banned from the Munich games because of their nation's apartheid policies.

Fiasconaro, the world record holder for 800 meters, is also a South Africa resident, but fate gives him a chance to compete in this year's Games.

Fiasconaro has an Italian father, a former pilot for the Italian Air Force who was shot down over South Africa during World War II and imprisoned. After the war ended, the pilot married a local girl and Marcello was born.

In 1973, Marcello chose to compete for his father's native land, even though he has never lived in Italy and doesn't speak the language.

Skinner, a superb swimmer who has never competed for his native South Africa, has a similar problem. His parents are both South Africans, but he has lived in the United States for the last 2½ years, a student at Alabama.

At the insistence of Alabamans who hate to see injustice, Skinner has asked Congress to permit him temporary citizenship to compete in the Olympics. "I plan to settle down here permanently and eventually apply for regular citizenship," he said recently, but the bill now in Congress may be hard to get passed since it would apply to only Skinner.

Kennedy, a javelin thrower, is from Rhodesia, which sent a small team to the 1972 Olympics. But once in Munich, the Rhodesians were the target of a near boycott by black African nations protesting that black nation's white rule.

The Supreme Council for Sport in Africa decided just days before the 1972 Games that all black African nations would not compete if Rhodesia did. The International Olympic Committee then ruled that Rhodesia was out.

Kennedy was graduated from the University of California and has lived in this country since 1969. He took up residence in September 1973 when he got married. "You can apply for citizenship if you're married here for three years," said his wife, Barbara.

"Well, three years from the date of our marriage will be past the time of the Olympics, and that's no good at all. Bruce really wants to go to the Olympics badly, but I don't think there's any way."

A waiver of only three months would gain him citizenship and the right to enter the U.S. Olympic Trials. Thus far, though, immigration officials have indicated they won't make any exceptions for Kennedy.

Kennedy's wife said from their San Jose home that her husband "will apply for citizenship anyway, to see what happens. But the more publicity we get about this, the more people will realize our problem."

Kennedy's best javelin throw is 267 feet 5 inches, which doesn't figure to win a medal at the Olympics, but his goal is just to compete in them if possible.

The racial policies and politics of South Africa and Rhodesia have created problems for years. An incident arose last January which made headlines.

Filbert Bayi of Tanzania, then the world mile record holder, was to meet New Zealand's John Walker, the top-rated middle-distance runner of 1975, in a race in New Zealand. However, a South African softball team was invited to play in New Zealand about the same time and Tanzanian track officials, in protest to New Zealand's willingness to compete with South Africans, pulled out of the track meet.

Two months later at San Diego, New Zealand's Rod Dixon was to run an indoor mile against Bayi.

"There was a lot of talk when I got to San Diego that the Tanzanians would ask me to take off my New Zealand singlet (jersey) and wear something else," said Dixon. "Well, I was planning to tell them to stick it. I'm not all that nationalistic, but New Zealand is where I live and I love it there. I wasn't going to take that singlet off for him or anyone else."

But the Tanzanians never asked the national jersey be taken off and, in a dramatic climax to the episode, Dixon soundly thrashed Bayi in a time of 3:56.8.

That sort of political intrigue behind the sports scene doesn't figure to pop up again this year—but the 1972 Rhodesian crisis at the Olympics, which was later overshadowed by the Arab terrorists' murder of Israeli athletes, wasn't expected, either.

Meanwhile, the private wars of Jonty Skinner and Bruce Kennedy continue in bureaucratic circles.

Market staggering: year's sharpest drop

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market suffered its sharpest setback of the year this week in selloff that followed another unsuccessful bid by the Dow Jones industrial average to break clear of the 1,000 level.

The Dow average of 30 blue chips fell 23.30 points to 968.28 in its largest weekly decline since it tumbled 41.87 last Dec. 1-5.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index dropped 1.90 to 100.35, and the New York Stock Exchange composite index was down 1.13 at 53.41.

The point on which the week's activity turned came in the middle of Tuesday's session. The Dow had risen 12.51 Monday and added another 7 points early Tuesday to stand at about the 1,010 level.

Once again, as it had numerous times in the past six weeks, it appeared on the verge of getting clear of the 1,000 range and setting out in search of even more ambitious targets.

But the stubborn resistance the average had encountered on each previous run showed up again. By the close Tuesday the Dow had fallen back to 1,001.65, with only a 2.44 loss to show for the day.

The Dow declined 15 points on Wednesday and 9 on Thursday. At midday in the week's final session, it made a brief and feeble attempt to rally.

The weekly tally of NYSE listed issues showed 1,286 losers against 559 gainers among the 2,065 traded.

New highs for the year numbered 202, compared with 65 new lows.

G. D. Searle, the most active Big Board issue, fell 3 to 14⅝.

General Electric, which led off the first quarter earnings parade by reporting an 82 per cent gain in profits, managed a ¾ gain to 57⅞.

Kaufman & Broad rose 1¼ to 10⅝, also on favorable earnings news from the company.

SYLVIA CANEZ

WILLIAM J. ERNE

Business news in the valley

SYLVIA CANEZ is manager of the Value Fair Department Store in Pomona. She succeeds Jerry DeRossett.

Mrs. Canez has been with Value Fair since 1966. She started as a clerk in Santa Maria. Later she was section head at that store, and in 1974 was promoted to assistant manager there.

She came to Pomona from that position.

For the past year Erne served as assistant vice president and administrative assistant to Elenbaas. He joined Bank of America in 1965. He is a sociology graduate of La Verne College. He and his wife Becky have two children, Chris 10, and Jennifer 6.

Two new rider-type industrial floor scrubbers have been introduced by FMC WAYNE SWEEPER PLANT in Pomona. Both incorporate new design features for more effective scrubbing, plant executives said.

JAMES J. MARTIN, son of B. G. Martin of Pomona, is director of purchasing for Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical Corp., in Oakland. Vice president E. Allen Holbrook said Martin joined the company as a trainee in 1960 and worked at the Ravenswood, W. Va., aluminum works as a buyer before returning to Oakland in 1963 to assume a management role in commodity purchasing. Martin is a graduate of UC Berkeley with a degree in production management.

A modernization at the KAISER STEEL CORP. plant in Fontana originally expected to cost $150 million now is expected to cost $200 million with the addition of continuous slab caster and related facilities.

The continuous caster will eliminate the teeming and rolling of ingots from the steel processing procedure for up to 700,000 tons of the annual output from the plant.

He will assume new responsibilities at Occidental's research center in La Verne April 22, when he reports to Donald L. Baeder, executive vice president of research and development.

Prior to joining the firm Berger was manager of the government research laboratories for Exxon Corp. and had been director of Exxon's research laboratories.

He has been awarded 10 patents, has had more than 25 papers published and been recognized for his technical achievements in "American Men of Science." He has had more than 20 years experience in petroleum and petrochemical research, development and commercialization.

Berger is a graduate of Columbia University. He is married and has three children.

Kenneth Wolfe, who has been acting president, now will resume his duties as vice president of engineering and construction.

NATIONALLY KNOWN SPEED READING COURSE TO BE TAUGHT HERE IN POMONA VALLEY

Pomona (Spec.) Golden State Reading Lab, Inc. will offer a 4 week course in speed reading to a limited number of qualified pople in the Pomona area.

This recently developed method of instruction is the most innovative and effective program available in the United States.

Not only does this famous course reduce your time in the classroom to just one class per week for 4 short weeks, but it also includes an advanced speed reading course on cassette tape so that you can continue to improve for the rest of your life. In just 4 weeks the average student should be reading 4-5 times faster. In a few months some students are reading 20-30 times faster, attaining speeds that approach 600 words per minute. In rare instances, speeds of up to 13,000 wpm have been documented.

Our average graduate should read 7-10 times faster upon completion of the course with marked improvement in comprehension and concentration.

For those who would like additional information, a series of free, one hour, orientation lectures have been scheduled. At these free lectures, the course will be expiained in complete detail, including classroom procedures, instruction methods, class schedule and a special 1 time only introductory tuition that is less than one-third the cost of similar courses. You must attend any of the meetings for information about the Pomona classes.

These orientations are open to the public, above age 14, (persons under 18 should be accompanied by a parent, if possible).

If you have always wanted to be a speed reader, but found the cost prohibitive or the course too time consuming . . . now you can! Just by attending 1 evening per week for 4 short weeks, you can read 7 to 10 times faster, concentrate better, and comprehend more.

If you are a student who would like to make A's instead of B's or C's, or if you are a business person who wants to stay abreast of today's everchanging, accelerating world, then this course is an absolute necessity.

These special one-hour lectures will be held the following times and places.

Thursday, April 8 at 6:30 & 8:30 P.M.
Friday, April 9 at 6:30 & 8:30 P.M.
Saturday, April 10 at 10:30 A.M. & 1:30 P.M.

Meetings will be held at Pomona Valley YMCA, 350 N. Garey Ave.

Tuesday, April 13, at 6:30 & 8:30 P.M.
Wednesday, April 14 at 6:30 & 8:30 P.M.

These last two days, meetings will be held at the Uplander Motel, located at Foothill Blvd. and Euclid.

If you are a businessman, student, housewife or executive, this course, which took 5 years of intensive research to develop, is a must. You can read 7-10 faster, comprehend more, concentrate better, and remember longer. Students are offered an additional discount. This course can be taught to industry or civic groups at "Group Rates" upon request. Be sure to attend whichever free orientation that fits best in your schedule.

Bake at home Easter basket

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Children can get into the do-it-yourself act by making their own Easter baskets out of pantry ingredients. The cost — about 30 cents a basket — should make the venture appealing in economy-minded households.

Crafts artist Susan VanderWey of Chicago considers the salt sculpture, as it is called, one of the most engrossing projects for children. She has shown hosptalized children how to make Easter hats out of paper plates, beads, feathers, laces and so on, and she has taught them how to make papier mache dragon heads. But the make-and-bake Easter baskets made out of flour, salt and water may be among her most successful crafts with small children.

Six to 10-year-olds do it very well, she says. Younger children may need help.

Salt sculpture was a big fad about 10 years ago when it even won Brownie points for the pre-Scout set, but it wasn't always successfully done when people did it in their own kitchens, because the formula might not have been exact. The revival of interest in the last year has made testing and retesting necessary, Susan explained, and when you get the hang of it, you really can't go wrong.

"Sometimes humidity affects the dough, and then you add a little more flour and salt or sometimes more water may be needed. Just rinsing your hands and moistening the dough with damp hands might be all that is needed," she maintains.

Although the dough in the recipe is inedible, originally bread doughs were used in such molded forms. In Egypt these were in the shapes of animals and other things that were worshiped and sacrificed to the gods. In northern Europe in Roman times bread made in elaborate molds was branded to identify the baker.

The Swiss used cake and cookie recipes in contriving very elaborate ornaments in the shape of religious symbols and plaques with writing on them. Soon nonedible doughs evolved that would last longer, she says.

Susan, who was an art major at the University of Illinois, suggests varying the basket idea if a number of baskets are to be made.

Here's how to make the basic salt sculpture dough: Use two cups of flour not self-rising, 1 cup of salt and 1 cup of water.

Combine flour and salt in a large flat bottom bowl, mix well with a spoon. Add water a little at a time, mixing as you pour it, to form the dough into a ball. Add additional water if needed, but not enough to make dough sticky. Knead 7 to 10 minutes until dough has a smooth, firm consistency. Place dough in plastic bag to keep it from drying.

TO MAKE AN EASTER BASKET: Use two batches of the basic recipe.

Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Lightly oil an oven-proof casserole dish. On floured surface, roll out about one-third of dough (a thickness of ½ inch is good for a small child, ¼ inch for an older child.) Using cookie cutter, cut as many rabbits as will fit around edge inside of casserole, plus one for the bottom center. Set aside.

Roll remaining dough (with palms pressing lightly to lengthen) into ropes or "snakes." Coil into bottom of casserole "any which way" building up on sides of casserole to about one inch in height. NOTE: The more often coils touch, the stronger the basket. Where edges abut, brush with water to bond.

Set rabbits along sides of casserole, resting on coils. Continue to work with coils to fill any empty spaces and increase strength of basket. Again brush all edges that touch with water. Place on rack in oven for 12 to 15 minutes to harden slightly so that it can bear the weight of the handle.

HANDLE: Cut a strip of flexible cardboard about 1½ inches wide, long enough to form a good arch when edges rest on bottom of casserole. Cover with aluminum foil. Roll out two long snakes of the dough. Gently roll together for coiled handle. Place on foil-covered cardboard. Place edges of strip into basket. Twine ends of coiled handle along sides of basket. (For extra "stick" add small balls of dough where handle joins basket.) Brush edges that touch with water to bond. Place in oven.

NOTE: Check often during first 10 minutes of baking to make sure handle is staying in its proper position. If necessary, braces can be formed with more foil-wrapped cardboard. Bake for 1½ hours or until hard. Allow to cool. Spray with varnish or shellac, sealing exposed surfaces.

LEAGUE LITERATURE — Mrs. Dwight Siler, left, and Mrs. Jack Hoxsey of Pomona-Diamond Bar League of Women Voters explain literature the club publishes to W. F. Montgomery, president of Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Pomona-Diamond Bar unit

League plans finance drive

The League of Women Voters of Pomona-Diamond Bar will conduct its annual finance drive in the local business communities the week of April 26-30. During this period League members will call on businesses in Pomona and Diamond Bar to make financial contributions to support the League's local community-service activities.

This year prior to the June and November elections the League plans to distribute its widely-respected printed pros and cons on the state and county ballot measures throughout the Pomona and Diamond Bar areas. The League also plans to provide printed information on the U.S. Senatorial candidates and contested judgeships.

During the months of May and June the League of Women Voters will have speakers available without charge to discuss the ballot proposition pros and cons to any organization or club. Anyone interested in having a League speaker may contact Betty Stern, 595-0016.

The League of Women Voters also maintains a telephone to inform local residents about many political and governmental matters, such as registration, where and how to write to representatives and ballot measure pros and cons.

The local League chapter recently has changed its boundaries to officially include Diamond Bar as well as Pomona. As part of the national League's requirements, this fall the League published a local handbook, "This Is Diamond Bar," which provides helpful information about that community.

Other past year's programs include a study of Pomona boards and commissions; distribution of printed pros and cons on the November water bond measure; public meetings on Pomona School District finances and the new state law requiring public participation in school employer-employee negotiations; public tours of the Pomona Valley Municipal Water District and County government; and studies of Los Angeles County government, the American presidency and state property taxation.

POINTE HOME — This drawing depicts one of the home models at North Pointe development in Upland. The three and four bedroom homes were built by Armstrong Development Corp. and are divided into two projects. One is located on 20th Street near San Antonio Avenue and the second on 22nd Street near San Antonio Avenue. Homes are priced from $57,300.

Down payments low at Pointe

A program has been started at the North Pointe residential development in Upland for young families wanting a luxury home but lack a large down payment.

"Ten per cent down is now being accepted, making it easier for families to move into a three or four bedroom home," said Roni Armstrong, marketing director for Armstrong Development Corp., the builder.

"The traditional 20 per cent down payment would mean coming up with an additional $5,370 or $6,980 on these homes. So the 90 per cent financing makes a significant difference," she explained.

The financing can include landscaping, sprinklers and draperies installed by the builder or homeowner. These extra features represent $2,500 in home improvements that can be included in the mortgage payments, she added.

Included in the price of each home is grapestake rear yard fencing which allow families to enjoy the privacy of their new homes.

The homes are located on two separate sites. One is on 20th Street near San Antonio Avenue and the second on 22nd Street near San Antonio Avenue.

Prices on the 20th Street homes range from $57,300 to $60,300 and on 22nd Street, $67,800 to $69,800.

Buyers may select from 18 exteriors and six floorplans. Each home has a separate large family room, formal dining room, fireplace, built-in kitchen food center and private master bedroom suite.

The homes also include wall-to-wall carpeting, vinyl flooring, separate laundry rooms, wood shake roofs, concrete driveways and refrigerated air conditioning.

Sales offices are open at both sites daily from 10 a.m. until dusk. Persons may reach the development by taking Foothill Boulevard to San Antonio Avenue, drive north to 20th or 22nd streets and then turn east.

Lumbleau to speak in Chino

John J. Lumbleau, board chairman of the Lumbleau Real Estate Schools, will be speaker at a real estate program Monday night in Chino.

The program, starting at 7:30 p.m., will be held at the DES Hall. Admission is free. The speaker's appearance here is sponsored by Villa Realty, 5606 Riverside Drive, Chino.

Persons planning to attend are asked to phone 627-1558 for reservations.

The Lumbleau Real Estate Schools has 28 branches in California, with enrollment exceeding 1,500 students per month. Lumbleau is author of the book, "The Creation of a Successful Real Estate Salesman."

Persons interested in real estate are invited to hear his discussion on theories and techniques for success.

Study on solar is approved

The nation's first large-scale test of solar energy in housing is underway. The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development has awarded $1 million in grants for the installation of solar units in 143 new and existing dwellings in 27 states.

The project is designed to give HUD, the housing industry and the general public a firsthand look at the practical applications of solar energy for heating and cooling homes in a variety of climates.

Opening set today for 'Mountainside'

The homes, with 1,776 to 2,305 square feet of floor space, are constructed on 10,000 square foot lots. They are priced from $53,150 to $62,000, which includes refrigerated air conditioning.

The Mountainview Series, named for its location at the base of Mt. Baldy, centers on 15th Street a half mile east of Mountain Avenue in Upland.

Buyers have a choice of three or four bedroom plans, all with two full bathrooms. Some homes also have an additional "half bath" set off the entry hall for use as a powder room.

The homes feature fireplaces, cultured marble pullman counters and ceramic tile kitchen counters. Cathedral ceilings, dressing areas and twin-sink master bath pullmans are included in various homes.

Most homes are constructed with three-car garages and one model has a 14-foot serving counter which connects the kitchen with the family room.

To reach the development, persons may take the San Bernardino Freeway to Mountain Avenue in Ontario, drive north about three miles to 15th Street and then turn east to the development.

Raking leaves double duty

He uses two rakes and two hands at the same time and this, he says, cuts in half the time he spends at the task.

"I've done some hard work in my time and I've used my left arm and hand about as much as my right," Campbell, 72, said.

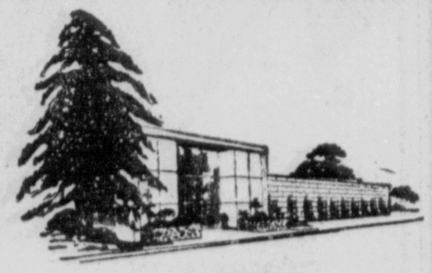
FOR 51 YEARS THE POMONA MAUSOLEUM HAS BEEN DEDICATED TO POMONA FAMILIES



Constructed in 1925 with space for only three hundred and eighty crypts, the Pomona Mausoleum built a second unit at the north entrance to the Pomona Cemetery with a total of seven hundred and forty four crypts. Since World War II five additions have been made, making it one of the largest of any community this size in the country.

For information regarding the Mausoleum's pre-payment plan, you are invited to our office. Small monthly payments with no interest or carrying charges.

BUY LOCALLY

Establish A Family Memorial In Pomona

People who buy locally enhance their own and everyone's opportunity to live better in Pomona. The amount of business done in Pomona is definitely relative to community success. As local businesses pay taxes to help the community.

Why You Should Choose Memorial Space At Your Own Pomona Mausoleum

1. Pomona Mausoleum is a local institution.
2. Accessibility within a few minutes of your home.
3. Convenience of visitations
4. Heavy traffic and distance to out-of-town cemeteries place a burden on family's visitations.

WHAT A WONDERFUL WAY TO LOSE FAT!

•NO CALORIE COUNTING! •NO EXERCISES!
•NO SPECIAL DIETS!

Thanks to a group of New York doctors, you can now lose pounds of ugly fat without going on any special diet, without cutting out any special foods.

HELPS REDUCE HUNGRY MOMENTS

"Model-etts" does remarkable things. It helps you cut down your caloric intake by a natural automatic curbing of the appetite and of the desire for foods, resulting automatically in a reduced intake of food.

Before "Model-etts" was offered to you, it was tested clinically by the doctors on a large group of non-glandular overweight men and women.

1. Weight losses of 6 to 20 pounds without any ill effects whatsoever.
2. 96% of the men and women who used "Model-etts" lost weight.

"Model-etts" is absolutely safe. It is a food adjuvant—not a drug. So, start today to shed those unwanted pounds and inches. If your condition is glandular or organic, see your doctor. "Model-etts" may help you stay on the diet you doctor recommends. Ask him about it.

You can get a two month's supply of "Model-etts" for $5.00 on money back guarantee. In clinical tests, "Model-etts" was 96% successful. "Model-etts" may not be 100% successful in all cases, but you take no risk in trying "Model-etts" on our Money Back Guarantee. Come to General Nutrition to get "MODEL-ETTS." The sooner you start, the sooner you may have the loss of weight you yearn for.

Sounds too good to be true, BUT IT IS TRUE!
How Model-etts Curbs Your Appetite.

No.787

In the opinion of the supervising physician, based on the average of weight losses in the clinical tests, his calculations showed that 1 Model-etts Wafer has the hunger satisfying capacity of 1 pound boiled potatoes or 4 eggs or 5 slices of white bread, yet it contains only 6 calories.

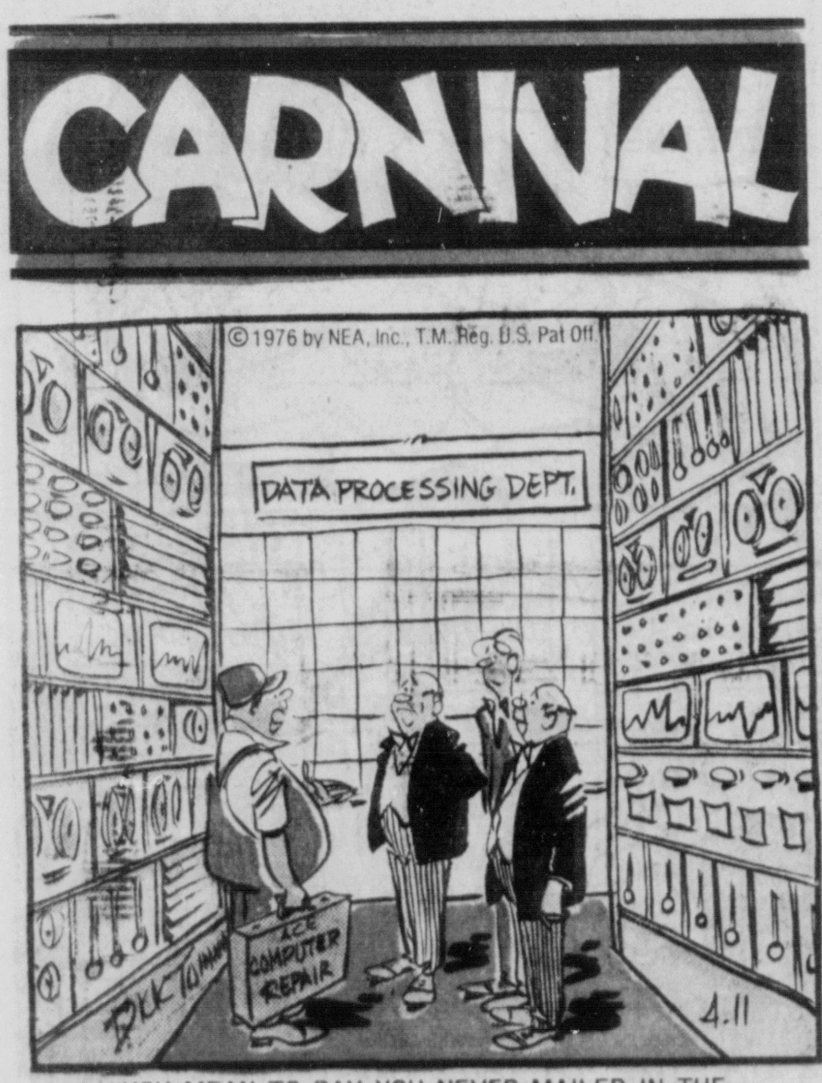
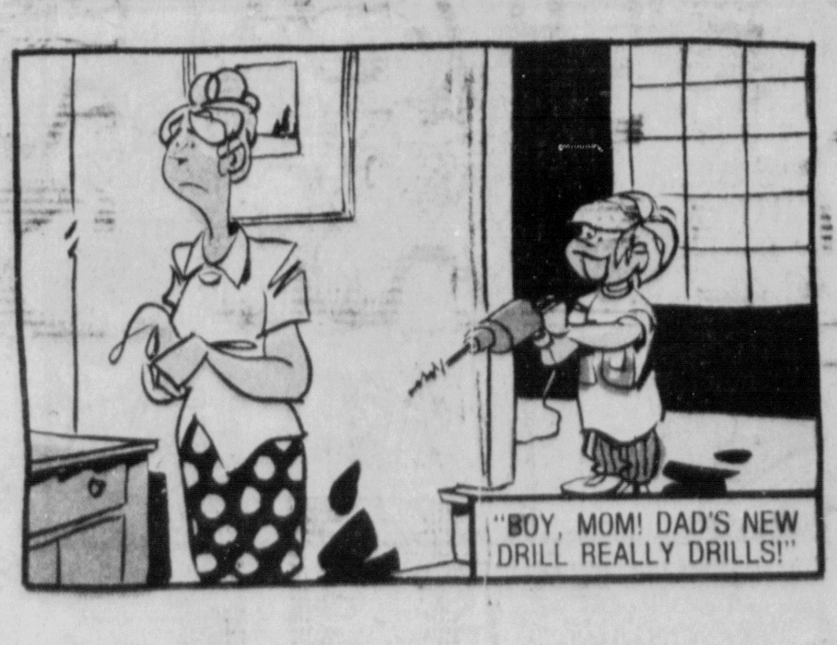
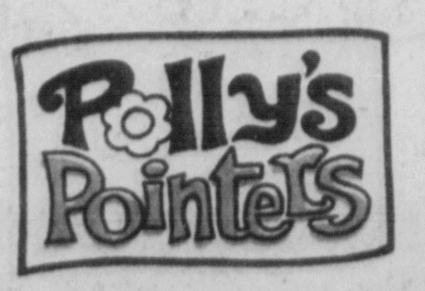
CARNIVAL



"YOU MEAN TO SAY YOU NEVER MAILED IN THE WARRANTY CARD?"





DEAR POLLY — When traveling I put a spool of white thread and one of black as well as a needle in a plastic medicine bottle with a safety lid. This is very handy for quick repairs and takes little room in my bag or purse. — MRS. A.E.K.

●

DEAR POLLY — When washing a dress with a belt that is to be washed, too, I use a rustproof pin to hold the belt to the dress or skirt and wash them together. —CHRISTY.

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, % this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY — My Pointer is a clip-and-save for those who grow their own vegetables. The first week of November I was still picking lovely tomatoes from my garden (Nebraska). Before the first damaging frost I pulled up the vines, piled them in three piles in the garden and covered each stack with an old blanket. The green vines and stems continued to feed the fruit, so we could continue to enjoy vine-ripened tomatoes for quite a time. — ESTHER.

●

DEAR POLLY — Whenever I use a new recipe I always jot down on the card any comments on improving or changing it, so as not to forget. —D.B.

●

DEAR POLLY — While preparing a meal or washing up after one, I put bits of garbage in a plastic bread bag and tie-off above the garbage. This keeps in moisture and odors and I can use one bag for an entire day. No mess — no flies. MRS. H.J.W.

DEAR POLLY — I never throw away the scraps of dough trimmed off the edges of a piecrust after it is put in the pan. I cut these pieces into small strips, put them in a plastic bag and freeze them. When enough are saved, I layer them with fruit in a baking dish and have a sort of cobbler. — MRS. R.C.

●

DEAR POLLY — When cutting fabric to make clothing I lay the pattern on the material and weight it by laying table knives on the paper instead of pinning the pattern to the material. The patterns last much longer and it is so easy to reach over the knives! — MRS. J.H.C.

●

DEAR POLLY — After the birth of our first child we became concerned about our pet getting into the baby's room and crib. We finally came up with the idea of putting up a screen door in place of the bedroom door. Now the cat stays out and I can hear baby. — LOIS.

THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

MOST LOCKS HAVE A REVOLVING CYLINDER THAT FREES OR MOVES A BOLT OF SOME SORT WHEN THE KEY IS TURNED. SMALL, ROUND PINS, OR TUMBLERS FALL DOWN INTO THE CYLINDER TO KEEP IT FROM TURNING WHEN THE LOCK IS LOCKED. THE PINS ARE PUSHED TO LINE UP WHEN THE KEY IS IN THE LOCK. THE LOCK'S SECRET IS THAT ALL THE PINS HAVE DIFFERENT LENGTHS. ONLY A KEY CUT IN A SPECIAL SHAPE WILL FIT THE LOCK AND RAISE ALL THE PINS JUST SO TO OPEN THE LOCK.

MORNING

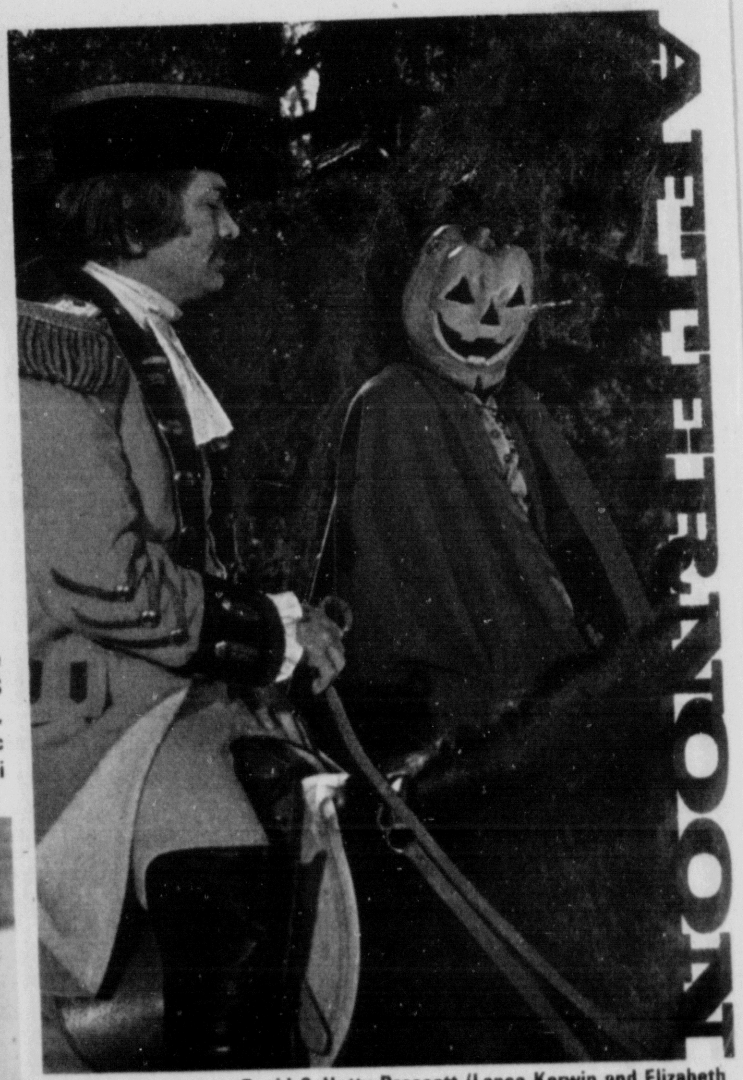
Bobby Van is host of a new NBC daytime show titled "The Fun Factory," (Monday Thru Friday at 11AM). It's not really just a game show since it combines music, dancing, comedy, a running soap opera, variety and game show elements. Contestants are picked from the studio audience, and home viewers may participate by sending in jokes, gags and riddles—and if they're used on the air, the viewer receives a gift certificate. It's kind of 'something-for-everyone' show, complete with repertory company. Regulars inculude Betty Thomas, Debbie Hartman, Doug Steckler and Dick Blasucci.

AFTERNOON



Two youngsters, David & Hetty Prescott (Lance Kerwin and Elizabeth Cheshire), living in Philadelphia during the American Revolution, volunteer their services to a cobbler, Emory Porter (Simon McPeak), who conceals his identity by wearing a pumpkin head during nighttime forays against the British, in "The Phantom Rebel," an NBC Special Treat, airing Tuesday at 4PM. After overhearing a conversation of a general in the home of their aunt—a Tory—the youngsters are able to warn the Phantom Rebel of a British trap set by an American traitor. Later, they visit the headquarters of General George Washington with information which may enable the colonists to divert a shipment of badly needed British arms to their own cause.

Flip Wilson hosts and performs in his own outrageous version of the Winter Olympics, when "Flip's Sun Valley Olympiad," airs as a CBS Special, Wednesday at 8PM. Guests for the Special, taped in Sun Valley, Idaho, include Richard Pryor, Minnie Riperton, Peggy Fleming, Olympic speed skating gold medalist Shelia Young, and the skating team of Tai Babilonia and Randi Gardner.

STRANGE PARALLELS IN ASSASSINATIONS OF KENNEDY AND LINCOLN

The forthcoming episode of "The Last Days," the sixth and final "Sandburg's Lincoln" drama starring Hal Holbrook, Wednesday at 10PM on NBC, the 111th anniversary of Lincoln's assassination, has stimulated research resulting in the discovery of a number of strange parallels in his slaying and that of President John F. Kennedy.

1. Both men fought ardently for civil rights.
2. Lincoln was elected in 1860, Kennedy in 1960, exactly a century later.
3. Both men were slain on Friday in the presence of their wives.
4. Both men were shot in the head.
5. Both vice presidents who succeeded them were named Johnson, Andrew Johnson for Lincoln, Lyndon B. Johnson for Kennedy.
6. Both Johnsons were southern Democrats and both had been United States senators.
7. Andrew Johnson was born in 1808, Lyndon Johnson in 1908, 100 years later.
8. John Wilkes Booth, assassin of Lincoln, was born in 1839. Lee Harvey Oswald, Kennedy's assassin, was born in 1939.
9. Booth and Oswald were both southerners who favored unpopular ideas.
10. A Lincoln secretary named Kennedy advised him not to go to the theatre the night he was slain. A Kennedy secretary named Lincoln warned him against going to Dallas.
11. Booth shot Lincoln in a theatre and fled to a warehouse. Oswald shot Kennedy from a warehouse and fled to a theatre.
12. The names Kennedy and Lincoln each contain seven letters. The names Andrew Johnson and Lyndon Johnson each contain 13 letters. The names John Wilkes Booth and Lee Harvey Oswald each contain 15 letters.
13. Both assassins were shot before being brought to trial.
14. Both Kennedy and Lincoln had voiced premonitions of death shortly before their assassinations.

'MISA DE LA RAZA' COMBINES ANCIENT, NEW

As the first light of dawn touches the cross on the tiled roof of the San Gabriel Mission, the morning is broken by the clear sound of a woman's voice giving thanks for the new day. The Alabado she sings is a traditional song of early California, and so begins Elizabeth Waldo's "Misa de la Raza" (Mass of the New World), performed by the Pan American Ensemble and the Sacramento Chorale, airing Wednesday at 10:30PM on KCET, Channel 28.

"Misa de la Raza" was written by Elizabeth Waldo in 1973 as a celebration for Mexican Independence Day. It is a folk mass, but it contains only the music — no liturgy is celebrated. Waldo conducts the performance, and actor Henry Darrow hosts the program, explaining the course of the mass: the opening Alabado, Kyrie Eleison, Gloria, Santo and Cordero de Dios and the closing elements, the "Anza March" and "La Rosa y la Saya." Because the mass was taped inside the San Gabriel Mission, it is as much a feast for the eyes as the ears. The woodwork, ironwork and murals of the Mission blend with the colorful costumes of the musicians and seem to highlight the music.

"Misa de la Raza" reflects Miss Waldo's interest in musicology. She is especially interested in the music of the Aztecs, Incas, Mayans and American Indians. In her mass she has combined the ancient and primitive sounds of these cultures with the more modern instruments and melodies of colonial New Spain and Latin America. She spent years searching for the rare and authentic primitive instruments used in "Misa de la Raza," instruments unfamiliar to most of us by sight, as well as by sound and name. There are flautas de barro, pitos, teponaxtles, hue-hetls and charangos. When these tiny flutes, wooden drums and oddly-shaped guitars are mixed with the sounds of conch shells, trumpets and marimbas, the result is unique and beautiful — a true mass of the New World.

COVER CLOSE-UP

A 'TODAY' ACTRESS

Brenda Vaccaro, who has earned wide recognition with performances such as her Academy Award-nominated role as the with-it magazine editor in the film "Once Is Not Enough," in a one-night stand with Jon Voight in "Midnight Cowboy," and who won an Emmy Award for her comedy performance in the television revue "The Shape of Things," is currently applying her "today" talents to the unusual role of an 1870's school teacher on the western frontier. Miss Vaccaro stars as Sara Yarnell, who traded a safe but dreary existence in Philadelphia for a teaching career in a Colorado mining town, in Sara, the one-hour drama series seen Fridays at 8PM on CBS.

"Sara is no prim and proper Victorian lady," Miss Vaccaro declares emphatically, "She is a free spirit, and seems outrageous to many of the people around her. There have always been women who never started a movement, but who went after what they wanted from their lives even if it was unusual."

Miss Vaccaro's characterization of Sara Yarnell is a mixture of researched historical fact and fiction woven into a lifetime of experience on which the actress bases her portrayal. "I built up Sara's background in my mind," Miss Vaccaro explains, "You have to have a whole person to step into, or you're just saying words to a camera, and it doesn't seem real."

Sara's hairstyle, a mop of curls, came out of Miss Vaccaro's imagination. "I thought of Sara as a woman with naturally curly hair who one day got fed up with a Victorian bun and whacked it off," she explains. Her costumes, however, carefully researched by designer Ann Roth, accurately reflect the styles and fabrics of the day, complete with bustle and lace-up corset. "Ann (Roth) took one look at my posture and told me I'd have to wear a corset to make me stand up straight," the actress moans, "now I can't slouch even if I wanted to." Other details, which may seem minute, are important touchstones for the character. Her wide gold ring and pocket watch on a chain, Miss Vaccaro says, she imagines as her mother's wedding band and her father's watch. "If I were far away from everything familiar like Sara," Miss Vaccaro adds, "I know I would wear the things that reminded me of my past connections, so that's what Sara does."

Playing an adventurous young woman with a mind of her own, even in another century, is not actually so far from the real story behind Miss Vaccaro's career. From Dallas, where her family owns several of that city's top restaurants, she struck out for New York to study acting on her own and supported herself for a time packing candy in boxes with fellow actress Sandy Dennis.

"I've never thought of myself as part of a movement," Miss Vaccaro says thoughtfully, "I've just always been the kind of person who does what she wants. I was lucky to have wonderful parents who encouraged me — even when my father was afraid that acting might be a tough career and full of disappointments, he advised me to do what I had to do. When he died, and my mother could really have used my help at home she said "Go'. I went, and I've never forgotten her for it."

"TELE-TALK"

In Belgium, television viewers know it as "Intervilles." The French call it "Jeux Sans Frontieres"; the German title is "Spiel Ohne Grenzen"; Italians refer to it as "Giocchi Sensa Frontiere"; in The Netherlands it's "Spel Zonder Grenzen," and in jolly old England it's labeled "It's a Knockout." But, in the United States, it's "Almost Anything Goes," ABC's zany family entertainment series in which teams from small towns compete each Saturday night at 8PM. American viewers got their first look at the madcap games of Almost Anything Goes last summer on ABC, and the success of that summer series led to its return this year as a regular weekly offering. However, to Europeans, it is not so new. It has been the most popular summertime TV series on the Continent for more than a dozen years. In Europe, small town teams from the countries listed above, plus Luxembourg and Switzerland, compete regionally, then nationally, seeking to reach the ultimate test — the European Championship. Even the local competitions are so popular that there are overflow crowds at the arenas where the games are held. And last year an estimated 200 million people throughout the Continent watched the finals telecast, beamed to them by Eurovision. Each nation provided its own broadcast team, so the crush and excitement in the press box had to rival that of the Super Bowl. ABC's Almost Anything Goes currently features Eastern, Southern and Western competition, leading up to Regional Finals and then to the National Championship, which will be telecast in a few weeks. There's a plan afoot to create a transatlantic face-off between the U.S. and the European champions in the future. Australia has begun its own version of the competition, and interest has been generated in such other countries as Mexico and Japan.

A series of animated public service messages designed to acquaint children with good nutrition and proper eating habits are being offered by ABC to its affiliates for airing during their regularly scheduled children's programming. The series of animated nutrition "commercials" features the character, Timer, who twice previously has served as host to the ABC Afterschool Specials — "The Incredible, Indelible, Magical, Physical Mystery Trip" and "The Magical Mystery Trip Through Little Red's Head" — which concerned health information about the human body. The spots, which are available in 30- and 60-second segments, are both entertaining and informational. For example, one of the announcements through animation and song, urges youngsters not to rush off to school on an empty stomach, but to "Eat some kind of breakfast," then suggests that "A hardboiled egg or chicken leg, or cheese or luncheon meat or peanut butter sandwich, any time of day's treat . . ." Timer notes these foods can be part of a nutritious breakfast a child can make for himself if his mother is not available to prepare it. Others in the series include "I hanker for a hunk o' cheese," "You are what you eat," "Sunshine on a stick," "Have a carrot," "Don't knock it 'til you try it," and "Take care of yourself, you're the only you you've got."

Special Poll on What Makes U.S. Tick

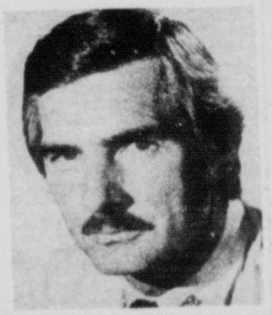
Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR ANN LANDERS

Do you feel you lost the confidence of your readers after your own marital problem?—Mary Ellen Wallace, Los Angeles, Calif.

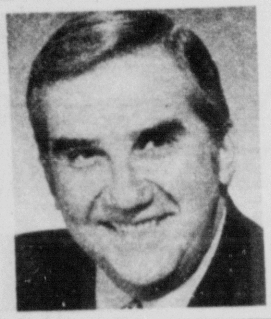
● Reader response to my divorce was incredibly supportive and heartwarming. My readers (over 10,000 of them) let me know they loved me and that, if anything, my split-up made me more "human." As one put it: "Dentists do get cavities and doctors become sick." I never realized how many beautiful people there were in the world until I announced my divorce.



FOR DENNIS WEAVER

How long have you been a vegetarian?—Marie Militello, Utica, N.Y.

● Since about 15 years ago when I heard that the drug injected into cattle (to fatten them up) caused cancer in rats but didn't harm humans. I didn't like the idea. Took it personally, in fact, and said to heck with it. I gave up meat then and there and so did my family.



FOR ED McMAHON

How do you manage to give that phony laugh every time Johnny Carson does his monologue at the beginning of the show? I realize that you have a good financial deal, but you still must work hard to force that laugh.—William Connolly, Bridgeport, Conn.

● The simple answer is that I don't have to force any laughs. You see, I don't hear the monologue until the audience hears it, and so it is as new to me as it is to the people watching in the studio and at home.

FOR JOE NAMATH

Your campaign to get yourself traded to the Los Angeles Rams bewilders some of us. What can you, a sore-kneed quarterback whose best days are behind him, bring to a team with two young quarterbacks who have won a lot of games for the Rams the last two years?—John Richardson, Canton, Ohio

● I can bring them an instant Super Bowl championship which they won't get next year playing either one of their present quarterbacks.

FOR JEAN STAPLETON

Are you as domesticated in real life as you are as Edith Bunker?—T.R., Flint, Mich.

● No, because I don't really have that much time. I'm a good housekeeper and a pretty good cook, but find it quicker and easier (also healthier) to make broiled things. I wish I were more creative, though. I envy all those women who stitch away and produce marvelous creations with their hands. I'm all thumbs. I can't make anything functional or interesting. Flops emerge from my fingers.

FOR KATE SMITH

Who is your favorite singer?—S.T., Cumberland, Md.

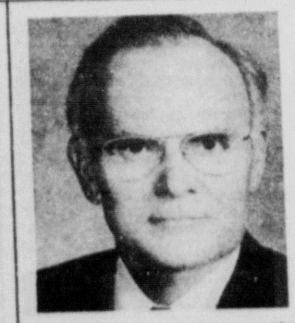
● I like them all. Every singer is tops with me. But these days the one who immediately comes to mind is John Denver. The minute he opens his mouth, you can see he enjoys what he's doing. That's what I like to see—people enjoying their work!



FOR REP. JOHN E. MOSS

Chairman of the Oversight and Investigations Subcommittee

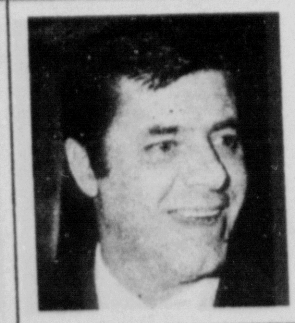
What was the best suggestion (at your hearings) for cutting down on the number of operations performed on patients?—A.K., Flushing, N.Y.

● The recommendation that independent and objective second consultations by an expert doctor be required before a patient undergoes surgery. This would apply particularly to tonsillectomies, hysterectomies and other elective procedures.

FOR NINO LO BELLO, author of "Vatican, U.S.A."

Did the Vatican or any part of the Catholic Church secretly have anything to do with the recent Watergate scandal?—Mrs. Emilie Rooney, Glendale, N.Y.

● No way. Not generally known, however, is the fact that the Watergate office and apartment complex in Washington, D.C., was built by Societa Generale Immobiliare, a Rome-based company, and that the Vatican owned 22 percent of the company's stock when the complex was built.



FOR JERRY LEWIS

Have your bizarre antics ever embarrassed your wife?—Mrs. John Rogers, Atlantic City, N.J.

● If I have ever embarrassed Patti, she loves me too much to take me to task for it, and I love her too much ever to embarrass her wittingly. Neither one of us has claims to insensitivity.

Debbie Reynolds

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

What is Debbie Reynolds's marital status now?—S.W. Florence, S.C.

● Debbie became Mrs. Harry Karl in 1960, and divorced her husband 13 years later; she was first married to Eddie Fisher (1955-1959). There are no men around right now, at least no one of a serious nature. Says Debbie: "Marriage doesn't interest me at the moment. Maybe later on, if I find someone with whom I'd like to spend the rest of my life." Her main concern is her children: Carrie, 19, and Todd, 18 (their father is Eddie Fisher). Even though Carrie will soon have her own apartment and Todd will go off to college next year (they're still living with their mother), Debbie wants to be with them as much as she can. "I lack nothing emotionally or financially. I'm surrounded by love and warmth," says Debbie.

All of Family Love Is Not Loving:

By Wyatt Cooper

Is yours a happy family?

Wait. Don't answer yet. Let's think about it, look at it from several angles. Let's examine it together and make up our minds so that we may not reach the end of our time together without having arrived at a definitive answer.

It is highly impertinent of me to blurt out such a question without warning or preamble on an innocent weekend morning when we're all on our best behavior, looking forward to spending a family day together as peacefully as possible. If I were crass enough to ask you publicly, of course, on TV, say, or standing up in church in front of all your friends, you'd have no choice but to reply with considerable vigor, even indignation, "Why, certainly we are!" Naturally, if that were the occasion, you would, by the tone of your voice, dismiss any possibility that there could exist any flaw, any conflict, or any apprehension in your domestic arrangement. Each of us wishes to put the best face on things when others are watching. We have a perfect right to do so. A right? More like an obligation, I should think. It is none of my business, and I should assume that all the folks at your house live together as serenely and as cheerfully as you all appeared in the photograph on your Christmas card last yuletide, where even the dog was smiling as guilelessly as if he'd never quarreled with a cat in his life.

Well, if I were your oldest friend, had been your roommate at school and we had participated in late-night discussions, exchanging confidences about our hopes, dreams, ideals and sensual experiments; if we hadn't seen each other for a long time, were totally alone, with absolutely no possibility of being overheard, and if I had just confessed to you my own unhappiness, and you were feeling vulnerable about some misunderstanding over unpaid bills, garbage that had not been removed from the kitchen, coffee grounds that had gotten wrapped up in the sports section before anybody had had a chance to read it, is it possible that you might either burst into tears or break into swearing and start pounding the table, shouting, "Miserable! Miserable! Miserable!"? Probably not. Such scenes probably never occur in your life. But there are other homes, not too far from yours, in which worse things have occurred, are occurring even as you read this or will occur at some time in the near future, and it may be that one of the parties to such a scene will some day call on you for advice. So let us, for the sake of your friend, proceed as if we were examining your own life.

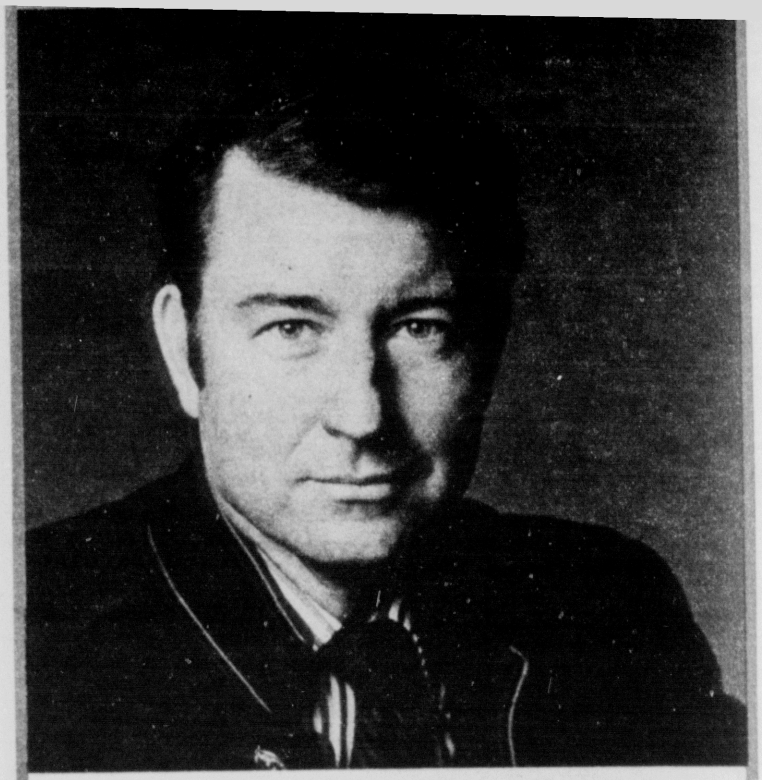
In the first place, whatever your reply and however convinced you may be of your happiness or unhappiness, you may be quite wrong. We are not necessarily the best judges of our own happiness quotients and rarely know whether we're blissful, anguished or a combination of both. We have to realize that nobody—not your best friend or worst enemy, not President Ford or the Queen of England—has a life, either individual or marital, that is total joy or total hell. Well, maybe somebody has. But for the likes of you and me, our lives are a jumble of happiness and unhappiness, as untidy as a bathroom closet. All of us are blenders of whirling emotions—anger, love, remorse, guilt, joy, sweetness, resentments, sulks—all tumbling about like the ingredients of the world's most exotic recipe, and sorting them out is more than most of us can do. We have our good points and our poor ones, our highs and our lows, and we don't always know which is which.

What am I saying? Do I really mean that we don't always know whether we're happy or not? That's exactly what I mean. How are we to judge? We generally go by comparisons. And how much of the truth about other people's lives do we know? They're busy showing us their best faces, too, remember, and we're prone to think everybody else is what he seems to be. We are likely to think that we are the only persons with secret sorrows, secret pains. Only we live with those secret failings; only we harbor unspeakable thoughts, dangerous and wild midnight wishes. And we are all amazed, with alarming frequency, when an apparently perfect couple announces that they're splitting up. "What went wrong?" we ask, as if anything "wrong" in the relationship must be new, not something that was a part of it all along.

I used to be terribly ashamed that my parents had ugly arguments. (You couldn't really call them arguments since Papa did all the shouting. Mama's participation consisted of going about her business in absolute silence, which drove him deeper and deeper into rage. On those few times that she yelled back, the fight ended immediately. I'm 48 years old now and still don't know why she replied so rarely. For all I know, the situation may have been a great source of happiness for them both.) I thought that ours was the only house in which such things went on. Consider my astonishment when the preacher's son told me that his parents had really monumental ones! From then on I couldn't take my eyes off the pair at church, all clean and starched and prayerful, halos firmly in place. Was it possible that an hour before they'd been yelling at each other over a strip of burnt bacon?

"We are blenders of whirling emotions—anger, love, remorse, guilt, joy, sweetness, resentments, sulks—all tumbling about like the ingredients of the world's most exotic recipe, and sorting them out is more than most of us can do."



As an author and a father, Wyatt Cooper talks about one of life's most binding, most puzzling relationships—the family. Below are his two sons, Anderson and Carter.

"When we are children, it's hard to understand how we can be angry with someone and love him at the same time. When we grow up, it isn't much easier because by that time we're supposed to have things sorted out."

Wyatt Cooper, screen writer and editor, is author of "Families: A Memoir and a Celebration" (Harper & Row, $8.95). He lives with his wife, Gloria Vanderbilt, and their two sons in New York City.

We're always thinking everybody else has it good except us. Well, I've been around a little, and nobody has it too easy. We're all inclined to feel locked in and alone with the secret of what we take to be our singular failure. We may not be the failures we think ourselves to be.

Another thing—today's discomfort, today's complaint, may well be the very source of tomorrow's nostalgia. Talk to a rich man and see if he doesn't tell you that the happiest days of his life were the tough ones of his early struggles. (I'm not necessarily saying that it's true. I'm only telling you that's what he would say.) If you don't have a rich man handy, ask yourself what you remember most fondly from your youth and see if there isn't some discomfort in it.

A friend of mine had an awful father who used to make scenes in restaurants. He would shout at the waiters. They had put him in a draft and tables would have to be moved. The soup was cold, the wine corked, the meat not fresh and cooked too little on one side and too much on the other. Everything got sent back—several times. And his family would be humiliated. My friend complained endlessly about his father's horrendous performance, dreaded any outing with him. Well, the old man died at last (of apoplexy, naturally), and I thought my friend would be vastly relieved. Wrong. He can hardly bear to go to a restaurant. It just doesn't seem right without Papa there.

It's more than that, deeper than that. Our feelings are terribly complicated toward anybody we love, whether it's our parents, our mates, children or friends. What we feel for others gives them some power over us; our feelings render us vulnerable, subject to injury, and we are afraid, not only of the danger to our feelings but of our own power to inflict wounds.

At this point I shall introduce a word you already know: "ambivalence"—and I don't have to tell you it means the coexistence of opposite and conflicting feelings about the same person or object. Many people know what the word means, but I'm not sure that all of them realize the extent to

At 16, I was so fat, I had to wear maternity clothes.

By Cheryl Bruhn – as told to Ruth L. McCarthy

My poor mother! She tried just about everything to get me to lose weight. Talks with our family doctor, reducing pills, the Stillman diet, the Atkins regime, sessions at Weight Watchers, promises of beautiful clothes—even insults about my fat. But all her efforts ended in my eating more. So by the time I was 16 years old, I weighed 210 pounds.

Actually I started building up my layers of fat at the age of 12. I put enough cookies, candy and ice cream on my hips, stomach and thighs to make me waddle like a duck. My twin-brother, Joe, was so ashamed of the way I looked, he wouldn't even walk with me. And as for gym class, it threw me into a panic every week. We wore shorts and I hated the thought of everybody staring at me.

Then came the time of my eighth grade graduation. I had such a terrible time finding a dress that Mom and I had to go to every store in Phoenix, Arizona (near my home in Scottsdale). But not even a girdle could get me into anything, except old-lady styles. That's when a friend of my mother's suggested a maternity shop. I was so heartbroken, I cried. But that's where I found my dress.

With all that grief I still didn't learn to control my appetite. And freshman year in high school, I became totally introverted. It wasn't until sophomore year that I realized nobody could change my life but me. And to do that I had to lose weight.

Fortunately, right after one of those thoughtful moments, I saw a woman on television talking about Ayds® Reducing Plan Candy. Since Ayds contained no drugs, I went to the drugstore and bought some of the chewy vanilla caramel kind. I didn't tell Mom what I'd done, because I didn't want to disappoint her again.

Well, I took Ayds as directed and they really helped me cut down on what I ate. By the third week on the Ayds plan, I'd lost nearly eight pounds. That's when I told my mother. I don't know who was more excited—she or I!

By the middle of the summer, I'd lost 50 pounds on the Ayds plan. A neighbor, who'd watched me lose, said to my mother: "She's a new girl! As soon as the weight came off, her mouth opened up." And she was right. I was no longer an introvert.

When I went back to school in the fall, I was even slimmer. If I do say so myself, I created quite a sensation that first day. My science teacher didn't even recognize me. But my brother's friends sure noticed me. Of course, now that I'm 125 pounds, Joe is proud to be seen with me—particularly since I have a whole new junior-size wardrobe.

Now there's just one thing I want to say for the benefit of any young people with a weight problem. You have to stop finding excuses for not losing weight. When you do, as I did at 16, there's no better or more pleasant way to take off pounds than on the Ayds plan.

BEFORE AND AFTER MEASUREMENTS

	Before	After
Height	5'3½"	5'3½"
Weight	210 lbs.	125 lbs.
Bust	41"	34½"
Waist	39"	25"
Hips	44"	36"
Dress (Maternity)	18	9-11

Here I am at 16 years and 210 pounds—wearing a maternity blouse. It was the only thing that fit!

Now, here I am one year later, at 125 pounds. I was visiting a university, and thanks to my being slim, lots of guys gave me the eye.

which we live with it, just how ambivalent our feelings are or how ambivalent are the feelings of others in our lives.

When we are children, it's hard to understand how we can be angry with someone and love him at the same time. When we grow up, it isn't much easier because by that time we think we're supposed to have things sorted out. Our parents talked in terms of "good" and "bad" and "right" and "wrong" as if those were absolutes and any reasonable person would know which was which. Life is not that tidy. Our emotions are not that orderly. There is ambiguity in all things, and the ambivalence of our feelings gives us trouble all our lives.

It comes up often in discussions with my sons Carter and Anderson. "But he's a nice person," they'll say about a friend who, perhaps, cheats at games. We talk about how it can be that we are not always totally one thing or the other and that we can love someone in spite of some glaring faults, that loving a person does not mean that we must either ignore, deny or defend those faults. We talk about the possibility that at some time in the future we might even find serious faults in each other (most unlikely, of course, but we're willing to examine even that possibility) but that the revelation of such faults will not end our love or respect for each other.

It is our intention to relish the diversity, the complexity of human nature without being too quick to attach the good and bad labels. We try to find pleasure in the differences between us and not take those divergences of taste or preferences as insults to our own taste and preferences. Anderson is crazy about snakes, for instance, but he mustn't take it as condemnation if Carter can't work up a similar enthusiasm. Members of families can deeply wound each other; they can even destroy each other. We as parents must encourage each member to respect the dignity, integrity and sense of independent growth of each of the others. We are more apt to be able to do so if we have come to terms with our own feelings.

The family as an institution has been highly romanticized. Like marriage itself, it's had a heavy load of expectations dumped on it, and it is now being attacked for struggling under that unfair burden.

We must learn to live with greater ambivalence. We have learned the hard way that all is not so simple as we were told it was. We've found romance and it's not quite what it was in the movies. Many people in my generation thought they were marrying a Ginger Rogers or Clark Gable, and before you could say Louis B. Mayer, their scripts went all awry. Those clever writers weren't around the morning after to provide cute quarrels and snappy dialogue, and pretty soon we were terribly puzzled about what was actually happening to us.

"It comes up often in discussions with my sons Carter and Anderson. 'But he's a nice person,' they'll say about a friend who, perhaps, cheats at games. We talk about how it is that we are not always totally one thing or the other and that we can love someone in spite of some glaring faults, that loving a person does not mean that we must either ignore, deny or defend those faults."

There's going to be a certain amount of conflict within all our families and we have to accept it without thinking evidence of it means the end of the world. Conflict can be useful, and in the case of children growing up, the right kind of conflict with parents helps to strengthen their own sense of identity. Parents who wish to influence their young had better rely on reason and respect to make it work rather than on the kind of authority their fathers used. Respect the child's urge to resist, his need to find his own way, to assert himself and make his own mistakes, and yet be there when he turns to you.

So, whether you are a parent or a child, look at your family and make a mental list of things that may trouble you now but that may be the occasion for bittersweet memories in future years (which, the way time goes now, will be the day after tomorrow) when everybody comes home to renew old ties. At those times we laugh together about old antagonisms, old conflicts. (And sometimes, before the laughter dies down, we start new fights.)

Look at your family and cherish the love that is there. Express it. Admit it. Get others to admit it. Love is too easily misinterpreted. Falling in love is as common as the endless piling up of days, taking place with no labor on our part. It is as effortless as breathing, but real loving is rare. Though we all do it to some degree, real love remains as rare as the perfect pearl. It's not found in everybody's oyster, and apart from those fortunate ones who stumble over one on the sandy shore, the prize of the pearl goes to those with practice, endurance and perseverance. It requires long training, persistent effort and the ability to hold one's breath under water for long intervals.

Greek Easter Specialty: Egg Bread

The Greek Orthodox Easter falls on April 25 this year. Preparation for the feast begins the Thursday before with the baking of Lambropsomo, a sweet yeast bread topped with red-tinted eggs-in-their-shells beneath crossed strips of dough. The bread is served with the traditional roast lamb.

By Marilyn Hansen

GREEK EASTER BREAD

6-7 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
⅓ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
1 pkg. active dry yeast
1 cup water
¾ cup milk
2 tablespoons margarine
3 eggs, room temperature
¼ cup orange juice
½ teaspoon anise extract
5 hard-cooked eggs, colored red

1. In large bowl, mix 2 cups flour, sugar, salt, orange rind and undissolved dry yeast.

2. Heat water, milk and margarine to 120°-130°F. Add gradually to dry ingredients and beat for 2 minutes at medium speed with electric mixer, scraping bowl occasionally.

3. Add 2 eggs, orange juice, anise and 1 cup flour, or enough to make a thick batter.

4. Beat at high speed for 2 minutes. Stir in more flour to make a soft dough.

5. Turn dough out onto lightly floured board; knead until smooth and elastic, about 8 to 10 minutes. Place dough in greased bowl and turn to grease top. Cover and let dough rise in warm place until double in bulk, about 1 hour.

6. Punch dough down and turn out onto a lightly floured board. Shape two-thirds of dough into a rope about 30 inches long. On a greased baking sheet, shape dough into a ring that measures 11 inches across from outer edges. Pinch ends together to seal.

7. Take two-thirds of remaining dough and divide in half. Make each into a rope, about 13 inches long. Place over ring, crossing in the center. Tuck ends underneath ring and seal.

8. Place a hard-cooked egg on top of ropes at each point where they rest on the ring. Put remaining hard-cooked egg in center of ropes.

9. Divide remaining dough into 10 equal pieces and roll each into 6-inch strips. Place 2 strips over each egg to make a cross; press edges into dough.

10. Beat remaining raw egg and water together and brush over dough. Let rise in warm place until doubled in bulk, about 45 minutes.

11. Bake in preheated 350°F. oven for about 35 to 40 minutes, or until done. Remove from baking sheet and place on wire rack to cool.

INTRODUCING 1976
MOTHER'S DAY COMMEMORATIVES

The Rose of Love

The Inspiration of the Rose.
The unifying theme behind this year's Mother's Day collection is the rose. As the Queen of Flowers, the rose is an appropriate symbol for the joy every woman finds in motherhood. Our inspiration, in fact, came from one of the ancient legends associating woman and roses:
At the beginning of the world God created Woman,

The Hamilton Mint takes great pleasure in presenting The Rose of Love collection. To please mothers everywhere. And to satisfy collectors. And to delight all patrons of fine medallic art.

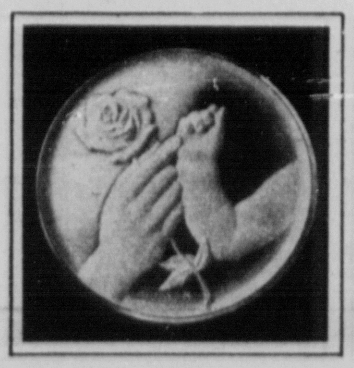
The 1976 Annual Mother's Day Plate: Love's Circle.
In the tradition of Old World craftsmen, each medallic plate is an individually minted masterpiece. Collectors may choose between antiqued pewter or 24 karat gold-on-pewter. The pewter edition is carefully struck, then finished solely by hand. The gold-on-pewter edition retains the remarkable luster of gold in an opulent satin-frost finish.

The "Love's Circle" plate depicts a delicate bas-relief sculpture of a mother with her infant. Around this touching scene, a garland of roses has been engraved.

"Love's Circle" arrives in a specially-designed case which both protects and elegantly displays the plate. The exterior of each case has been grained and hand-rubbed, making it ideal for presentation.

All Orders Must Be Postmarked by May 9, 1976!
The entire The Rose of Love collection, including the "Love's Circle" plate, will be issued only once. The edition will close on May 9, 1976. Collectors may not apply for original purchase after that date.

Collectors who wish to acquire any commemoratives from The Rose of Love collection are urged to apply immediately. The convenient application form may be used to hasten your order. Please remember that it must be postmarked by May 9, 1976 to be accepted by The Hamilton Mint.



"Mother's Rose" Pendant and Medallion.

Special Offer: Rare Enamel

As an exceptional tribute to this year's Mother's Day, The Hamilton Mint will offer the "Mother's Rose" pendant in beautiful enamel, an ancient process which enhances the original motif of the pendant.

People Quiz

By John E. Gibson

Our Common Beliefs: Test Your Knowledge

True or False? Most American men believe that they have a better life than women. (See number 3.)

TRUE OR FALSE?

2. Most of the people who believe in God can't tell you why.

3. Most American men believe that they have a better life than women.

4. It's difficult to tell whether many popular beliefs are based on fact or fancy.

5. Most American men believe that women are irresponsible, scatterbrained creatures who are basically selfish and inconsiderate of others.

ANSWERS

1. True—at least as far as city dwellers are concerned. This is the finding of an Institute of Social Research study. It was found that "people tend to underestimate the dangers and hazards in their own neighborhoods as compared with the city as a whole or to overestimate the danger of areas with which they have no personal experience." Also, two-thirds of the people surveyed thought that most crimes in their areas were committed by outsiders rather than neighborhood residents.

2. False. A nationwide survey of men and women showed that most have very definite reasons for their belief. The largest percentage attributed their belief to the Bible or some aspect of it. Others pointed to the wonders of nature, the order and laws of the universe and the miracle of the human body. About 12 percent were influenced by the practical necessity of believing in something: "It is safer to believe than not to believe."

3. False. According to a poll, nearly one-third of American men feel that they have the best life, but a like percentage is just as strongly convinced that women get more pleasure and satisfaction out of living. And a similar number of U.S. males feels that it is nip and tuck, with neither sex having the edge.

4. True. An example of this is "water-witching"—or dowsing—the art of locating underground water by interpreting the motion of a divining rod or forked stick. Whether or not it works has long been highly controversial. Some time ago Harvard University sponsored a wide-scale study of the subject. They surveyed county agricultural agents throughout the U.S. as to whether they thought witching worked or not. Findings: 56 percent expressed downright disbelief, 20 percent expressed belief and 24 percent said that they were open-minded on the subject. Exploratory experiments conducted by other universities yielded evidence that certain dowsers perform much better than chance expectation.

5. False—according to the findings of Oklahoma State University studies which employed psychological tests to determine the beliefs and attitudes of a random sample of young men toward women. Most of them believed women to be "more considerate of the feelings of others and more concerned for their happiness, and felt that women were less ungrateful and less inclined to make selfish demands." Most of the men also believed women to be fully as responsible as men. On the other hand, they felt that women complain more, demand more attention and tend to be more vicious when angered and more stubborn-minded.

Learn Nature's Weight Loss Secret Of Glandular Control

How to Command your Pituitary Gland to order up to 756 times its own weight in fat to leave your body every single day

By Joan Woodward

Use your head! Millions of overweight Americans could have slimmed down a long time ago by doing just that. For years, people with weight problems have desperately searched for ways to shed pounds. Ironically, even as they frantically searched, they were carrying the perfect weight loss secret right in their own head – their Pituitary Gland.

Allow me to explain. By learning Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control, you can command your pituitary gland (nature's built-in fat evacuator) to order up to 1 pound of fat to leave your body every day. You'll continue to shed pounds until you reach your ideal weight – and then stay fat free forever. This weight loss secret works for everyone, whether 5 lbs. or 105 lbs. overweight.

But, best of all, you lose weight while eating the foods you love. In fact, you must eat to lose weight. That's the key to this weight loss secret.

As a reporter for the newsletter "Total Fitness Today", my job is to check out weight loss plans being developed across the country. Since I have a weight problem, I take a special interest in these assignments. When I heard about this revolutionary new weight loss secret, I decided to investigate.

I set up an appointment with Robert Ridgefield, the discoverer of Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control. I started with tough questions.

HOW DOES THE SECRET WORK?

Q. How does the secret work?

A. The secret works by making food your ally instead of your enemy. There are two types of food in everyone's daily diet – 'triggers' and 'blockers'. By eating 'trigger' foods, you trigger or turn on your Pituitary Gland (nature's built-in fat evacuator). Once triggered, your Pituitary Gland secretes a fat evacuating chemical fluid. This fluid is transported throughout your body and transforms your body from a fat producing machine to a fat evacuating system. Your Pituitary Gland will work safely and naturally to evacuate fat 24 hours a day – even while you sleep.

Q. If these 'trigger' foods are in everyone's diet, why isn't my Pituitary Gland evacuating fat?

A. Unfortunately, even if your diet consists of 95% 'trigger' foods, it only takes 5% 'blocker' foods to prevent your Pituitary Gland from evacuating fat.

Q. How can I trigger my Pituitary Gland?

A. Not by willpower, not by concentration, not with exercise, but by eating. Only by eating 'trigger' foods and avoiding 'blocker' foods can you trigger your Pituitary Gland to evacuate fat. Remember, the Weight Loss Secret is a nutrition plan, not a diet.

Q. What are these 'trigger' foods, and how much can I eat?

A. These 'trigger' foods are the every day foods you love: juicy sirloin steaks, hearty helpings of beef stroganoff, spicy ham, double cheeseburgers, meatloaf, barbecued chicken, omelets, vegetables; like broccoli smothered with hollandaise sauce, cantaloupes, fruit cocktails – even desserts like strawberries with whipped cream, pumpkin pie, chocolate pudding, ice cream, and your favorite wines, liquors–even beer! You need not drastically alter your eating habits to get rid of the 'blocker' foods, because they don't make up that big a part of your diet.

WHY DOES THE SECRET WORK?

Q. You've told me how it works, but all weight loss methods look good on paper – they just don't work in real life. Why is this one different?

A. In order to understand why the secret works, you must first know why other methods fail. They fail for two reasons. First, other methods work against human nature, and therefore are doomed to failure from the start. People with weight problems obviously love to eat. Starvation is sheer torture. No one in their right mind is going to torture themselves for very long. Strenuous exercise is difficult, worklike, and boring. Diet pills leave you weak, nervous and prone to illness. Second, with most methods, the results, if any, come too slowly. So most people lose hope and quit.

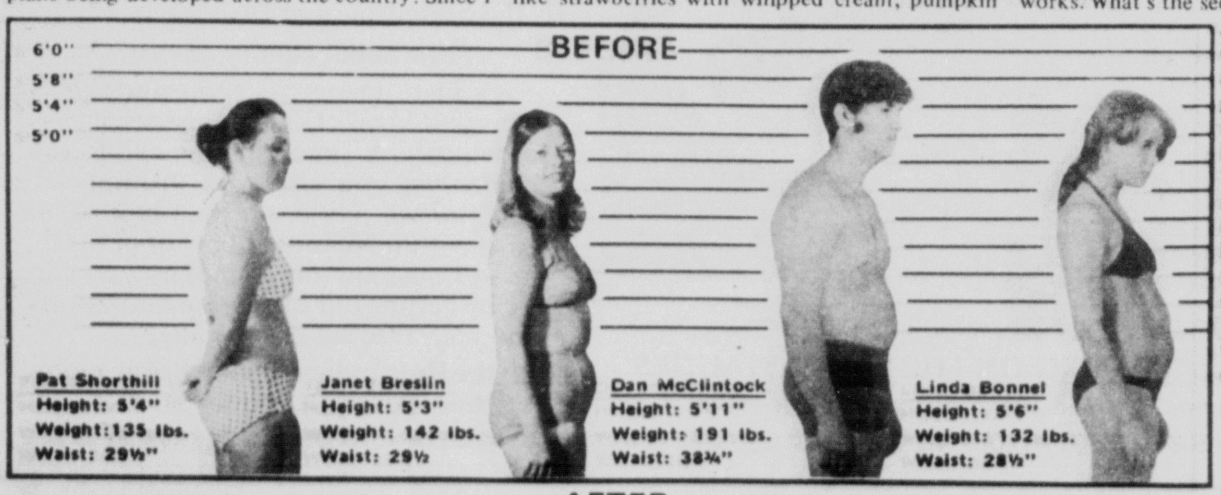
Q. You're right about why they fail. I know, because I've tried them all, without success. But, why does glandular control work?

A. Again, two reasons. As I said, people are overweight because they love to eat. With Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control, you must eat to lose weight. Therefore, overweight people will use it. It's as simple as that. The Weight Loss Secret has none of the drawbacks of other methods. There's no starvation, no willpower, no boring exercises, no health ruining diet pills, no weird fad dieting. It doesn't leave you weak and nervous. In fact, it makes you feel healthier and more vibrant than before.

Q. You said there are two reasons why this secret works. What's the second reason?

A. Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control always succeeds because it gives fast, steady and permanent results. You start losing weight the first day. You can lose up to 14 lbs. in two weeks. With these kind of results, rather than losing hope and quitting, you will be encouraged to continue and lose even more. You will reach your ideal weight and be fat free forever.

Robert Ridgefield, discoverer of Nature's Weight Loss Secret, points to the gland that will make you thin. Your pituitary gland, weighing a mere 1/60th of an ounce, can command up to one pound of fat (756 x 1/60th of an ounce = one lb.) to leave your body every single day. Since all of us have a pituitary gland, everyone—5 lbs. or 105 lbs. overweight can learn nature's weight loss secret of glandular control. The article below will explain how you can reap the benefits of this amazing scientific breakthrough by losing as much as 14 lbs. in two weeks.



Q. One last question. You call the Pituitary Gland nature's built-in fat evacuator. Why is that?

A. The Pituitary Gland was evolved by nature as a survival mechanism to keep man slim and fit. Just as your heart pumps blood, your lungs breathe the air, your Pituitary Gland evacuates fat. Because it's natural, it's 100% safe.

At the end of our conversation, I asked Mr. Ridgefield if I could talk with people who had successfully used the secret. He did better. He introduced me to four people who were going to start the weight loss secret the following Monday, and asked me if I would like to join them.

I took a before picture of Pat, Janet, Dan and Linda. I then followed their progress every day and had an after picture taken. As you can see from the photos, their results were amazing. But, they weren't the only ones to achieve results.

I lost 4 inches off my waist, 3 inches off my thighs and 14 lbs. in 14 days. My whole life has changed. My clothes fit great. I look and feel younger. I've found new self-confidence. But best of all, my love life has improved. The Weight Loss Secret can do the same thing for you.

WHAT WILL THE SECRET DO FOR YOU?

By learning Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control, you will:

- Lose all the weight you want, as much as a pound a day, while eating the food you love.
- Lose inches off your waist, hips, thighs, and banish ugly cellulite bumps.
- Never go hungry.
- Increase your energy and vitality.
- Look and feel younger.
- End your up–down roller coaster weight cycle by staying fat free forever.

After I lost my weight, my boss, Timothy Voros, the Chairman of the Board of Consumer Publishing, decided to try the secret. He lost 22 lbs. in 22 days. He was so impressed, he grabbed up the exclusive world wide rights to this revolutionary new weight loss secret. He then commissioned Mr. Ridgefield to author the text and ordered a small press run to be printed. This book is not available in any bookstore anywhere in the world. But, you can learn the secret right now by ordering the book direct by mail.

"You can lose all the weight you want, quickly, and keep it off permanently while eating the foods you love."

HOW CAN YOU LEARN THE SECRET?

If you wish to learn Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control, simply do this: Write "Weight Loss Secret" and your name and address on a piece of paper and send it along with $6.95 in cash, check or money order. (Make checks payable to Consumer Publishing.) If you have Master Charge, BankAmericard, or American Express, you may charge your purchase by sending the following information: A. name of card B. credit card number C. card expiration date.

Mail your order to: CONSUMER PUBLISHING, 401 Market Ave., N., Dept. D–10, Canton, Ohio 44702.

Mr. Voros is personally backing this book with a 100% no risk guarantee. After following the weight loss secret, you must lose all the weight you want, while eating the foods you love. You must feel healthier, happier and look 10 years younger. If this does not happen, or if you are dissatisfied in any way, just send your book back. You'll receive every penny of your money back – no questions asked.

Shelley Winters

On Marriage, Divorce And the Importance of Men To Children

By Peer J. Oppenheimer

Shelley Winters was lying on her couch when I walked into the living room of her apartment duplex in Beverly Hills. In spite of the fact that the room was uncomfortably warm, she was covered with a blanket—and freezing. "I'm a very cold girl," she told me. She sounded as tired and harassed as she had sounded when I talked to her a couple of days earlier. "I'm exhausted," she admitted.

FAMILY WEEKLY: How come?

SHELLEY: I made four pictures last year, three in Europe and one in New York. I would like to do one here for a change, but things just haven't worked out that way. I've just completed "The Tenant" for Roman Polanski in Paris. He directed the film and played the title role.

FW: Do you and your daughter, Vittoria, get together much?

SHELLEY: On my way to Paris to do Polanski's film, I stopped off in New York to spend a few days with Tori [short for Vittoria, named after Shelley's ex-husband Vittorio Gassman]. This way, she had a chance to yell at me about all the things I did and didn't do for her over the past 22 years.

FW: Don't you two get along?

SHELLEY: Oh, we're getting along very well, but an emotional outlet like this is good once in a while.

FW: Does Tori want to become an actress?

SHELLEY: Maybe she should. She has a face like Vanessa Redgrave's and a body like Sophia Loren's. She's been offered parts right and left, but she's turned them all down. She's a Harvard graduate, you know. She speaks six languages. At one time she wanted to be a lawyer, but that didn't last long. She doesn't really know what she wants to do.

FW: Are you satisfied with what you're doing?

SHELLEY: Not really. I only made one film that I really liked last year—"Next Stop, Greenwich Village." In fact, it's one of the two best films I've ever made. The other one—"A Place in the Sun"—was years ago.

FW: Do you want to get married again?

SHELLEY: I doubt it. I'm good for five to seven years in a relationship. That's all. You probably remember that after I broke up with Vittorio I married Tony Franciosa. It's still a mystery to me why I married him. In fact, Tony asked me the same question. We did the play, "A Hatful of Rain," together on stage. His problem is, when he does a dramatic part, he doesn't know when the curtain comes down. Thinking back, I guess I married him on the rebound from Vittorio . . . not much of a reason for marrying someone, is it?

FW: Do you still believe in marriage?

SHELLEY: If children are involved, yes. A child needs a name and a family. Sure, I believe in Women's Lib, but I also believe that a man has the right to know who his children are, and I think he has the responsibility for raising them, too. It takes two people to make a child; it takes two people to raise one.

FW: But didn't you raise Vittoria all by yourself?

SHELLEY: I did. But at least I had enough money, a nurse, a housekeeper and my mother to help out.

FW: Did your stand on Women's Lib ever get you into trouble?

SHELLEY: I wouldn't say trouble, but once I appeared on the "Tonight Show" with Oliver Reed. He kept needling me about my point of view, said I was a typical American ad-lib lady and that in England they kept their women in the kitchen where they belonged. He made me so mad that I got a drink during intermission and came back and poured it over his head. It made me feel good.

FW: Has your temper mellowed over the years?

SHELLEY: It has. Usually when I get mad I write a letter—and don't mail it. Or, if I scream, it is at someone who will be able to accept it.

FW: Such as?

SHELLEY: When I made "Poseidon Adventure," I played a woman who has a heart attack. I was frightened of the scene because when I do something like that, I think I might really have one. In this scene, I disappeared under water. I was supposed to come up on a platform and die. The director figured I should die under water and have Gene Hackman pull me out. He didn't tell me in time, and I went absolutely wild about the last-minute change, and I stormed into the studio head's office and really let him have it. But when I saw the scene and how effective it was. I calmed down.

FW: Are you happy with your life?

SHELLEY: Let's say I'm content with what I'm doing. FW

Amazing Super-Growing Species Soars Into A Magnificent Tree IN JUST ONE YEAR!

And if you think that's startling — just wait 'til you see the spectacular show when it starts to flower — Actually smothers itself in such lavish masses of bouquets, its branches appear to bend from the sheer mass and weight of the magnificent blooms.

That's the kind of wondrous results reported by the U.S. Gov't. Plant Research Stations . . . Botanical Gardens . . . and University Plant Scientists on what is undoubtedly the most fantastic flowering shade tree ever introduced in America — the incredibly beautiful Paulownia . . . the only flowering shade tree in all of nature that can do all of this and more:

READ WHAT THE EXPERTS SAY ABOUT THE INCREDIBLE PAULOWNIA . . . THE FASTEST GROWING FLOWERING SHADE TREE EVER DISCOVERED!

HEIGHT: Gov't. Plant Scientists and Botanical Experts report 18 to 22 feet of growth the very first year on specimen trees.

That's more growth IN JUST ONE SINGLE SEASON than even a fully matured 15-year-old flowering dogwood, or prize star magnolia.

SPREAD: University Researchers report beautiful ornamental spread of nearly 40 feet at maturity . . . packed with thousands of magnificent flowers. Think of it. Not only does it surge skyward in the most spectacular burst of beauty you've ever seen . . . but, also arches out in a magazine-cover display of color-drenched branches.

EASE: Leading editors report: Tree of unusual merit . . . grows in almost any soil . . . and below-zero root-hardy, too. Yes, because nature has endowed this landscape-artist's "dream-tree" with super-growing strength . . . because it is virtually resistant to most every common disease . . . requires practically no care at all. You simply plant it and forget it . . . it's as simple as that.

A TOWER OF BEAUTY IN JUST ONE SINGLE YEAR!

Yes, who says you have to spend a small fortune for a flowering shade tree? — and then spend half a lifetime waiting for it to grow? It used to be that way — BUT NOT ANY LONGER. Not since we have finally tracked down the one single tree in all of nature that hoists itself high, so fast you can literally measure the difference in both height and spread from week to week . . . or take a yardstick and measure the incredible difference in feet from month to month!

GROWS IN ANY SOIL — REQUIRES NO SPECIAL CARE — SOARS INTO A MASTERPIECE OF LUSH, GREEN BEAUTY IN JUST A MATTER OF MONTHS!

Best of all, unlike most trees that demand sprays, pesticides, insecticides and constant pampering . . . the only thing you do when you plant Paulownia is water it and enjoy it. That's why leading botanical gardens . . . landscape artists . . . garden editors . . . can't stop raving about its indescribable beauty . . . its super-growing, super-flowering ability . . . its trouble-free maintenance. Is it any wonder that every leading expert has hailed Paulownia in the most glowing terms . . . recommended it again and again for home-owners who want a stunning display of both beauty and shade . . . and with practically no more work than a couple of sprinkles a season.

VITAL STATISTICS FROM LEADING EXPERTS

MATURE GROWTH SIZE — 45 to 60 feet

MATURE GROWTH SPREAD — 35 to 50 feet

ZONE OF HARDINESS — completely root-hardy from deepest south to as far north as Montreal, Canada. Flowers beautifully even after 10 below zero winter freeze.

ONE YEAR GROWTH RATE — Experts report range of up to 22 feet the first year after planting on specimen trees under optimum conditions, up to 15 to 18 feet under poorer conditions when pruned for foliage growth only.

FLOWERS — When tree is at blooming size, in just a few short years, you'll enjoy thick panicles of fragrant lavender blooms. Highly recommended by landscape artists as specimen planting for front lawn.

SOIL REQUIREMENTS — Natural strength and vigor allow it to soar full forth in even poor soil. You can plant it anywhere.

CARE — No special care whatsoever. No spraying. No dusting. No special feeding. Naturally resistant to most every disease, pest or insect.

TAKES BUT 10 MINUTES TO PLANT — REWARDS YOU WITH A LIFETIME OF BEAUTY STARTING THIS VERY YEAR!

ONLY A LIMITED SUPPLY YET AVAILABLE FOR RELEASE TO THE PUBLIC — FULL SUPPLY WON'T BE READY UNTIL 1976 . . . SO ACT NOW!

Now, the price of this super-growing shade tree is not the $20 or $30 you might expect . . . and probably be glad to pay. On this special introductory offer it is a mere $3.95 . . . yes, only $3.95 for this magnificent shade tree that rewards you with such a glorious display of growth IN JUST ONE SINGLE YEAR!

However, since supply is still sorely limited . . . it will take our growers at least another year or two to propagate enough trees for full nationwide distribution. Therefore, this may be your only chance this year to plant and enjoy this wonder-tree entirely at our risk. And since now is the time to plant, you must act now!

Here's a luxury sight you don't have to wait half a lifetime growing — a matched pair of flowering showpieces, so strong and sturdy you can actually sling a hammock between them.

ARTHUR ASHE:

UPI

"The fact that I wear my black hat before my tennis hat has interfered with the single-mindedness required to become No. 1 in any sport," Arthur Ashe once explained. Many tennis fans agreed. For years it was noted that Ashe was not able to loosen up enough to go all-out on the court. He used to be called "Poker Face" because he kept such a tight rein on his emotions. But things changed this past year when 32-year-old Ashe upset Jimmy Connors to win the Wimbledon tennis classic. The reputation that had dogged him of "never being able to win the big ones" (even at age 16 he lost the Eastern Junior Championships at Forest Hills in the final round) seems to be finally put to rest. . . . Although Ashe supports programs for better race relations, he opposes militant behavior and tactics. He was severely criticized by some blacks when he accepted an invitation to play in South Africa. His contention is that he broke the color line by playing there before integrated audiences. He's also regarded it as a "privilege" to play for his country in Davis Cup matches.(He's won 26 matches against only four losses in Davis Cup competition for the U.S.) Ashe publicly criticized Connors when Connors refused to play in the Davis Cup in 1974, and the strained feelings between the two made their Wimbledon match seem like a grudge fight. But Ashe is highly popular with other players on the circuit, and he serves as president of the Association of Tennis Players. He's also a founder of the National Junior Tennis League, which brings neighborhood tennis to poor youngsters. . . . Not a power hitter, Ashe wins his matches by skillfully mixing his shots and forcing his opponents into errors. He is very methodical about planning all his moves before the match starts. He actually writes down a game plan on notebook paper before each match, then studies the plan and carefully sticks to it. . . . A bachelor, Ashe maintains an apartment in New York, an office in Washington and a residence at the Doral Club in Florida. His travels to tourneys around the world keep him out of the U.S. about six months each year.

If you have a shade problem use this rule: If crabgrass grows in the area, Amazoy will not only grow it will drive out the crabgrass.

By Mike Senkiw

Years ago I was like nearly everyone else with a lawn. I worried about it more than any other thing around the house.

Then things changed. My company obtained a new grass just released by the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture. In honor of the explorer, Frank Meyer, it was named Meyer Z-52 Zoysia Grass.

From that small beginning, these few precious clumps of Zoysia Grass spread until they built a lawn so thick and beautiful that visitors stopped to admire it.

We Tell People, "Walk On It"

Instead of saying "Keep Off The Grass," we invited visitors to walk on it. It was an unforgetable experience for them — like walking on a thick pile carpet.

After walking on it, visitors learned that Amazoy Zoysia turf was crabgrass-proof, and the next question never failed: "How can I get some?"

Other Lawns Burn Out

Now, grass is my company's business; but it was a long time before an order of Amazoy Zoysia Grass was accepted. First we wanted to see how good this grass was. We really found out!

One summer the heat was so great you could fry eggs on the highway. Daily the sun blazed from cloudless skies; the drought worsened; whole ponds dried up. Meanwhile crabgrass flourished and took over lawns by the thousands.

IT RESISTS DROUGHT, STAYS GREEN THRU HEAT WAVES

Thrives In Poor Soils

When I planted it in sandy, clay soils and sub-soil, it took hold and thrived. Other grass in the same soils struggled and died.

I compared it to other grasses in the winter, too. Ordinary grasses may die or turn sparse and scraggly due to frost and winter, but in such weather my Amazoy Zoysia merely went off its green color . . . it stayed so thick you could walk on it and not get your feet muddy.

Through zero-cold winters and blistering summer droughts . . . through onslaughts by weeds and diseases . . . our Meyer Zoysia had proved it could "take it." It had earned the right to be called AMAZOY, our Trade Mark published coast to coast and border to border.

HOW AMAZOY CHOKES OUT CRABGRASS AND WEEDS ALL SUMMER LONG!

If costly chemicals fail to control crabgrass for good, how does Amazoy Zoysia do it? Your deep-rooted, fully established Amazoy lawn grows so thick and luxurious that crabgrass seeds just do not germinate!

Your lawn chokes out not only crabgrass, but other weeds all summer long — year after year.

You will never need to spend a cent on crabgrass and weed killers again. So if you have wanted to get away from costly and dangerous lawn herbicides, Amazoy is your answer.

Your Own Supply Of Plug Transplants

Your established Amazoy lawn provides you with plugs for other areas as you may desire.

HERE'S WHY AMAZOY PLUGS ASSURE SUCCESS WHERE OTHER GRASSES FAIL

Due to Amazoy's national reputation, other grasses may be offered that sound like it. But Amazoy's pre-cut plugs look different, ARE different. They are deep-rooted, winter-hardy plugs produced exclusive for transplanting.

Each large sturdy plug contains 3 square inches or more of living vigorous Zoysia turf, complete with vigorous root system in its original enriched soil.

NEVER NEEDS REPLACEMENT

AMAZOY Saves Money, Cut Work. Never a seed to sow again with Amazoy! Year after year your lawn grows thicker, like a deep pile carpet. Defies enemies that kill other lawns.

PEOPLE WRITE TO ME

As Mrs. Harry Winslowe writes to me from the heart of wintry New England:

". . . How pleased we are with our Zoysia lawn! We had a lawn that was a disgrace. My husband used weed killers for every known weed, but next season new weeds sprang up. We dug the lawn up twice and reseeded before we learned about Amazoy. It does everything you say."

"Mowed It 2 Times," Writes Woman

Mrs. M. R. Mitter writes me how her lawn ". . . is the envy of all who see it. When everybody's lawns around here are brown from drought ours just stays green as ever. I've never watered it, only when I put the plugs in . . . last summer we had it mowed (2) times. Another thing, we never have to pull any weeds — it's just wonderful!"

Wonderful? Yes, Amazoy Zoysia IS wonderful! Plant it now and you'll cut mowing by ⅔ . . . never have another weed problem all summer, for the rest of your life!

PLUG AMAZOY INTO OLD LAWN, NEW GROUND OR NURSERY AREA

When planted in existing lawn areas, plugs will spread to drive out old, unwanted growth including weeds.

AMAZOY CUTS WATERING, CUTS MOWING BY ⅔

Your drought-resistant Amazoy lawn not only cuts your water bills, it cuts your work in other ways: it cuts pushing a noisy mower under a broiling summer sun by ⅔. It resists blight, disease and most insects. It will NOT WINTER-KILL TO TEMPS. 30° BELOW ZERO. After killing frost, it merely goes off its green color, regains fresh new beauty every Spring — a true perennial that ends re-seeding forever!

THERE IS NO SEED

Reports U.S. Dept. of Agric., referring to Meyer Z-52 Zoysia. Experts advise planting only live grass to be sure of getting the famous winter-hardy grass perf. by U.S. Govt., Meyer Z-52.

For Slopes, Play Areas, Bare Spots

Or correct problem areas such as slopes where Amazoy halts erosion, in hard-to-cover spots, around swim pools, in play areas, etc.

NO SOD

Sod of ordinary grass carries with it the same problems as seed — such as weeds, disease, frequent mowing, burning out, etc. Amazoy is sold ONLY in pre-cut plugs . . . never a slab of field grown sod YOU must cut up in order to plant.

PATENTED STEP-ON PLUGGER IS . . . . FREE WITH ORDERS OF 600 PLUGS OR MORE

Amazoy exclusive! No one else can offer you this patented 2-way plugger. Saves bending, time, work. Light, rugged, invaluable for transplanting. Cuts away competing growth as it digs plug holes.

STEVEN AND PATTY IN 1973

Pictorial Parade

SUZANNA LEIGH

Actress Suzanna Leigh didn't land any starring roles in the last year. Instead, she manufactured her own real-life drama and landed in a hospital after her sports car went out of control and collided with a brick wall. Her adventures off-screen were more dramatic than any role she's ever played: "I also had pneumonia, escaped from a Beirut gun battle and my apartment was ransacked," Suzanna said with a sigh. She deserves at least one Oscar for all those outstanding performances.

Why did Steven Weed play only a "supporting role" in the Patty Hearst drama? Weed talking: "That I found myself at odds with the FBI from the beginning of their investigation came as no surprise. The combination of my 'unsavory' background and their narrow, almost peephole view of the world could produce nothing other than mutual distrust and suspicion. But by the same token, while the deteriorating state of affairs between the Hearsts and me was a result of differences in our personalities, as well as the pressurized situation in which we found ourselves, it was also due to their particular view of the world. Like the FBI, the Hearsts are as much of an organization as a family. From the day I entered the Hearst home after Patty's kidnapping, I found myself in the midst of a conflict in which I had no real role and, because of this, no power to resolve it. To the SLA, I was simply an embarrassment, the boyfriend who had been left beaten and bereaved—not good PR for the Revolution. To the Hearsts, I had always been a source of some discomfort, but was now a considerable aggravation. Dressed in my Levi's and work shirt, I looked, as one of the Hearsts' friends put it, 'more like one of them than one of us.' To the media, I was really not much more than a sidelight, a diversion of sorts. They were quick to see that Patty's kidnapping was something that had happened to 'Hearstdom' as much as it had happened to Patty herself. What happened to me was incidental." From "My Search for Patty Hearst," by Steven Weed with Scott Swanton (Crown, $8.95).

YUKI IRWIN
East meets West

Yuki Irwin, the part-Japanese, part-American "shiatzu" (or finger pressure) therapist talks about the differences between her two heritages: "When I was growing up in Japan, it was in bad taste to display one's wealth. Discipline, refinement and reserve were exercised strictly. It's incredible how much things have changed there in the last few years. The Japanese have lost their backbone because they've forgotten about all their traditional values. Sheer materialism dictates their actions. They are still an introverted people. In Japan, I would be in a minority because I'm divorced and independent. In Japan, the family still governs lifestyle. Also, unlike Americans, the Japanese value old people for their wisdom. I'm glad that part of me is American, though, because it is the only country I know where openness exists freely." Ms. Irwin is the author of "Shiatzu: Japanese Finger Pressure for Energy, Sexual Vitality and Relief from Tension and Pain" (Lippincott, $9.95). This new form of therapy produces the same results as acupuncture—but without needles. Ms. Irwin was physical therapist for the Harkness Ballet Company.

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour

WITH MY COMPLIMENTS

Wives, I've found, like compliments
On their cleaning, cooking,
On what they wear,
Complexion, hair,
And how their looks are looking.

Husbands, too, like compliments
On brains and acumen,
On strength they've got
And lack of pot—

So pay a compliment or two;
You pay, but there's no cost to you.

New Low Tar Entry Packs Taste Of Cigarettes Having 60% More Tar.

'Enriched Flavor'™ idea succeeds–increases taste of new 9 mg. tar MERIT without the usual increase in tar.

You can write today for a study conducted by the American Institute of Consumer Opinion for Philip Morris showing new MERIT delivers as much—or more—flavor than five current leading low tar cigarettes.

Brands having up to 60% more tar than MERIT!

And it's only in MERIT. At 9 mg., lower in tar than 98% of all cigarettes sold today.

Taste-Tested By People Like You

Even if the cigarette tested had 60% more tar than MERIT, a significant majority of all smokers tested reported new 'Enriched Flavor' MERIT delivered more taste.

In similar tests against 11 mg. to 15 mg. menthol brands, 9 mg. tar MERIT MENTHOL performed strongly too, delivering as much—or more—taste than the higher tar brands tested.
